THAWING POWDER IGNITES

Hundred Pounds of Explosive Take cision today Fire From Spark-Workmen Are in Tunnel and No One Injured. Sensation Like Earthquake.

VANCOUVER, Wash, Feb. 1 .-(Special.)—An explosion of a hundred pounds of giant powder at Flaners quarry, 12 miles east of here shortly after 8 o'clock tonight, jarred windows in this city and caused people to be-lieve the shock was that of an earth-guake.

Telephone messages from the quarry state that workmen were thawlag the powder before a fire, from which it is believed a spark was blown by the wind, thus igniting the explosive. All the workmen were inside the tunnel at the time, and escaped injury. No damage resulted other than the loss of the powder.

SHOCK IS FELT IN PORTLAND

Residents of the Peninsula Think There Is an Earthquake.

The shock of the explosion at Fishers Landing, a point on the Columbia River 12 miles cast of Vancouver, Wash, was plainly felt by the tesidents of Piedmont, Fortmouth University Park, North Abipa and other places on the peninsula, and many believed Portland was visited by an earthquake. The tremor was severe enough to jar windows, rattle crockery and caused buildings to tramble on their foundations, However, the tremor their foundations. However, the tremot did not last long and the occupants of houses wherein it was felt com-menced making inquiries as to the cause of the disturbance.

Engineer Moss, who is in charge of the construction work on the Williamette River bridge of the Portland & Scattle Railway, said that he heard the report and felt the shock of an explosion about $15 o'clock, but was unable definitely to fix the direction from which the report came. The night watchman of the Port of Fortland dry dock distinctly felt the shock of the explosion, but heard no report, and thinking it was one of the oil tanks situated near there, commenced an in

DEAD OF THE NORTHWEST

Alexander Seavey, Lane County Ploneer, Ends Well-Filled Life.

EUGENE, Or., Feb. 1.—(Special.)— Alexander Seavey, a pioneer of Lane County, and widely known as a stock raiser and farmer, died here last even-ing after an illness of a few weeks. He was 83 years old.

Few men, even among the Oregon plo neers, have known such experiences as Mr. Seavey. He was born April 1, 1824, at Rockland, Me., on the shore of Penobscot Bay. As a boy he enjoyed the adventures afforded by the fishing hoats of his native town, but as he grew older he longed for wider experiences, and at Indies, but the Challenge soon ended its it burned, leaving the crew to escape in is. After three days on the open sea, mariners found land and remained in Brazil for several months.

From Brazil, Mr. Scavey took passage on the Oughtertyre, which sailed from Aberdeen, Scotland, bound for San Francisco around the Horn. The vessel had just been visited by a siege of yellow fever, from which every member of the crew but Captain Cook had died, but after the perilous trip around the Horn, which took 173 days, the Oughtertyre ar-Seavey went at once to the Trinidad mines, where he purchased some mules and organized a pack train. .

A little later, Mr. Seavey established a store on Althouse Creek, Josephine County, which he continued successively for five years, selling out and coming to the in 1855, he came to Lane County and took up 160 acres of land in the hills lying three miles to the north of Springfield, and there engaged in stock raising on a large scale, starting with 250 head of cows and calves. He prospered in this business and from its earnings purchased 1883 over 1000 acres of land, starting in that year the famous Seavey hopyard which is well known all over the North-west country. It includes 160 acres of splendid hop land and a small army of pickers are employed there every year. Here Mr. Seavey spent most of his time, coming in to Eugene to stay with his children here during his last illness.

Through his marriage with Sarah A. Blachley, the following children were born to Mr. Seavey: William C., Thomas W., J. H., and J. A., all farmers of Lane County; Anna, now wife of E. Bushnell; Clara, the widow of the e Jasper Wilkins, and Sophronia, de-

DECIDES AGAINST DUNBAR

Ex-Secretary Had No Right to Retain Fees, Says Court.

SALEM, Or., Feb. 1.-(Special.)-Judge William Galloway today handed down a decision in the Scars-Dunbar case, holding that the Sceretary of State was not ntitled to retain any fees in exces entitled to retain any fees in excess of his constitutional salary. The decision is based upon section 1 of article 13, which definitely fixes the Secretary's salary and expressly deciares that he shall receive no fees or perquisites whatever for the performance of any duties connected with his office. Judge Galloway calls attention to section 10 of article 2, which prohibits any person from holding more than one lucrative office at the same time. These two sections taken together preclude the collection of extra compenpreclude the collection of extra compen-

This suit was originally brought by J. K. Sears to compet ex-Secretary of State Dunbar to account for fees collected by Dunbar to account for fees collected by him and alleged to amount to $100,000. It was held that Sears could not bring the suit, and District Attorney McNary then appeared on behalf of the state. The defense then appealed to the Supreme Court from the order allowing the change in plaintiffs, but the Supreme Court held that this was not an appealable order. Defendant Dunbar then filled a denurrer and motion to strike out part a demurrer and motion to strike out part of the complaint, and it was upon thes that Judge Galloway rendered his de

'Professor' Chesterfield Comes to Grief When He Undertakes to Read College Boy's Future.

EUGENE, Ot., Feb. 1 - (Special)-Through a clever scheme worked by several university students this evening Professor Chesterfield, clairvoyant, was exposed as an alleged take. Many people have been ratronizing the learned eer since his arrival in this city and he has been doing a land-office business. he student in the university who has had some previous experience with clairvoyants, after being given a reading by Chesterfield, announced to several others that he was a fake, and immediately a plan to expose him was formed. Chesterfield's method of procedure in his art is to have his confiding subject his art is to have his confiding subject write out his name, age and date of birth one's paper. The professor then pretends to burn this paper, but in reality has done some sleight-of-hand work and has burned another paper. Then, by learning the victim's age, name, etc., from the paper whereon the subject has written it, and which paper "wise man" has transferred to his left hand and holds on his knee, the oracle is able to answer many astonishing questions.

The student detective signed a bogus name on the professor's paper and during Shoplifter Poses as Young Mother to Avold Suspicion.

PARIS, Jan. 25 .- (Special.)-A queer story is related about a trick that has been practiced in one of the big shops by a young woman, simply attired, who excited the sympathy of kind-hearted people, as she threaded her way from one stall to another with a baby in hor arms. Everybody made room for the young mother and her infant, whose quiet behavior was also noticed. But some of the vendors had cause after a while to take quite a different sort of interest in this pale and ladylike female. She was inspecting some articles when she deftly slipped one among the long clothes of the child she was carrying. The explanation that she was only steadying the baby and was on the point of replacing the object in question was charitably accepted, and soon afterwards she left the house. One of the men whose business it is to keep careful watch on visitors to the large shop had entertained a suspicion that the exemplary conduct of the infant was not altogether natural, and as he had remarked the trifling accident which had attracted the attention of the sellers, he decided on following the mother and her child after they had emerged into the street.

The woman walked slowly along until she reached a cafe, which she entered, and soon was seated at a table by the side of a couple who had left this par-ticular emporium a little time before her. The inspector took up his position at a neighboring table, and listened atten-tively to the conversation. There was nothing in the talk of the trio to lead him to suppose that anything had been stolen, but great was his bewilderment when the young mother, thinking she was not observed, rearranged her in-fant's clothes, revealing to view a long, narow box, which she opened for a mo ment, showing that it was empty. Very keen scrutiny of the baby's face, which had been enveloped in a dainty lace veil, also convinced the inspector that it was the face of a doil, and not a child. The The inference was clear enough. baby, such as it proved to be, was car-ried about to excite sympathy and to avoid suspicion, while it also came in handy for the surreptitious slipping of goods among its clothes, pending their insertion into the box which did duty for its body. Farmers' Co-operative Union Completes Successful Business Deal. Result Expected to Create Renewed Interest in Union.

WALLA WALLA, Wash, Feb. 1.—
(Special.)—The farmers of the Walla Walla Valley are tonight in high spirits over the termination of their negotiations with the dealers in grain-sacks for their 1908 supply. At a meeting of the Farmers' Co-operative and Educational Union, in this city to-day, contracts were signed by a large and Educational Union, in this city today, contracts were signed by a large number of farmers for a total of 1,398,356 Calcutta grain-sacks at a price of 7% cents each, delivered at any railroad station in Walla Walla County. This is 3% cents less than the prevailing price of the same sacks last year, and 1% cents less than the price of the product of the jute mill at the State Penitentiary last year.

A number of bidders were present at today's meeting, and filed scaled bids with the secretary after it was known how many sacks were wanted. The

Kokomo Woman Gives Fortune

To Help Women Who Suffer.

In the past fow years Mrs. Cora B. Miller has spent $125,000.00 in giving medical treatment to afflicted women.

Some time ago we announced in the columns of this paper that she would send free treatment to every woman who suffered from female diseases or piles.

More than a million women have accepted this generous offer, and as Mrs. Miller is still receiving requests from thousands of women from all parts of the world who have not yet used the romedy, she has decided to continue the offer for awhile longer, at least.

This is the simple, mild and harmjess preparation that has cared so many women

This is the simple, mild and harmies preparation that has cured so many women in the privacy of their own homes after deciors and other remedies falled.

It is especially prepared for the speedy and permanent cure of removerhoes or whitten discharges, niceration, displacements or falling of the womb, profuse, scanty or painful periods, uterine or ovarian tumors or growths; also pains in the head, back and bowels bearing down feelings, nervousness, creeping feeling up the spine, melanchely, desire to cry, het flashes, westiness and piles from any cause, or no matter of how long standing.

Every woman sufferer, quable to find relief, who will write Mrs. Miller now, without delay, will receive by mail free of charge, a 50-cent box of this simple home remedy; also a book with explanatory litustrations showing why women suffer and how they can easily cure themselves at home without the aid of a physician.

Don't affer another day, but write at once to Mrs. Cora B. Millier, box 10002. Ko-kome, Indiana
