One More Week
The Exhibit of the Peerless "Eclipse"

The amount of furniture we must sell in two weeks' time in order to reduce stocks to a minimum. Some of the most desirable furniture on these floors isn't selling as it should. Floor space is too valuable to permit of our carrying merchandise from season to season. Carloads of furniture are on the road, and the manager of these great furniture stocks now calls for Room! Room!!—and there's only one way to make it, to sell furniture at underprices never met heretofore. Sale starts tomorrow morning and continues for two weeks, or until every sale article advertised is sold.

Arrange to come during the first days while the selections are large and unbroken.

FRIENDS OF BIRDS MEET

OFFICERS ELECTED BY OREGON AUDUBON SOCIETY.

Body Working for Reservation of Land as Breeding Ground for Waterfowl.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Oregon Audubon Society was held at the rooms in the City Hall last night. The members decided to continue their efforts in bird protection by securing more territory, either through state or National Government, to be set aside as a protected breeding ground for waterfowl. For several years the National Association of Audubon Societies has advocated this as a fundamental movement in bird and animal protection. Over a dozen wild-bird reservations have been set aside in various parts of the United States. Last October, by special proclamation of President Roosevelt, the first reservation of the Pacific Coast was set aside at Nearts Bay, Tillamook County, for the protection of sea birds. It was decided that the society raise the necessary funds to send two of its representatives, Herman T. Bohlman and William L. Finley, into the lake region of Southern Oregon for the purpose of hunting out the best available places and securing these as permanent breeding reserves for our waterfowl. When these are secured, they will be placed in charge of a reliable warden, as are the other reserves secured by the Audubon Association. The report of the Secretary, Dr. E. J. Welty, showed that the past year has been the most active in the history of the organization. The educational work has done much to spread knowledge as to the economic value of bird life. Beautifully illustrated leaflets that have been given under the auspices of the Oregon Audubon Society in various towns throughout the state, many educational leaflets on our common birds have been distributed. The series of leaflets, listing and describing the birds of Oregon, which are edited by Mr. Finley and published by the State Biologist, are meeting the demand for information concerning the birds of the state.

Among other subjects discussed was the securing of better game laws and more careful obedience to these. A resolution was passed favoring a law which would close the hunting season for elk during a term of years. This is deemed necessary to save the species from extermination. At the suggestion of the society, the manual training department of the city schools is actively interested in the making of birdhouses. As soon as these are completed, an exhibition of the workmanship will be made, and then the bird homes will be placed about the city at the opening of Spring. In this way an effort will be made to furnish homes for blue birds, wrens and swallows that are being driven out by the English sparrows. The following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: President, William L. Finley; first vice-president, A. W. Anthony; second vice-president, Heratle H. Parker; recording secretary, Miss Watson; corresponding secretary, Dr. E. J. Welty; treasurer, H. T. Bohlman; advisory committee, Miss Mary F. Ison, E. W. Tallent, Miss Fanny G. Porter, Mrs. C. M. Cartwright, Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, Mrs. J. A. Strowbridge and Mrs. John Cran. W. T. Shanahan and Governor Chamberlain were elected honorary members.

U'REN THE STEP-FATHER

MRS. WALDO ADDRESSES THE GRANGE ON INITIATIVE.

Says Vote No on Every Measure Not Understood—Condemns Too Free Use of the Measure.

SALEM, Or., Feb. 8.—(Special.)—"Vote no on every measure you do not understand," was the advice given to the members of Salem Grange today by Mrs. Clara Waldo, grand lecturer of the State Grange. "Study the bills and proposed amendments as much as time and opportunity will permit, and vote for them if you think them meritorious, and against them if they are not, but if you do not understand them, the only safe way is to vote no. We can better afford to wait a while for desirable legislation than to take the chance of adopting blindly something we do not want." Mrs. Waldo's address was the principal event of the afternoon session of the Grange. In the course of her remarks she took occasion to pay her respects to W. S. U'ren, whose activity in promoting initiative measures she strongly commended. The proportional representation bill she particularly criticized upon the ground that it provides no modus operandi. Notwithstanding the overburdened condition of the ballot as a result of efforts at direct legislation, she described the initiative and referendum as the "pearl of great price" in popular government, but hoped the voters would show their disapproval of too frequent resort to this method of enacting laws. Speaking further upon Mr. U'ren, Mrs. Waldo denied that he is the father of the initiative and referendum. She declared that this amendment was first endorsed by the State Grange and that Mr. U'ren became interested in it because he was secretary to Seth Llewelling, chairman of the committee to which the matter was referred for investigation and report. She acknowledged, however, that U'ren might be a step-father.

DEEDS BACK TIMBER CLAIM

Department Getting After Those Who File Fraudulently.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Feb. 8.—(Special.)—In the local United States land office today Joseph M. LaFonde, of Sand Point, Idaho, was brought in by Special Agent Percy F. Smith, of the Interior Department, and deeded back to the United States the land he filed on as a timber claim in 1903. Smith was formerly a barber at Everett, when he took up the claim, which is located in the northern part of Mason County. Investigation by the Federal authorities was started some time ago and
