Hughes Resolution Fails at Union Club Smoker.

HELD TO BE OUT OF ORDER

Storm of Protest Grets Attempt of S. S. Humphrey to Commit Republican Organization on Presidential Candidates.

Introduction of a resolution indorsing Charles E. Hughes, Governor of New York, for President, threatened to destroy the harmony of proceedings at the Union Republican Club smoker, held last night in the Club's quarters, in the Selling-Hirsch Hall, on a chorus of protests greeted the resolution, and, following a motion to lay it on the table, Chairman Beach reached consideration of Presidential candidates out of order. S. S. Humphrey introduced the resolution.

Mr. Hughes has all the qualifications for high office that President Roosevelt possesses. He is a constructive statesman, who is a constructive statesman. We need a constructive statesman in the past, but now we need one who is constructive. I had the pleasure of voting for Mr. Hughes for Governor of New York and it gives me great pleasure at this time to move the adoption of this resolution.

Dr. Emmett Drake was on his feet in a moment and threw a wet blanket on the Hughes resolution. He declared it not a proper time for the indorsement of President Roosevelt by the party of William H. Taft, personally, and moved to lay the resolution on the table. F. E. Beach, acting chairman, declined to consider the resolution as this state pointed out that motions of any kind were out of order.

There was no set speaker, but prominent members of the Club were called on for speeches. J. D. Lee spoke of the Republican party as the party of progress and constructive statesmanship. He said that the resolution of this state pointed out that motions of any kind were out of order.

G. W. Stapleton Speaks. G. W. Stapleton made one of the most interesting speeches of the meeting. He referred to the resolution indorsing Hughes, but did not commit himself on that point, saying it is too early yet to make a decision.

"We had a splendid convention today," he said. "I thought have been going to the demitition low-down for the fast few years in this state. It is time we got together. These are the days when the resolution today determined to stand by Statement No. 1, went away convinced that they had been in error and that Republicans must stand by the party. The initiative and referendum law and Statement No. 1 were voted for by the people who are led like a lot of sheep."

Policeman Koogle's Helmet Found. Two small boys playing in the vicinity of the park at East Eighth and Hawthorne streets, yesterday, picked up a helmet belonging to a policeman and took it to the station. Examination of its number revealed that it was the property of G. A. Koogle, one of the new policemen, who was recently discharged from the force for drunkenness. He appeared at the station one night without helmet and covered with mud. As he was plainly intoxicated, he was immediately suspended and later discharged from the force.

Supreme Chancellor Coming. Charles A. Barnes, supreme chancellor of the Knights of Pythias will pay an official visit to the Knights of Oregon, at the Castle hall, of Ivanhoe Lodge No. 1, corner of Seventh and Alder streets, next Tuesday evening. Mr. Barnes will arrive Monday morning. He will be the guest of the Oregon grand lodge and will be shown about the city. After the meeting a banquet will be given by Ivanhoe Lodge in its banquet room. Mr. Barnes leaves Portland for the Sound cities on Wednesday morning.

their one; why not cast them for our nominee?

C. W. Hodson severely criticized S. U'Ren and his candidacy. He referred to U'Ren's advocacy of proportional representation, which is calculated, said the speaker, to wipe out party lines.

"I do not believe the man is sincere in the campaign," said Mr. Hodson. "He may want to be bought off," suggested someone in the audience. "Or he may have been bought on," answered Mr. Hodson.

"I do not want to see the Oregon delegation pledged for any candidate for the Presidency," said the speaker. "The interests of the state are at stake. I want the Oregon delegation to be free to vote for him, or for anyone else."

The smoker was well attended and was the fifth affair of the kind. The Club holds one each month.

GETS BACK HER DEPOSIT

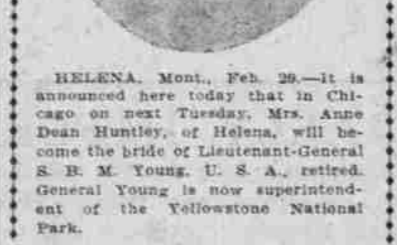

One Bank Creditor Beats Time Limit Regulation. SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 29.—(Special.)—Mrs. Adelia V. Hussey, of Portland, today obtained judgment from Judge Graham for $500 from the American National Bank, of San Francisco. She deposited that sum last August with the Oregon Trust & Savings Bank that closed its doors and learning that the institution had a credit of several thousand with the American National Bank, and San Francisco, she came down here and began attachment proceedings.

Green Returned to Face Crimes. Howard C. Green, the ex-private secretary of J. C. Fargo, president of the American Express Company, who was arrested in this city about a week ago, and who is wanted in New York City for forgery amounting to over $10,000, left for the East last night on the midnight train in custody of Lieutenant Bernard J. Flood, of the New York detective bureau. Green is under indictment there for his forgeries and it is understood that District Attorney Jerome, instead of leaving the case to one of his deputies, is personally conducting the prosecution.

of principles as drafted by the committee. His motion for its adoption set off the fireworks. S. C. Beach protested against what he considered an "un-authorized proceeding" by a convention. He demanded that the platform should be considered one section at a time and proposed a motion to that effect but a standing vote being taken, the motion failed by a vote of 53 to 25.

But Beach would not give up. He presented an amendment to the platform regarding Statement No. 1 as follows: "Resolved, That we are opposed to Statement No. 1." The motion was quickly lost. It gave Beach the change that he wanted and he had kept his word. He had injected Statement No. 1 into the convention, but he was not through. Out of his pocket he drew the following resolution:

Text of Beach Resolutions.

"It is time that this confusion among the Republicans of this state was being wiped out," he shouted, "and until harmony is restored we may expect to see Eastern papers inquiring 'What's the matter with Oregon?' Settle once for all your differences and the time will be no more when Democrats are holding many of the principal offices in the state and the majority of this state. Mr. Timms said he had fought Democrats with bayonets and was determined not to vote for their Statement No. 1."

Mr. Stapleton asserted that under the provisions of the direct primary law either of three courses was open to Legislative candidates, viz: Sign Statement No. 1, agree to support the party's choice for Senator or to leave both pledges alone.

G. W. Hodson criticized the platform reported by the committee, charging that it was "broad, wide and deep enough" for every Democrat, Socialist and Populist to stand on.

Idleman Is Blocked. Idleman then sought to have the resolution sidetracked by moving its reference to the committee on resolutions, but Chairman Seiling did not approve of that course and in order to bring the resolution immediately before the convention, ruled that it was an amendment to the report of the committee.

Mr. Beach recognized and spoke in support of his resolution. He insisted that the Republican party believed in majority rule and wanted a discussion of the subject on its merits. He denied that the Republican party at any time had been a straggler. He maintained that Statement No. 1 was an issue before the people of the state and demanded that the Republicans of Multnomah County should meet the issue squarely and take a stand.

Mr. Beach reviewed briefly the three-cornered Senatorial situation as it will be presented to the Republican voters at the primary election in April and intimated that the Democratic nominee might be successful in the general election in June.

Asks Pertinent Question. "Do you want to direct me to vote for a Democrat for United States Senator?" he inquired.

For reply, there were several hundred shouts of "No, no."

"Then you don't want Statement No. 1," concluded the Senator.

During his address, Mr. Beach was repeatedly interrupted by questions from delegates. One of them asked if the Republicans of Multnomah County should be instructed to vote for the Republican voters' choice for United States Senator.

The resolution as amended passed with a whoop and a hurrah although one skeptical delegate tried to get the eye of Chairman Seiling to ask what would happen in case U'Ren defeated Fulton and Calk. Would U'Ren be elected to his query and the convention adjourned, after the pending resolution was adopted as Chairman Seiling, with three cheers and a tiger for good measure.

Details of Fight. Beach, Bailey and Hodson had slated Frank S. Freeman for their chairman and Chairman Idleman and those who were flaunting the harmony flag, had selected M. G. Griffin for temporary chairman. James Kertchem placed Griffin in nomination, a per program. Senator Beach was clamoring for recognition, but Chairman Idleman saw Kertchem first. Lots of nice things were said of Griffin as a Republican and then came Senator Beach's turn. He threw bouquets at Freeman. This was according to what had been agreed upon. Then came the vote. The count of and G. W. Stapleton supported the Beach resolution. Mr. Hodson infused some good sound Republican sentiment into the convention by saying that he was a "Kentucky Republican" and referring to the redemption of that state by the Republicans from Democratic rule, the crowning event being celebrated only last week, when a Republican United States Senator was elected, defeating the strongly-intrenched Democratic corrupt machine.

"The Republican party," he said, "initiates its own policies and at no time in its history has it ever been a straggler."

Mr. Timms infused life into the convention by making one of the most earnest and effective political addresses ever heard in a convention in this county. After restlessly occupying his seat for nearly two hours while the delegates wrangled over the Beach resolution, he could repress his sentiments no longer and jumping into the middle of the floor and with uplifted hand demanded and obtained the privilege of addressing the convention over a dozen other delegates who were clamoring for recognition from Chairman Seiling. The speaker waived right to Statement No. 1, which he said was "no gold-durned" good and admonished the convention that if it continued to recognize the statement, the Republican party would continue to be confused and lack the harmony which was necessary to success.

Must Restore Harmony. "It is time that this confusion among the Republicans of this state was being wiped out," he shouted, "and until harmony is restored we may expect to see Eastern papers inquiring 'What's the matter with Oregon?' Settle once for all your differences and the time will be no more when Democrats are holding many of the principal offices in the state and the majority of this state. Mr. Timms said he had fought Democrats with bayonets and was determined not to vote for their Statement No. 1."

Details of Fight. Beach, Bailey and Hodson had slated Frank S. Freeman for their chairman and Chairman Idleman and those who were flaunting the harmony flag, had selected M. G. Griffin for temporary chairman. James Kertchem placed Griffin in nomination, a per program. Senator Beach was clamoring for recognition, but Chairman Idleman saw Kertchem first. Lots of nice things were said of Griffin as a Republican and then came Senator Beach's turn. He threw bouquets at Freeman. This was according to what had been agreed upon. Then came the vote. The count of the letters gave Griffin 123 and Freeman 107. There were smiles of peace and contentment on the faces of the harmony faction, but the smug were doomed to sudden extinction, for no sooner had Chairman Griffin taken the chair than he scrambled the eggs. Griffin's speech accepting the honor bestowed upon him was graceful, but when the chairman grabbed the direct primary law by the collar and began wiping the floor with it, there was a change in the faces that smiled. Griffin was against Statement No. 1 with a vengeance and he cried loudly for a return to the good old times when the machine was all supreme.

From a fever of victory the Idleman-Strike-Davis crowd became suddenly stricken with a congestive chill. On the other side of the hall where the Beach followers were seated jubilation ran riot. The harmony delegates scented a job and the comments upon Chairman Griffin's back sliding were unprintable.

While both factions were preparing for the supreme test, Chairman Griffin named James W. Sherwood as temporary secretary and it looked as if there were defections from the Idleman ranks. The anti-Statement No. 1 people became exceedingly active and they began to shuffle up to the other fellows. Delegates from the Beach wing began floating around the hall taking soundings and their reports must have been satisfactory to Senator Beach, because his smile broadened.

At this juncture W. H. Galvani moved that a committee of seven on credentials be appointed. This motion carried and chair appointed E. B. Colwell as chairman. A. W. Orton, Plowden Stott, A. J. Fanno, D. J. Quimby, P. E. Sullivan and Galvani. Idleman then proposed the appointment of a committee on resolutions, and this was opposed by G. W. Hodson, who declared the motion out of order until the credentials committee had reported.

Idleman's motion prevailed and the following committee was appointed: J. F. Kertchem, G. A. Brown, Max G. Cohen, A. B. Manley and R. Delch. The platform committee consisted of a delegate from each ward and three from the country: O. Johnson, W. M. Davis, J. J. Dunning, Ben Seiling, C. M. Idleman, N. H. Bird, R. A. Austin, A. M. Orton, J. F. Sinnott, A. J. Courtney, G. W. E. Reed, D. J. Brown, J. B. Schaefer and H. E. Collier.

More of Red Fire. The fireworks were touched off when the final ballot for the temporary chairman was taken. The Beach-Hodson element wanted the chairman elected by a roll call, but Ben Seiling, who later became permanent chairman, moved that the vote be taken by roll-call. It was Seiling's short and business-like talk on the subject of voting for chairman that helped arrest the control of the convention from the Beach men, and it helped in the selection of Griffin. It also paved the way for Seiling's selection as chairman, for during the noon recess secret meetings were held by both factions.

The Idleman forces knew that they must ditch Griffin and the Beach wing felt that if they still had another chance to get control of the convention by the election of Freeman. Soundings were taken by the anti-statement people and they were confident of success. Griffin had been harpooned until he was ready to quit, and would have done so had a word from either Idleman or Davis.

This, however, was not the noon-recess programme. They had determined upon a plan to elect Idleman as chairman and then to have Freeman elected as chairman. Some one wanted the nominations closed, but there was a howl of protest, and the Idleman faction was clamoring for a vote and after a fiery denunciation of "high-handed methods and gag rule," took the convention by storm by nominating Ben Seiling. The stampede was complete. It was a master stroke, for the convention hall resounded with thunderous cheering.

In a twinkling Freeman and the Beach followers knew that they were stung again. Freeman, realizing that it would be useless for him to go out against a candidate so popular as Seiling, did not wait until he was snored under, but rose and moved that the nomination be made unanimous. Stapleton leaped to his feet and said that, as long as he had placed in nomination the name of Freeman, he wanted the honor of moving that Seiling's election be made unanimous, and moved that the secretary cast the vote.

Kubli Made Secretary. This was done, and then K. K. Kubli was elected secretary, with Frank S. Bennett and C. E. Lockwood as alternates. The permanent organization was reached, and as a final rap at those who had been the means of appointing him, Griffin appointed S. C. Beach on the committee on permanent organization in the place of L. S. Doss, who was absent. The appointment of Beach, however, while it did not sit well on the nerves of the Idleman followers, did not affect the introduction of the Idleman platform.

The following were the convention committees: Credentials—E. B. Colwell, A. W. Orton, Plowden Stott, A. J. Fanno, D. J. Quimby, W. H. Galvani and P. E. Sullivan. Resolutions—J. F. Kertchem, G. A. Brown, Max G. Cohen, A. B. Manley and Richard Delch. Platform—First ward, O. Johnson;

Second, W. M. Davis; Third, J. J. Dunning; Fourth, Ben Seiling; Fifth, C. M. Idleman; Sixth, N. H. Bird; Seventh, R. A. Austin; Eighth, G. W. Orton; Ninth, J. F. Sinnott; Tenth, A. A. Courtney; at large, East Side, O. J. Brown and C. Cleveland; at large, West Side, J. B. Schaefer; St. John, H. E. Collier.

Permanent organization—L. S. Doss, T. J. Geisler and J. F. Sinnott. S. C. Beach was subsequently made chairman of the committee, succeeding Mr. Doss, who did not qualify.

Upon reconvening in the afternoon and while waiting for the report of the committee on credentials, G. W. Stapleton made an address in which he advocated a return to conventions as the most satisfactory plan for making nominations. He favored carrying out the provisions of the direct primary law as far as possible and at the same time maintain Republican doctrines and principles. He contended that there was nothing in the provisions of that law to prevent the holding of nominating conventions and recommended that the convention, before adjourning, make a committee on credentials, nominating a ticket or recommending candidates.
