J. E. Kavanaugh, Wealthy Iowa Lumberman, Bled to Ex-tent of $37,500.

Told of New Orleans Man With Heavy Backing, Who Can Be Beaten by Northwesterner—He Plunges Hard on the Fake.

THE BUSCO WRESTLER

J. E. Kavanaugh, wealthy Iowa lumberman, is told of phenomenon from Seattle who can throw New Orleans wrestler with heavy backing.

NEW ORLEANS

March 14.—J. E. Kavanaugh, a wealthy lumberman of Davenport, Ia., reported to the police here today that he had been fleeced out of $37,500 by a party of men in New Orleans who pose as representatives of prominent local sporting clubs.

Mr. Kavanaugh said he was recently approached in the Middle West by a man who told him there was a wrestler of wealthy men in New Orleans who were willing to risk all they had on a wrestler here, but the man who was named Marsh from Seattle, Wash., who could throw the New Orleans wrestler, and that an opportunity was presented to take a large sum of money.

Kavanaugh came to New Orleans and says he met by appointment several well-groomed men, who said they had a wrestler named Gorman who could beat the world. A match was arranged and Kavanaugh bet $37,500 on Marsh.

MARSH KNOWN IN SEATTLE

Said to Have Fleeced Puget Sound Sports Out of Big Fortune.

SEATTLE, March 14.—(Special)—Seattle reports who have gone up against the wrestling game are not surprised at the statements carried in the Associated Press dispatches tonight concerning the manipulations of Marsh, the Seattle wrestler, who has been accused of being a party to fleecing a Southern sportsman of $37,500. Marsh is recognized here as Joe Carroll Marsh, alias Ole Marsh, well known in the Klondike and later in this city. Carroll pulled off several stunts in this city a few years ago, and is alleged to have cleaned up some Billington capitalists by fake matches held on houseboats on Lake Washington. Lew Stinger, of Bellingham, well known, fell for a big bunch of money, estimated by himself to be about $10,000.

Marsh was for a long time a backer and trainer of Frank Gotch, and after leaving Gotch he tied his fortunes with Doc Rolter, the city champion, who brought out as a coming champion. Immediately after the Burns-Rolter match a short time ago, Carroll or Marsh, left here and returned to his local followers of the game to have been instrumental in the matching of Rolter and Westergard here tomorrow night. Carroll touches for the prowess of Westergard.

Carroll is reputed to be worth a fortune. His first appearance was made on Puget Sound, where John Borg started the game in Bellingham, and was hailed as the coming man on the coast. Carroll was accused of being the chief figure in what was known as the "wrestlers' trust," headed by Duncan McMillin and other of the big chieftains in the profession.

Bellingham was made an easy victim to the trust, which was believed in the United States of any repute paid the city a visit. The loggers and lumbermen paid tribute, and when the game was exposed there was no room left to wrestlers.

As in the New Orleans game, the victims were advised to leave town, and many of them did so.

FOOD-POISONERS JOYOUS

THINK THEY HAVE DOWNED WILEY, THEIR CHIEF FOE.

Howl Because Government Chemist Gives Public Benefit in Decisions Under the Pure Food Law.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—(Special)—According to a report today, the enemies of Dr. H. Wiley, the originator of the "poison squad" and the persistent foe of adulterations in foods and drugs, have forced him into an intolerable position, so that it may not be surprising if he quits the Department of Agriculture. When the pure-food law went into effect, Dr. Wiley hewed to the line in carrying out its provisions. The cry arose that the law was being administered in a hard-and-fast way, with consideration for chemical analysis alone, and no consideration for the welfare of the makers of foods and drugs.

According to his supporters, Dr. Wiley has been deciding doubtful questions in favor of the public and so has made trouble for himself. His opponents are declaring that he is a glib statesman, thinking they at last have the doctor suppressed and loaded with a burden of disaffection from which it will take him a long time to free himself.

He picked her up and carried her to his home. He found her unconscious. He called for a doctor. The doctor said she was dying. Kavanagh was advised that if he did not want to go to jail he had better get out of the way, and he went to Memphis, Tenn., temporarily.

SECOND WAVE OF BARBARIANS

Root Compares Immigration to Pouring of Hordes Into Roman Empire.

AS TO CONQUERED COUNTRY

Secretary Tells Austrian Correspondent Half-Civilized Hordes of Europe Will Not Assimilate and Only Come for the Money.

NEW YORK, March 14.—(Special)—Die Zeit, a daily newspaper of Vienna, contains in its number of March 1, received in New York today, a remarkable interview by its Washington correspondent with Secretary Root, who says in part: "With regard to the immigration problem, the United States is now in the position of the Roman Empire, invaded by the barbarians, who overrun in search of riches. The barbarians—Sarmates, Dacians, Avarians, etc.—were miserably poor and the rich countries of the Roman Empire, with their high culture, irresistibly attracted them. "The poor people—mean from the same countries that sent barbarians Romeward—Croats, Bohemians, Slovaks, Roumanians, Poles, Ruthenians, Jews and uncultured South Italians—are overrunning the United States. And, as in olden days, they bring their wives and children, settle down in our midst, pushing and crowding us, and begin life anew, as if they were in a conquered country."

But the United States couldn't exist without immigration," was suggested. "Agreed," said Mr. Root, "but circumstances absolutely require that immigrants assimilate with our Nation. This needed assimilating was quick and easy as long as the immigrants' intellect and education was equal to our own—that is, during the period when the great masses of people landing at our shores were Irish, German, French, British or Scandinavians. They came in goodly numbers and were welcome, but never represented present-day figures, a million or more per annum. East of us, only 500,000 are East Europeans, people whom Europe itself regards as only half civilized."

Assimilation is impossible. "Americans did not object when those East Europeans came in small bunches. While few in number, they were able to educate themselves up to the country's average state of civilization. They assimilated because they were constantly dealing with Americans, having no countrymen of their own to fall back on. But nowadays they come in regiments and army corps, and follow each other so closely that their assimilation becomes impossible. A look into the Jewish quarters on the east side of New York or in Chicago's Polish quarters will explain."

"Foreigners are irresistibly drawn toward the United States for economic reasons, as these statistics plainly show. Ten years ago the Japanese residing in the United States sent to Japan in postal orders $120,000 per annum. Five years ago they sent $1,400,000. East of us they sent $4,200,000. But only the poor Japanese use postal orders. The Japanese that have risen to the dignity of a bank account proudly send checks. We estimate that all told, the Japanese in the United States sent home at least $15,000,000 in 1907, which means that every Japanese in America saves $120 per annum—a fortune in the eyes of the average Japanese peasant or artisan."

Decamp With the Loot.

"I was thinking particularly of the Japanese when I likened present-day immigration conditions in America to those in the Roman Empire at a certain period. The Japanese immigration to the United States is like the invasion of a foreign race, ready to decamp after securing the coveted loot. It is the same with respect to a certain grade of Italians—the uncivilized Southern Italians in Italy. But they, even less than Japan, will not allow us to dictate whether or not her subjects come here."
