

SHARP WORK MADE OF JIMMY BRITT

McFarland Knocks Him Out in the Sixth Round With Perfect Ease.

HAMMERED WITHOUT STINT

One Knockdown in Fifth Round and Two in Sixth Make Britt's Father Cry "Enough" — McFarland Shows Great Qualities.

COLMA ARENA, Cal., April 11.—Packer McFarland, the Chicago lightweight, made short work of Jimmy Britt this afternoon in their scheduled 20-round contest. Britt was sent to the floor three times in the sixth and last round by powerful right wallop on the point of the jaw. He took the count of nine twice and after the timekeeper had counted five Britt's father jumped into the ring and waved McFarland away. It was practically a clear knockout. McFarland outclassed Britt from start to finish.

McFarland's Strong Points.

McFarland, on the other hand, had remarkable speed, his judgment of distance was infallible, he displayed great punching power. McFarland showed also that he is a wonderful two-hand fighter. He started for his man from the very outset and, when his first round terminated, Britt went to his corner with an anxious look on his face. In the second round he seemed to realize he had met his master. McFarland outboxed, outmaneuvered and outgeneraled him completely and Britt began to break ground and at times stalled for protection.

McFarland gave Britt no peace or chance to rest in the third, fourth and fifth rounds. He hammered Britt mercilessly, his principal blows being powerful rights to the jaw. Towards the close of the fifth round, a right smash flush to the jaw sent Britt to the mat and only the timely clang of the gong saved him from being counted out at this stage. His respite was but temporary. McFarland went at him in the sixth round, and it was only a question of time before the game Californian must succumb.

Blow That Finished Britt.

Finally McFarland hooked a wicked right that caught Britt on the point of the chin. He dropped like a log. At the count of nine he struggled to his feet and tried to make a game stand. McFarland was right after him, and another right to the same place sent Jimmy down again for the count. His eyes became glazed and he seemed totally unconscious of his surroundings. He rolled on his back after making a fruitless effort to regain his feet, and it was then that the elder Britt stepped into the ring and acknowledged defeat for his son. McFarland gave a remarkable exhibition of gameness throughout. Both winner and loser were cheered as they left the ring.

What They Said Afterwards.

After the fight, Britt stammered out the following: "There is nothing for me to say. I was clearly beaten. He had an awful fast right. This is the last time I ever will box in a prize ring. This is no 'Patsy' farwell; I am through for 'all time'."

McFarland said: "I can never say Britt is not a game boy after this fight. It was a right punch to the jaw and another to the stomach which settled the business. I hope I have demonstrated that I can box and hit, but after breaking my wrist in a Chicago fight I made a resolution never to hit with all my strength. If there was any other means of beating my opponent, I shall gather lots of experience and in a year's time I hope to meet Joe Gans, and I believe that I can then take him."

Each Backs Himself Heavily.

The battle was to have been limited to 20 rounds. Fifty per cent of the gate receipts is to be divided between the winner of which 65 per cent goes to the winner and 35 per cent to the loser. Jack Welch was referee. The weight was 125 pounds, which both men reached with ease. Betting on the result was heavier than on any contest in years. For several days it was even money, but gradually the weight of Eastern money which has constantly been pouring in forced the Chicago fighter into favoritism and at noon the odds were 30 to 5 in his favor. There was no scarcity, however, of the Britt side. McFarland and Britt each backed himself heavily to win. Britt having bet $1000 and McFarland $1000.

McFarland said before the fight: "I figure that I will win from Britt before the fifth round. I am going to do it with a knockout punch. Merely getting the decision will be a much good. I have all the natural advantages in my favor, to say nothing of youth. I have never yet fought a battle without being trained to perfection and I could not possibly feel any better than I do today."

THE FIGHT BY ROUNDS.

Round 1.

The men did not shake hands. Britt was short twice with left leads, and a third attempt was also futile. McFarland shooting his left twice to the face and right to the body. Britt hooked his left to the nose and they went in close. Britt swung left to the head and both missed it at close range. McFarland putting his right to the head and Britt countering with left to the head. McFarland planted two lefts to the jaw and the bell sounded and went to his corner smiling. A thin stream of blood seeped from his nostrils as he sat down. The round was about even. The men were fighting all the time and both showed great footwork.

Round 2.

Britt hooked two lefts to the body, and as they closed with left leads, and a third attempt was also futile. McFarland shooting his left twice to the face and right to the body. Britt hooked his left to the nose and they went in close. Britt swung left to the head and both missed it at close range. McFarland putting his right to the head and Britt countering with left to the head. McFarland planted two lefts to the jaw and the bell sounded and went to his corner smiling. A thin stream of blood seeped from his nostrils as he sat down. The round was about even. The men were fighting all the time and both showed great footwork.

CRICKET CLUB IS STRONG THIS YEAR

Portland Team Confident of a Successful Season at the Great English Game.

MANY MATCHES SCHEDULED

New Players Have Joined Local Organization, Which Has the Best Field and Clubhouse on the Pacific Coast.

In the English game of cricket destined to take an important part in Summer sports in the Pacific Northwest within the next year or two? Officers of the Portland Cricket Club answer the question decidedly in the affirmative, basing their reply on the much awakened interest that has already been brought forth this Spring. Spectators of the association game of football, which was will play for a tournament trophy to be donated. Secretary Cumming is already busy with his fixture list. The annual Seattle game will be played in Portland and returned at the Sound city. The strong Tacoma team will put in a Sunday here, as will Senator Bourne's Astoria team. Several of the cricket teams from British Columbia will be down to meet the local men and Victoria has announced its intention of making a two-day stop.

Following the practice of previous years, the local team will go up to Victoria, B. C., for the annual cricket week festival, when cricket matches will progress three at a time on the well-equipped Canadian grounds. Alameda, the crack California team, it is hoped, will be persuaded to play Portland, and this will be undoubtedly the most exciting game of the series.

Many of the players are men with records and "averages." Gregg, one of the players this year, being credited with having bowled out the whole Portland team in 18 runs. Gregg is a Canadian and formerly played for one of the British Columbian teams. Fenwick, Rylance, Mills and Smith are the men the club puts faith in as wielders of the willow, while Craig and Bailey are put down as the crack trundlers.

"Undoubtedly this will be the most successful year in the club's history," said W. G. Smith, one of the veteran cricketers of Portland, "as we have many new men as well as the cream of our former players. In four years we have been held down by lack of suitable ground, but we can now forge ahead. Our pavilion is better than any other similar clubhouse on the Coast, and certainly no cricket clubhouse can approach it. In previous years we have had to admit our lack of batting strength, but our new acquisitions have given any doubt on that score. The club rolls stand at present at over 70, and with those who have applied for admission, will be well over 100 before the season is far advanced."

THANKS GOD FOR ROMANCE

President Smith, of Mormon Church, Discusses Divorce Evil.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 11.—The reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, continued its annual conference at Independence today. The divorce question was disposed of yesterday after an interesting debate and by the refusal to adopt a resolution forbidding the ministry to marry divorcees. President Joseph Smith spoke at length, being opposed to undertaking legislative enactment against possible contingencies in the marriage and divorce laws. He questioned restrictive measures which might be injurious and unjust to innocent men and women. Marriage was a mutual contract, he said. "Suppose," said the president, "by reason of my friendliness I was driven from home with a broomstick, where would the marriage contract be?" President Smith referred to cases of insanity and alluded to the Thaw case in New York.

There is not a man who has married in his youth who was not captured by a dimple, a bright lock, a toss of the head, who is not and cannot be held yet by the same dimple, the same toss of the head. They call it romance. Thank God there is so much romance in the world."

DECLARES WIFE DRUNKARD

Abusive During Frequent Speeches, Says William Bacon.

Two husbands sought release from galling matrimonial ties in the Circuit Court yesterday. William Bacon, who married Margaret Bacon of Jersey City in 1888, says she has since developed into a habitual "consumer of spirituous liquors and indulges said habit to excess, resulting in frequent speeches, during which she is very abusive in her conduct." They have six children, the eldest 16 and the youngest 3 years. She is not a fit person to have charge of the children, Bacon avers in his complaint. Life has become painful to him and to the children, he asks a divorce and custody of all the children. W. M. Winans wishes a divorce from Blanche Winans because she left him a few weeks after their marriage. The knot was tied in April of 1906. In July she left him. He has been trying to lure her back, but she has steadily refused to come, and, tiring of an absent-treatment wife, he asks the divorce.

PRINCETON, April 11.—In a dual gunshoot here today, Harvard defeated Princeton, 193 birds to 190. The high wind made shooting very difficult. If you will bring $10 along you may bid the bargain for the purchase of a 1900 Evanston lot. It makes no difference which way you go, there are no values that will compare with Evanston. Up till this year the mainstay of the club has been its bowlers. In fact the members were decidedly inferior to visiting teams, and this has in many cases cost matches. Among the members of this year will be found probably the best bowlers in the United States, and the club is very proud of this fact. More than one of the club's playing members has been tried for his county to play for his county, being accounted the chief honor to which an English cricketer may aspire—and these, if their play at the club practice nets counts for anything, will put the club in the forefront of the Pacific organizations.

Following the example set by the association football teams, the playing members of the club will divide up into three teams, to be selected by respective captains. The skippers already selected are Fenwick, Brown and Smith, and under them the three teams

FINE BOSTON TERRIER WILL BE ENTERED IN BENCH SHOW

Remorse, Owned by L. W. Kinney, of Portland.

Lovers of fine-bred dogs will notice that the Boston Terrier is not only taking the lead in Eastern cities, but in Portland also. Another fine specimen just imported from Vermont is Remorse, registered No. 87,845, which will without doubt take his place among blooded stock in the coming bench show. Remorse is a descendant of Champion Steven's Rex, champion Buster, champion Monte, Roxie, Cullen's Judy and Goodie's Maggie, which will be recognized by those acquainted with Boston Terriers as being famous prizewinners in the past. Remorse, being a male, will never be shown but once, and then as a seven-months-old puppy won three prizes among 75 competitors in the heart of the Boston Terrier section. This valuable dog was imported by its present owner, L. W. Kinney, of this city.

Club Has Fine Field.

Up till recent years the game has never taken firm hold in Portland. While the club has been established since 1896, it is only within recent years and with the accession of a lot of new blood, that the club has really begun to show its powers of expansion. Probably one of the principal factors in keeping the club down has been the lack of a suitable field. For many seasons the club played on the Portland golf grounds, and while it could rent, last year the more progressive spirits in the club decided to incorporate for $5000, thus being enabled to purchase the land on which the club recently refused an offer of $15,000. The club can therefore be considered on a satisfactory financial basis and while not at present running into any unnecessary expenditure, is well able to keep its head above water.

If the enthusiasm displayed at the recent club dinner, held to welcome a large number of new members, is any criterion, the present season will more than make up for the losses of the past. More than this the club has every faith in its officers, and in a whole-hearted way, is backing up its captain, E. Fenwick.

After being undisturbed throughout the Winter, the turf at Montavilla is in excellent condition, and although it will not stand hard usage like the historic English cricket grounds, it is considered by experts to be better than any other grounds on the Coast. The pitch is formed by a strip of cocoanut matting and takes the form of a bowler's runners less than the bowlers.

Batting List Strengthened.

Up till this year the mainstay of the club has been its bowlers. In fact the members were decidedly inferior to visiting teams, and this has in many cases cost matches. Among the members of this year will be found probably the best bowlers in the United States, and the club is very proud of this fact.
