WOULD BE REPRESENTED
 British Columbia Wants Voice in Fisheries Commission.

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 18.—The commercial fisheries interests of Vancouver, Victoria and other Coast cities are demanding that in the naming of the Joint Fisheries Commission which has been arranged between Canada and the United States, British Columbia be given at least one representative. An announced in the press recently, this international body is to be appointed for the purpose of aiding in the conservation of all kinds of fisheries in waters contiguous to both countries. The salmon canneries of Vancouver and Victoria declare that the speckle fisheries of the Fraser River and Gulf of Georgia are in dire need of protection by both the Canadian and United States authorities and that a joint commission will find plenty of work to do on this coast.

DROPS THE LAND-FRAUD SUIT
 Government Will Not Prosecute Major Chittenden and Brother.

SEATTLE, April 18.—The Attorney-General of the United States, at the request of the Secretary of the Interior, has ordered the District Attorney for the western district of Washington to withdraw the suit commenced by the Government against Major H. M. Chittenden, Corps of Engineers, U. S. A., and his brother, Charles C. Chittenden, for conspiracy in land frauds in the State of Washington. Further investigation by the Secretary had shown that there was no foundation for the case, and his letter to the Attorney-General requesting dismissal of the suit fully exonerated the Chittendens from any wrongdoing.

JOHN N. BALDWIN DEAD
 Was for Many Years Legal Adviser of Union Pacific.

OMAHA, April 18.—(Special.)—John N. Baldwin, for 25 years connected with the legal department of the Union Pacific Railroad, and for the past two years its general solicitor, died at his home in this city at midnight of bright's disease, aged 50 years. Mr. Baldwin had suffered from the disease for two years, but not until six months ago was he prostrated from giving full attention to his official duties. Ten days ago he was forced to take to his bed.
 Mr. Baldwin's rise was remarkable. He began his career in a most humble manner in Council Bluffs 30 years ago. From local attorney in that city he was promoted successively to larger jurisdictions until two years ago he became head of the legal department of the entire road. As an orator and successful corporation attorney, few lawyers of the country enjoyed a higher reputation. He was active in politics for many years, especially in Iowa and Nebraska, although he took part as adviser in campaigns in many states through which the Union Pacific passes. He never accepted to office himself, confining his efforts to securing results for the corporation he represented.
 Mr. Baldwin was chief counsel for James Boyle in his famous suit against James Burns for $1,000,000 share in the Portland mine, which case is still in the Iowa courts.

WINNIPEG, Man., April 18.—A federation of all the union men employed in the shops of the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian Northern Railroads was completed today. They will fight the reductions in the new schedule to a finish. The companies claim they are not going to pay all of the men the same wages, but will pay according to individual work. The same action, it is said, will be taken by all of the American railroads. This is the beginning of a big fight between all the unions and the railways.

Most Rev. W. G. Messer, of Milwaukee, Says Conditions Point to Repetition of Course Taken in France.

MILWAUKEE, April 18.—The disestablishment of the Catholic Church in Italy within a few years was predicted by Most Rev. Sebastian G. Messer, Archbishop of Milwaukee, in an interview today. Everything now, he said, points to that event. The government is distinctly unfriendly to the church, and the church, having no voice in national matters, is

Archbishop Messer, "to see a disestablishment of the church in Italy within a few years. Everything now points to it. This government is anything but friendly to the church and from late indications I believe that it is intent upon some such action as has already taken place in France. The government has for years been the enemy of the church. Catholics in Italy, by papal decree, are barred from voting on national questions and there is no one in the government favorable to the church."

"It is true," continued Archbishop Messer, in commenting upon Mr. Wright's statement, "that a large portion of the people of Italy seem to be drifting away from the church, many of them into infidelity."
 "This is due to two causes: First, to the fact that in the universities and other higher institutions freethinkers are appointed to the professorships and the works of the so-called German philosophers, which tend to infidelity, or at least to a denial of Christianity, are translated into Italian and taught in these institutions. Thus infidelity is being sown broadcast among the upper classes."
 "The second reason for the religious indifference—and here I am speaking only of Southern Europe—is the neglect of the clergy to give the people proper relief in legislation. The people are ignorant of the principles of their religion. They don't understand it, they have gone to church from habit and not from principle and consequently they have drifted away since the anti-religious sentiment has gone abroad in the land."

VICTIMS OF RECENT MARSHFIELD TRAGEDY

JOHN GRILLE, WHO SHOT AND KILLED HIS SWEETHEART, ORA ROBY, AND THEN TURNED THE GUN ON HIMSELF, WITH FATAL RESULTS.

MARSHFIELD, Or., April 18.—The tragedy of the night of April 15, in which John Grille shot and killed Ora Roby and then turned the gun on himself, is the most sensational affair that has occurred here for a long time. The young people were well and favorably known here and had added interest to the affair.

Young Grille and the girl had known each other but three months, but Grille had become deeply infatuated and desired to marry Miss Roby. Her mother, however, thought they had not been acquainted long enough. The young man became desperate, and that he intended to commit the deed is evidenced from the fact that he left a note to his mother, closing his letter with the words: "She tried to shake me, but couldn't. If I can't have her, nobody else will."
 Miss Roby was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. Roby, was 22 years old, and an especially attractive and likable girl. Her family had only recently come from Salem, where she will be buried. Young Grille was the son of Mrs. M. M. Murphy, of this city. He was 21 years old and an expert molder, being employed at the Nelson Iron Works.

Born With the Sea Tang in His Nostrils

Young Captain Thomas Stream, Hero of Many Adventures—Wife Shares His Hazardous Life.

ABERDEEN, Wash., April 18.—(Special.)—Captain Thomas Stream, of the schooner W. G. Watson, recently acquitted by a jury in the Superior Court in Montesano of the charge of assault with intent to kill Albert Heilig, a sailor on the Watson, has passed through a number of thrilling experiences, although he is just past his 25th year. His wife, a few years younger, and a slender little woman, has been with her husband through each of his hairbreadth escapes and was present at the trial, which meant a term of imprisonment if the case had gone the other way.

Captain Stream is the son of Captain A. T. Stream, a well-known commander on the Pacific Coast, from whom the younger man inherits his love for the sea.
 Captain Tom Stream started his career as a seafaring individual when only 14 years old, when he went as a cook on a vessel to Alaska. Later on he was in the United States Government transport service and that secured in difficult capacities on coastwise vessels. At the early age of 21 he received his master's papers, passing a first-class examination. His first command was the tug "Cody," which plied on Grays Harbor. From the "Cody" he went to the powerful tug "Daring," and then became master of the schooner "Abbie."

On the last day of December, 1901, he was married at San Francisco, and on January 1, 1902, with his bride, took passage on the steamer Walla Walla, sailing from San Francisco to Seattle. The Walla Walla foundered and Captain Stream and his wife were 20 hours on the open sea in a lifeboat before being picked up. Fifty days the pair went down with the steamer. Captain Stream and his wife lost all their clothing and their wedding presents.
 In 1903 Captain Stream was part owner and commander of the schooner Emma Claudia, which had to be abandoned off the Washington coast. Mrs. Stream was with her husband and was placed in a yawl in a raging sea and transferred to the schooner Mary Winkelman, which stood by. A sensational story to the effect that Mrs. Stream was lashed to a mast and sent adrift to be picked up by the Winkelman was sent out to the newspapers, but even though the sea was terribly rough Mrs. Stream did not wet her feet in making the transfer. It was six days later when she again met her husband, who, with other members of the crew of the Emma Claudia, was found later on the shore at the Quinalt Indian Agency. Captain and Mrs. Stream again lost all of their personal effects in the Claudia wreck.
 The shooting affray on the schooner Watson occurred while Mrs. Stream was aboard. Mrs. Stream is a talented young woman and on account of her several experiences has now no fear of the seafaring life, going with her husband on every voyage he has made so far. The Watson is probably the only small sailing vessel on the Coast with a piano in the cabin, but inasmuch as Mrs. Stream is a musician the piano helps to while away a few hours of the dull monotony of an ocean voyage on a sailing craft. The Watson sailed from Grays Harbor Friday morning, March 27, and Mrs. Stream was on board. Captain Stream is not only young but one of the handsomest of men.

Difficulty Repairing Cable.
SEATTLE, April 18.—The cable ship Burnside returned from Alaska after having repaired the United States cable between Sitka and Valdez which was injured by a submarine earthquake about a month ago. Terrific storms prevented the work being accomplished sooner. The Burnside frequently had to drop the cable and make for shelter. Instead of being torn apart, as in previous earthquakes, the floor of the ocean contracted in this instance, causing the insulation on the cable to buckle. The injuries cover a distance of about 30 miles, and the depth of the water ranged from 200 to 900 fathoms.
