How he decides upon the plans for his coming campaign. He is taking his victory over Senator Charles W. Fulton quietly and attributes his nomination to the reformation of the party to "old-fashioned" ways. Mr. Cake is pleased with the results of his campaign and is proud of the fact that it was conducted throughout without the usual campaign mud-slinging and unpleasant personalities.

Mr. CAKE'S future plans will depend largely upon the wishes of the State Central Committee. It is his desire to make a thorough canvass of the state.
