Second Defalcation of Pittsburg Cashier Found.

GOES TO JAIL; NO SECURITY

First Bondsman Surrenders Him. Uses Paper as Collateral for Personal Loans for Benefit of Others—Many Recovered.

PITTSBURG, May 16.—The discovery that valuable securities were missing from the vaults of the Allegheny National Bank resulted today in National Bank Examiner Folds making a second information against William Montgomery, the former cashier of that institution, charging him with misapplication of bonds belonging to the bank valued at $25,000.

The bonds which Montgomery is alleged to have misapplied are said to have been left with the bank as collateral for loans of customers and are claimed gilded securities.

The charge is made that Montgomery followed the same methods used by T. Lee Clarke, ex-cashier of the Enterprise National Bank, who states that he used the bonds as collateral for personal loans for the benefit of others, thus re-hypothecating them.

Examiner Folds stated tonight that he had already recovered a number of the bonds and he knew where most of the others were.

Before going to jail this evening Montgomery exonerated all the other employees of the bank in the matter of the defalcation. He said that none of them had anything to do with it.

While Montgomery has mentioned some persons outside of the bank as having been connected with him in some of his deals, it is understood their relation to the deals was not such as to warrant the inclusion of them in the prosecution. Montgomery has practically assumed all the responsibility.

DEBATE ON SINGLE TAX

E. S. J. McALLISTER AND JUDGE M. C. GEORGE MEET.

Former Upholds Proposed Amendment to the State Constitution.

E. S. J. McAllister, a strong adherent of the proposed single tax amendment to the state constitution, engaged in a debate with Judge M. C. George, at a public measure, in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium last night. The house was crowded to overflowing and after the principals had finished their arguments all the members of the audience who so desired were given three minutes each in which to express their views.

Mr. McAllister made the opening address. The drift of his argument was strongly toward socialism. He urged the adoption of the proposed amendment and throughout his address outlined the doctrine of Henry George. He was loudly applauded at the close of his address.

Judge George followed and at once proceeded to strongly outline the points of his opponent's speech. He urged the election of honest officials to office, rather than a change in the present system of taxation, as a means of abolishing the present evils of taxation. He compared the poor farmer, owning a small tract of land with a few improvements, to the retired capitalists owning the same amount of land, but with extensive improvements, and contended that it is not just that they should be taxed the same.

"The single tax is all theory," said the speaker, "and has never prevailed in a civilized country. It has flourished among the Indians and the barbarous nations of the world, but does not exist in a single highly-civilized country at the present time. It is simply a move toward socialism. It would only be a matter of time when private property would be abolished and the Government would become the owner of all the land. The tax on land would be raised from year to year till the tax would finally become so high that the Government would own the land. It is another case of cutting off a small piece of dog's tail at a time to keep from hurting the dog."

"Of course, Brother McAllister and Henry George may be right and the whole world wrong, but it is the consensus of opinion at the present time, and the great economists of the world that the single tax is a practical impossibility."

It was in answer to Judge George's argument that a tax on personal property is necessary for the protection of personal liberty that Mr. McAllister showed a strong tendency toward the strengthening of the individual rights of man, and his argument at this point savored strongly of the doctrine of anarchism.

ENGINEERS HONOR HANNA

Will Attend Unveiling of Monument in a Body.

COLUMBUS, O., May 16.—The delegates to the convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers will next Saturday go to Cleveland in a body to attend the unveiling of the monument to the late Senator Hanna. Because of Senator Hanna's labors in behalf of the workmen, an invitation was extended to Grand Chief Engineer Stone to make an address when the monument is unveiled.

There may be some change in the indemnity policy which the Memphis company decided to issue two years ago since that time $500,000 indemnity insurance has been written. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers Insurance Company carried $500,000, insuring the lives of 15,000 men, which is declared to be a remarkable showing.

Union Pacific Opens Lane Cut-off. One of Most Costly Ever Built.

OMAHA, Neb., May 16.—The Union Pacific Railway reduced its main line nine miles at midnight, when it opened the Lane cut-off between Omaha and Lane, Neb., a distance of 11 1/2 miles. This short stretch of track has been one of the most expensive ever built, costing over $2,500,000. It has a double track and will, aside from reducing the mileage, enable the road to cut out entirely one of the most troublesome stretches of track on its entire system.

As the session of the Grange was held in the home city of the State University, it was expected that the Grange would take some decided action upon the referendum affecting the University appropriation. However, the matter was not mentioned in the convention. It would have been a delicate subject to handle had it been brought up in any form, especially as its chief opponents, Eugene Palmer and C. H. Walker, were both in attendance during the whole session, and the University people were doing everything to make the visitors welcome and comfortable. This action of the Grange and University won many friends to the University cause.

The Grange recommended that a course of studies be adopted which would fill in the gap now existing between the eighth grade of the common schools and the entrance grade of the college, which now corresponds to the eleventh grade of the High Schools.

The committee on education submitted several recommendations, which were adopted, as follows:

First—That the County Treasurers of each county receive, handle and pay out on warrants all public school funds, except in districts of the first class, containing 1000 or more children.

Second—That the county be the smallest unit of basis for taxation for the support of the public schools of the state.

Third—That the State Master of the State Teachers' Association be appointed by the Oregon State Grange as a committee to meet a similar committee from the State Teachers' Institute for the purpose of incorporating the whole recommendation into and perfecting a bill to be introduced at the next session of the Oregon Legislature, and that our legislative committee be requested to take every honorable endeavor to push the same to a successful enactment.

Fourth—That agricultural, industrial and domestic science be made a part of the curriculum of our common and high schools, that we must educate the farmer boys and girls in the farm.

Fifth—That State Master Austin T. Buxton be appointed by the Oregon State Grange as a committee to meet a similar committee from the State Teachers' Institute for the purpose of incorporating the whole recommendation into and perfecting a bill to be introduced at the next session of the Oregon Legislature, and that our legislative committee be requested to take every honorable endeavor to push the same to a successful enactment.

CITIZENS URGED TO SAVE BEST OF PRODUCTS.

State Commission to Seattle Fair Sends Out Circular Letter, Asking Counties to Act.

For the purpose of arranging for a suitable exhibit of the products of the state to be installed in the Oregon building at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, the Oregon Commission has addressed letters to all the County Judges, County Commissioners and the presidents of the commercial bodies throughout the state asking their co-operation in the matter. Particular attention has been called to the necessity of procuring grasses for exhibition purposes before they have become over-ripe. The Commission also requests that the various sections of the state assist in collecting the grasses for exhibition purposes.

The Commission's letter is as follows: Portland, Or., May 15.—Dear Sir: The Oregon Commission to the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition is glad to inform you that the gathering of an exhibit most complete and attractive is our first and most important duty. We propose to make a collective exhibit of the state's resources in this building, and the gathering of an exhibit most complete and attractive is our first and most important duty.

You can readily see that we must have your hearty co-operation in this matter, and that the gathering of an exhibit most complete and attractive is our first and most important duty.

The Commission is also having printed a 20-page booklet on the resources of Oregon, which will be distributed during the Exposition. Two pages of this booklet will be devoted to each county. We also intend to show by moving pictures the farms, orchards, livestock, timber, mountains, streams and everything of interest in each county.

We must have your help and co-operation in the gathering of your exhibit. If we were compelled to buy those exhibits the state would have to double its present appropriation, but with your assistance we hope to carry out our plan without asking you for further appropriation.

Trusting to receive an early reply asking you to send us the names of the exhibitors in advance for giving this your prompt attention, we are, yours very truly, W. H. WEBBER, President.

WHOLE FAMILY MURDERED

ALL EXCEPT BABY, WHICH IS ASLEEP IN CRADLE.

Threats and Predictions of Italian Seer Realized in New Jersey. One Suspect Caught.

MATTEWAN, N. J., May 16.—William D. Shepherd, a prosperous poultry-fancier, and a former rough rider, was found murdered on his farm near here this morning, after a mysterious warning that his household would meet with a violent death within two weeks. His wife and one child, a servant, suffered the same fate, but the Shepherd's 7-month-old baby was found sleeping in her cradle unharmed. The entire house had been ransacked and everything of value had been taken.

The police have made one arrest in connection with the case and another man is said to be under police surveillance. However, no direct charges have been preferred and a posse with bloodhounds is searching the country for the assassin. A repeating shotgun was apparently the means used.

Frank Zeaster, a farmhand who had been employed only two days on the place, discovered the bodies shortly after the shooting, and gave the alarm. Zeaster is said to claim occult powers, and according to statements of the "tinny" friends, predicted, in Shepherd's presence, that in two weeks two men would come to the farm and kill every one on it.

Frank Crooks, who is held, was captured this afternoon near Freehold, and is now in jail at that place. Bloodhounds were found on his clothing, but Crooks, who is also a farmhand, says these came from killing chickens. The stained garments will be sent to a chemist for examination, and the prisoner will be kept in custody pending the result of the examination, and of the inquest, which will be held next Saturday afternoon.

The police are looking for a farmhand who was employed on the Shepherd farm until recently. He is said to have quarreled with Shepherd and a man said to resemble him was seen about the Shepherd place early today.

Advertisement for 'THE FIRST COMPLETE PIANO' with text: 'Early Predictions Realized. THE Aeolian Company brought out the PIANOLA PIANO and announced it as the "First Complete Piano," they prophesied that here was an instrument that was "destined to revolutionize the entire piano situation." No other piano manufacturer at that time had anything similar to offer to the public. So enthusiastic had been the acceptance of the Pianola, however—so confident were they of the success of this new instrument—that they predicted that eventually all other piano manufacturers would be obliged to incorporate some kind of a Piano-Player in their own instruments. Time has since shown how amply justified was this prediction. Today there is hardly a piano manufacturer left who is not offering something he claims is just as good as the Pianola Piano. Those who are not now doing so will ultimately be obliged to follow the Aeolian Company's lead. It is important to remember, however, that before any other so-called Player-Piano had been put upon the market, the Player Piano had already become famous throughout the entire musical world. The genuine Pianola Piano is made only by the Aeolian Company. Without exception, instruments which attempt to compete with it contain piano-players which are inferior to the Pianola and which lack its vital musical features, like the Themodist and the Metrostyle.
