

SOCIETY BY NANCY LADD

of the handsomest Portland girls. The pastel appears on today's society news page.

Keenest sympathy has been expressed over the sudden and untimely demise of Mr. James O'Armon Taylor, of Astoria, who was recently killed in a Mexico mine. Mr. Taylor was a nephew of Mrs. Frederick Strong and of Mrs. George Taylor, Jr., and a grandson of Colonel James Taylor, a pioneer of 1845. Mr. Taylor enjoyed great popularity and seemingly had an exceptionally brilliant future in his chosen profession, that of mining engineering. He was a graduate of the University of California.

After the dinner-dance given by Misses Effie and Claire Houghton last evening, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wesley Ladd asked 21 of the guests to supper at their West Park street residence. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Morton Insley, Mr. and Mrs. John K. Kollock, Miss Hazel Dolph, Miss Effie Houghton, Miss Frances Wilson, Miss Claire Houghton, Miss Dannehower, Miss Caroline Burns, Miss Ilee Koehler, George Warren, Mr. Bradley, Kenneth Beebe, Charles Holbrook, Maurice Dooley, Milton Dooley, Tom Robertson and Raymond Wilcox.

Mrs. J. G. Gauld is entertaining her mother and sister, Mrs. Van Winkle and Miss Helen Van Winkle, of San Francisco, who probably will spend the summer here.

Many who did not avail themselves of the opportunity of seeing the fleet from San Francisco took advantage of the nearer point of vantage, Seattle. Among those going were Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Ames, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wentworth, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Laidlaw, Mrs. E. DeWitt Connell, Miss Jot McCollom, Mrs. T. T. Strain, Mr. and Mrs. Alma D. Katz, Robert Smith, Mr. and Mrs. James McCracken, Mr. and Mrs. Peter B. McCracken, W. A. Mac Rae, Colonel Mrs. Charles E. McDonnell, Dr. and Mrs. George Marshall, Miss Florence Williams, of The Dalles; Mr. and Mrs. George Willard Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Ira P. Powers, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hickman, Mr. and Mrs. George Hazen, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cook, Miss Cully Cook and Miss Celeste Moore.

The many friends of A. L. Maxwell will be glad to learn that he is convalescing.

Among those going down to Seaside to view the fleet were Mr. and Mrs. Harvey W. Scott, Miss Judith Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kerr, Mrs. E. R. Piper, Mr. and Mrs. Dan J. Malarky and others.

Dining last evening at the Golf Club with Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Morrison were Bishop Robinson, of Nevada, and Mrs. Robinson.

June 17 has been set for the wedding day of Miss Helen Brigham and Lawrence Gregg, which will take place at 8:30 P. M. at the First Presbyterian church. Gilbert Durham is to attend Mr. Gregg and the ushers will be Fred Chapman, Howard Roberts, of New York, Lester Rodden and Walter Smith. Miss Irene Higgins will be the maid of honor and Miss Lou King and Miss Maud Howell the bridesmaids. On Thursday afternoon Miss Maud Howell entertained at bridge in compliment to both Miss Brigham and Miss Grace Nicholson. Present were Mrs. John roch is a daughter of the late James G. Blaine, and is conspicuous in New York society.

Mrs. John Eben Young and her small daughter have gone East for the summer months. While away, their residence on King's Heights is to be occupied by B. S. Josselyn, president of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company, and his family.

Word comes from Alaska that Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Laidlaw have a fine baby girl, born in January. Instead of being conveyed as other children in a perambulator, little Miss Laidlaw enjoys the novelty of taking her daily rides in a sleigh drawn by "huskies" (Alaskan dogs).

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Towle, of St. Paul, who have on many previous occasions visited here, have taken for the summer the Percy Blythe residence on King's Heights. They will remain during the absence of the Blythes in England.

Mrs. L. Allen Lewis, with her small daughter Clementine, has returned from San Francisco, where many pleasant things were done in her honor.

A smart dinner-dance was given last night at the Waverly Golf Club by Misses Effie and Claire Houghton. Covers were laid for 25. Mr. and Mrs. J. Wesley Ladd were the chaperones. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Morton Insley, Mr. and Mrs. John K. Kollock, Miss Frances Wilson, Miss Dannehower, of Oswego, N. Y.; Miss Ilee Koehler, Miss Caroline Burns, Miss Gladys Welder, Miss Dorothy Morrison, Miss Hazel Dolph, Miss Grace Warren, Miss Barbara Croker, Miss Isabelle Bryan, Kenneth Beebe, Charles Holbrook, Raymond Wilcox, Stewart Strong, Mr. Rossier, of New Orleans; Marion Dolph, Tom Robertson, George Warren, Joe Bradley, Don Munroe, of Virginia; Floyd Scott, Henry Moore, Maurice Dooley, Whalley Watson and Harry Felling.

A surprise of the week in New York was the announcement of the marriage of Mrs. Julie Van Rensselaer Cruger and Mr. Wade Chance. Mrs. Cruger, it will be remembered, visited here last summer at the Hotel Portland. She at one time held a most pronounced position in the social world of New York, but after the death of her husband spent many years in Florence, later taking up her residence in Washington, D. C. Her first book, "A Diplomat's Diary," was published anonymously. Mrs. Cruger is said now to be devoting much time to a book, for which she came out West last year to obtain local color. Mr. Chance was born in Canton, O., but has lived much of his life in New York, where he is now engaged in business. He is quite a young man, and is said to have some literary ambitions.

In spite of many showers, the tea on Tuesday given by Miss Marion Jackson brought out many guests in Spring costumes. Tailored gowns mostly, but with attractive hats. The tea was in honor of Miss Lillie V. O'Ryan, whose miniature and portraits, which were exhibited at the reception, called forth much praise. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. J. N. Teal and Mrs. T. T. Strain, who were assisted by Miss Inez Barret, Miss Hazel Croker, Miss Grace Warren and Miss Dorothy Morrison, while punch was served by Miss Katherine Sitton and Miss Barbara Croker.

DURING the past fortnight San Francisco has been the Mecca toward which local society has directed its attention, owing to the presence within the Golden Gate of Admiral Evans' majestic fleet, and for the notice that town was on fete. Returning Portlanders bring glowing accounts of the courtesies negotiated during the stay of the big fighting machines. Naturally the honors for the "First Lady of the Golden Fleet" were divided between Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Metcalf, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, although Mrs. Thomas, wife of Rear-Admiral Thomas, commander of the second squadron, who temporarily succeeded Admiral Evans, received much attention. Both Admiral Thomas and his wife were extremely modest, the Admiral losing no opportunity to endorse Admiral Evans and to add glory to his superior officer.

The smartest ball was undoubtedly that given by the famous "Dear Ned Greenway," the ball at the Fairmount being more of a semi-public nature. Many of the leaders who were in the receiving line appeared in their old gowns, being evidently prepared for a cosmopolitan crush, although resplendent with flashing jewels, which were supposed to divert attention from withered chignons. The ball at its height, which was in the very early hours, a custom borrowed from London via New York, was said to be brilliant with the striking color note lent by the uniforms of both the Army and Navy.

A decided belle on this occasion was the Japanese wife of the viceconsul of the Japanese legation, who was signaled out by the officers for concerted attention. She was exquisitely gowned in a delicate white chiffon, heavily embroidered with gold lace. Among some of the distinguished guests were Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson, General and Mrs. Frederick Funston, Mrs. Elinor Glyn, John Drew, Mrs. Peter Martin, of New York, Mrs. R. P. Schwerin, Mrs. Billie Burko, Dr. Koch, the famous German specialist, Governor Sheldon, of Nebraska, Captain Jack Meyers, of the Marine Corps, who held the boxes in check at Pekin until reinforcements arrived, Secretary and Mrs. Victor Metcalf, not to speak of all the other Army and Navy notables.

An artistic affair was the jinks given by the Bohemian Club to the visiting naval officers, it being held in tents on the grounds around the clubhouse, forming the Little Palace Hotel, in Leavenworth street. The entertainment was ostensibly a pioneer affair, on the lines of a mining camp "blowout."

Many things are planned in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Damrosch during the Rose Festival, at which time the famous conductor and his orchestra will visit Portland. The smart set of Burlingame, Cal., are to entertain elaborately for Mr. and Mrs. Damrosch, where both are favorites. Mrs. Dam-
