

LAKEVIEW LAND SUITS REOPENED

Famous "37-10" Cases Under Investigation by Order of Secretary Garfield.

TIMBER RIGHTS VALUABLE

Wisconsin Lumberman Seeks to Secure Title—Names of Several Ex-State Officials Involved in Sensational Allegations.

LAKEVIEW, Or., May 30.—(Special.)—What has become known among timbermen as the "37-10" cases, involving many thousands acres of valuable timber land in Klamath County, Or., is receiving another thrusting out in the United States Land Office at Lakeview, Or. Seldom is a name tried in which more people are directly interested, and more valuable land involved.

Many years ago the State of Oregon placed the land scrip on these lands. Later, upon ascertaining that the base used for scripping by the state was a part of the famous Odell base, and was not actually mineral land, A. D. Daniels, of Wisconsin, to whom the land had been disposed of under the state's scrip sections, attempted to place other scrip on the land. His offer of scrip was rejected by the local Land Office officials, because the records indicated that the land was yet the property of the state under the initial selection. At a later date the state filed a relinquishment of its rights under the original scrip selection, and the land was thrown open to settlement, selection, etc. Then, before the Daniels scrip was again presented, individual settlers, and applicants to purchase under the timber and stone act, etc., lay claim to the entire land involved.

Ex-State Officials Dragged In. Since then the matter has been in litigation in the Interior Department almost incessantly. Buildings have been made and reversed with much frequency, until finally upon representation that the original selection by the State of Oregon was fraudulent, Secretary Garfield has ordered the entire question opened and tried out anew from the beginning. The allegations under which the case was reopened are somewhat sensational. The Governor, Secretary of State and State Treasurer of Oregon, who were in office during that time, and constituted the State Land Board, are openly accused of permitting fraudulent scrip applications to pass. The officials referred to are Governor Geer, Secretary of State Dunbar and State Treasurer Moore.

The Daniels claim is based upon the good faith in which the first application to lay scrip was made, and that upon ascertaining that the base used therefor was bad, the state filed the relinquishment of its claim for the special benefit of Daniels, who was the vendee of the state; that the relinquishment having been thus made, the state scrip offered by Daniels should take precedence over all other applications, selections, etc.

Lands Were Passed to Patent.

In the meantime homestead settlers have lived the allotted time on their claims, or have commuted, and their entries have in many instances passed to patent in the General Land Office. Some of the claims have been purchased from settlers and individual claimants by timber and lumber companies, and some of them have been patented to the companies. If the decision of the Secretary of the Interior should finally be in favor of the Daniels scrip, as the vendee and successor of the General Land Office, there will be some lively litigation resulting from the numerous transfers of the land involved.

Testimony of officials connected with the State Land Board has been taken, and for some days the testimony of numerous homestead claimants has been heard. Now the final testimony is being taken before the General Land Office officials. The hearing is arousing considerable interest.

NAVAL FESTIVITIES AT END

Ships of Atlantic Will Go Into Drydock at Bremerton.

TACOMA, Wash., May 30.—Today's parade was the ending of the naval display here.

As a special courtesy to the people, Acting Rear-Admiral Wainwright announced today that the fleet's time of sailing for Bremerton would be postponed tomorrow from 9 A. M. to 1 P. M., to permit the ships to be visited again tomorrow.

At Bremerton the vessels will go into the drydock in the following order: The Georgia from June 7 to 11; the New Jersey from June 12 to 16; the Rhode Island from June 17 to 20; the Virginia from June 21 to 25.

After being thoroughly cleaned the vessels will take on stores and proceed one by one to San Francisco, where the entire fleet will reassemble to resume its cruise to the Antipodes and around the world.

PRISONERS ASSAULT GUARD

Criminals Make Desperate Effort to Escape From Wright Island.

BELLINGHAM, Wash., May 30.—(Special.)—Two of the convicts stationed at Wright Island, Pitt Lake, a penal settlement run in connection with British Columbia penitentiary, yesterday afternoon made a murderous assault upon the guards in charge of the 18 prisoners. The warden of the penitentiary was notified of the trouble by a carrier pigeon. He left immediately for the scene, accompanied by several of the guards. The riotous convicts were brought to Vancouver in irons, and will be disciplined at the penal institution.

ment talked on this question, which is an all-important one to the rural carriers, and it was a theme for general discussion.

A leading feature of the session this morning was an address by Tom Richardson, of the Portland Commercial Club, Alfred C. Sells, cashier of the First National Bank of Albany, and president of the State Y. M. C. A., addressed the convention on "Finance."

One of the leading addresses of this afternoon was delivered by Colonel E. Hofer, of Salem, president of the Willamette Valley Development League.

His subject was "Development." J. H. Scott, County Judge of Marion County, president of the Oregon Good Roads Association, spoke this afternoon on the subject of road improvement, offering suggestions as to methods of procedure to secure better roads.

Other leading speakers this afternoon were B. W. Johnson, postmaster of Corvallis, and secretary of the Oregon Postmasters' Association, who spoke on "Practical Benefits of Rural Free Delivery," and W. J. Clark, postmaster at Gervais, and grand master of the A. O. U. W. of Oregon, whose topic was "Fraternity."

Call for County Caretakers.

The following papers dealing with phases of the carriers' work were read this afternoon by the following carriers: "Good Roads From the Carrier's Viewpoint," Frans Kraxberger, of Aurora; "Best Horse Adapted for Rural Mail Service and Care of Same," William A. Spence, of Gaston; "Rules for Patrons," M. P. Cady, of Beaverton; "Organization," H. M. Cummings, of Corvallis; "Improvement of Roads," A. E. Tower, of Junction City.

A resolution favoring the appointment of care-takers of roads over which mail routes travel was reported favorably by the committee on resolutions this afternoon. It favors a plan whereby all mail routes shall be in charge of a regular care-taker during the months of bad weather and that the care-taker shall make regular inspections of the road and repair all slight damage in the road so that no "chuck-holes" shall form or any other dangerous or troublesome places in the road shall become of any size.

Instead of repairing the roads only at intervals, this care-taker would watch it continually and keep it in proper shape all the time. The resolution
