WEDDINGS.

Van Winkle-Steinmetz. A pretty wedding took place at the Taylor street M. E. Church, Wednesday evening, May 27, when J. Frank Van Winkle, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Van Winkle, pioneers of Linn County, now of Salem, and Miss Eliza A. Steinmetz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Steinmetz, of this city, were married. Rev. Benjamin F. Young officiating. Prior to the ceremony Mrs. Miller, a member of the Taylor street choir, rendered the song "Spring Time" in a pleasing manner. Mrs. Thomas presided at the organ. The bride, accompanied by her father, and preceded by the ushers, bridesmaids, maid of honor and flower girls, marched up the aisle, where she was met at the altar by the groom, who is to leave for Peru, South America in a few days. Those present were: Miss Ruth Hanley, Miss Maxine Miller, Miss Jean Jacobs, Miss Beatrice Wilson, Miss Bell Cox, Miss Nida Stayner, Miss Dorothy Cox, Miss Gerlie Conroy, Master Harry Cox, Leigh Hodger, Leo Brauh, Charley Cox, Arthur Manning, Fred Allen, Kern Foley and Cyril Manning.

After the ceremony the bride and groom, preceded by the flower girls, who strewed their pathway with roses, entered their carriage and were driven to the home of the bride's parents, 466 East Oak street, which was artistically decorated with roses, ferns and ivy, and standing under an arch formed of Oregon grape, received the congratulations of their friends and relatives. Among the guests was Mrs. Patterson, wife of Dr. J. G. Patterson, of Merrill, Or.

Phillips-Todd. Friday evening, June 5, a quiet wedding occurred at 387 Vancouver avenue, when Rev. R. M. Jones united Richard W. Phillips and Gretchen Todd in marriage. After the ceremony the party partook of refreshments. Both bride and bridegroom have lived in Portland for many years. Mr. Phillips is engaged in business here.

Rice-McCoy. A brilliant wedding at The Dalles took place on Wednesday evening, June 2, when the daughter of E. O. McCoy, Miss Ella, and Halley Rice were married at the Congregational Church, Rev. Boling officiating. The auditorium of the church was elaborately and artistically decorated with palms, white roses, white carnations, asparagus ferns, smilax and other decorative flowers and plants. These were interwoven and festooned by misty billows of white tulle. Several arches were effectively arranged, the wedding arch being a triplicate. From the central and more lofty chamber of this arch hung an immense marriage bell of white roses, the bell ropes of which were silken. As the strains of the wedding march sounded, the folding doors of an emergency room were thrown open, revealing the bridal party in all its pink and white loveliness. As the bridal cortege moved slowly forward, and as the ceremony proceeded, we were reminded of a certain dear little bride who wanted all the possible wedding accompaniments and a long, long church service, "because," as she said, "it will seem so much harder to undo, to—to get a divorce." For it was all there, nothing was lacking.

The page, who was the bride's baby brother, was dressed in a colonial suit of white satin, trimmed with silver. The bridesmaids wore visions in pink and white. The marion of honor was
