HOOSIER KITCHEN CABINET

Dear Mr. Husband:
Some day when your wife is getting a meal and clearing up afterwards, count the steps she takes. You can save her these thousand or more unnecessary, extra steps by getting her a Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet.

It costs but little, saves steps, labor, gives her more pleasure, keeps expenses down—you wouldn't hesitate a minute to put this small amount of money into a labor-saving device at your office, shop or factory. Why not help her? She is the one that needs it most. Send for our catalogue. Read it over. See if it sounds reasonable and business-like. Let her read it, too.

Store a Hoosier Cabinet at our store—see the flour bin that sifts the flour and prevents it from becoming mouldy. See the dust-proof sugar bin, the metal cake and bread boxes, spice cabinets, extension aluminum work table top—all Hoosier special features, not in other makes.

DO NOT BE AFRAID OF THE PRICE
The Hoosier is sold lower than others of similar capacity and has more things in it SHE wants. Made of solid oak (won't warp). Buy her one. It is a fair, business-like thing to do.

BLOW AT HOME RULE

Advice Given Members of Church to Vote for Unionist Candidates in Aid of School Bill Branded as Pernicious.

DUBLIN, June 6.—(Special.)—On Saturday last at the offices in Westminster of the United Irish League of Great Britain, the usual meeting of the full executive of the organization, preceding the annual convention, which is this year to be held at Leeds, was held, under the presidency of T. P. O'Connor, M. P. The executive is composed of 12 members of the Irish Parliamentary party, who form the standing committee, and members of the branches representing the organizing districts in Great Britain. Besides the president of the United Irish League of Great Britain, three were also present: J. Redmond, M. P. (chairman of the Irish Parliamentary party); J. Dillon, M. P.; J. Devlin, M. P. (general secretary of the league in Ireland); John O'Connor, M. P.; J. G. Swift MacNeill, M. P.; W. Abraham, M. P.; J. C. Flynn, M. P.; William O'Malley, M. P.; W. Redmond, M. P.; Captain A. Donelan, M. P. and Stephen Gwynn, M. P. Three of the Irish Parliamentary representatives on the standing committee are members of non-Catholic religious communions.

Besides the ordinary business of the organization, the executive was called upon to consider a large number of communications from the branches throughout the country protesting against the action taken by the Catholic federations, some of the English Catholic clergy and the bishops of some of the dioceses in advising the Catholics in certain electoral divisions, nine-tenths of whom are Irish or of Irish descent and Nationalists in politics, to vote for Unionist candidates and against Liberal and Nationalist candidates. The correspondence led to considerable discussion as to the situation created and also as to the advice of the executive as to be given by the branches.

Manifesto Is Drafted.
Ultimately a sub-committee was appointed to draft a manifesto to the Irish Nationalists of Great Britain, and finally the following address was unanimously agreed to:

To the Members of the United Irish League of Great Britain: Some incidents at the recent re-elections cannot be passed over by us in silence, for they strike at the roots of the existence of the organization, of the Irish party, and even of the Irish National movement in Great Britain. It is known to you that in two of these elections the United Irish League of Great Britain, after due consideration and in full knowledge of the circumstances, advised the Irish Nationalist voters to support the Liberal candidate, and one organization gave to our people the advice to support the Tory candidate, and employed every means to induce them to do so; and, though defeated by our people in one instance—that of Warrington—helped in the other—that of Manchester—to hand over the seat to the Liberal.

The issue in both cases, as far as Ireland was concerned, could not be regarded as an election for the Liberal candidate in each case was an open and avowed supporter of Irish self-government and equal rights in Ireland. The support of Home Rule for Ireland was the policy of the league; the support of coercion for Ireland was the policy of the party organization. This is a direct conflict which it would be impossible for us, responsible for the Irish movement, to attempt to ignore.

Asked to Betray Nation.
The advice given to our people amounted to a recommendation to them to turn their backs upon Ireland, to forget altogether, and to betray the cause of their country, that home rule was not to be regarded as an issue at these elections; and when Ireland comes to be regarded as an issue, it is necessary to say that if the leaders of the league could be either foolish or base enough to support the Liberal party, they would be scouted and discarded, and that the only effect would be to destroy our organization and to rob Ireland of the powerful weapon it has been for many years in advancing all Ireland.

This policy of forgetting and betraying Ireland is justified by what are supposed to be the interests of the Catholic schools. In truth, such a policy would be ultimately as destructive of the Catholic schools as of the Irish cause. The interests of the Catholic schools have been defended and safeguarded up to the present by the Irish party of Great Britain, strong and united by their organization. The services of the Irish party to the Catholic schools, the concessions they have already prevented, are known to all the world and have been publicly recognized by the heads of the Catholic church in England.

TWO SILVER WEDDINGS

German Centenarian Celebrates Second of Marriage Anniversaries.

BERLIN, June 6.—(Special.)—Herr Schier, the oldest inhabitant of Bad Nauheim, a hale old gentleman of 98, has just celebrated his second silver wedding anniversary. Many years ago, while still in the prime of life, Herr Schier commemorated the 25th anniversary of his marriage with his first wife. After being a widower for some years he married again at the age of 73, and has the rare privilege of holding a second silver jubilee. Among the participants at the festivities were two children by his second marriage, a son and a daughter. The old gentleman approaches his centenary in most vigorous health.
