

TAMMANY WILL BUILD NEW HALL

Boss Murphy Plans Magnificent Home for Democratic Organization.

WOULD OUTSHINE CROKER

Present Head of New York Society Dreams of Building That Will Be a Monument to His Reign.

BY LLOYD F. LONGERGAN, Special.

NEW YORK, June 13.—(Special.)—Tammany Hall is going to move. The old leaders do not like it, but they are afraid to protest, as the plan is that of Charles F. Murphy.

The exact location of the new home of the Tiger has not been made known. The organization's real estate scouts are out, but they are working under cover. They fear that prices would jump if landowners knew who was after their property.

No formal action has been taken by the Tammany Society, but that is a mere matter of detail. When the proper time comes Murphy will order a meeting called, and the change will be unanimously ratified.

The reason publicly given for a move is that the present hall is badly located, inadequately equipped, and entirely out of date. But there are men in Tammany who whisper that the reason can be told in two words, and that those words are "Murphy's ambition."

Wants to Outshine Croker.

"Murphy is anxious to outshine Croker," asserted one of these individuals today. "He dreams of a magnificent building that will put all others of its kind in the shade."

"He expects that it will include a hall where city and state conventions can be held, and also by the recognized meeting place of the state committee. This last would certainly be a feather in Murphy's cap and he knows it."

"No city convention has been held in Tammany Hall since consolidation solely because of the lack of room there. The state committee has never even dreamed of consulting there. Now Murphy believes the time has come for a change."

"At the present time he is the absolute dictator of the state committee. Should he see fit, that body would obediently sign a lease for accommodations in the new Tammany Hall. The rental paid would not be a matter of interest, but it would please Murphy to demonstrate that the state committee was a vessel of the local organization."

The general belief is that a location near the Grand Central depot will be selected. This will make it convenient for upstate Democrats, who arrive in town by rail, and also for city politicians who can use the subway express station.

There has been talk of a site near Central Park, but it is regarded as simply a "wrong steer" for the benefit of real estate owners.

Origin of Tammany

It is a fact not generally known that the local Democratic organization is not the owner of Tammany Hall, but is merely a tenant.

Tammany Hall is the Democratic party in the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx. It is a purely political affair, ruled by an executive committee composed of the regularly elected leaders of the 35 assembly districts.

Tammany as a patriotic society antedates Tammany the political organization. The old "Society of Tammany," or the Columbian Order, as it was also called, whose motto is "Freedom Our Rock," was established shortly after the Revolutionary War.

Its purposes were social, philanthropic and patriotic, and its members who were in want, had social gatherings, and to celebrate the Fourth of July.

The old city tavern, which was on the west side of Broadway near Trinity Church, was the original meeting place, and the society of Tammany gathered there regularly from 1789 to 1798.

In 1798 the first move was made to the corner of Nassau and Spruce streets, where Abraham D. Martling kept a tavern with a long room back of the office and dining room. The society held its meetings there until 1811, when it bought property near Martling's and built a hall on the corner of Nassau and Frankfort streets, where the Sun building now stands. This establishment was kept until the present Tammany Hall was built on Fourteenth street in 1868, for the purpose of giving more room to the society, and to have a suitable hall in which to hold the only Democratic National convention which ever met in this city.

Book Name From Hall.

Tammany, the political organization, came to be known as such from the use of the hall of the Tammany Society for the purpose of holding Democratic meetings. Martling's long room was in its day the most commodious meeting hall in New York.

The Society of Tammany is still a non-partisan organization today, but is according to its bylaws. Actually it is a holding company for the political body, and a mere shell so far as membership is concerned.

All of the members are Tammany politicians, but many Tammany warriors are not allowed to join. In fact membership is a privilege that is carefully guarded, and only bestowed as a great reward of merit.

Grand Sachem's Boss.

The titular ruler of the body is the grand sachem, who officially possesses the autocratic power of a grand master of Masons. Actually the grand sachem is a mere lackey of Charles F. Murphy. The other day the boss kicked out Grand Sachem W. Bourke Croker and installed Daniel F. Cohan. The "election" was made by the sachems, but the order came from headquarters.

There is nothing exactly corresponding to Tammany anywhere else in the United States. When the first society of Tammany was formed in New York, other Tammany societies were organized, one in Philadelphia, one in Georgia, one in Rhode Island and others elsewhere. But one after the other they gave up the ghost.

Of the benevolent, social and patriotic features of the original Tammany Society, besides the only one that remains is the formal celebration of Independence day with speechmaking, music, fireworks and the reading of the Declaration of Independence.

The vitality of Tammany is evidently political, because of the various Tammany societies, those which were confined to social and benevolent features have dwindled away, while the New York Tammany has become more powerful and more numerous in its adherents from generation to generation.

Benevolence Works Backwards.

Yet in its political organization Tammany has extended its original principles of benevolence and sociality to every assembly district. Tammany district leaders and clubs, in one form or another, pay more rents, buy more coal and support more poor people than any charitable organization in New York.

Tammany as an employment bureau secures jobs for thousands of men every year besides its tens of thousands of officeholders. In return for votes it buries more dead, provides for more widows and orphans, and maintains the most practical kind of charity.

This and the social clubs which it maintains in every assembly district are greater vote-getters than its venerable history and traditions.

The plan for a new Tammany Hall appeals to many members because it would be a financial success. There would be spacious meeting rooms and halls that could be rented to any one who felt the need of them, and Tammany pressure could easily secure plenty of tenants. Any of the old party headquarters would bring a large sum, and the site would speedily be covered by large business blocks.

The sentimental side of the case, for even in Tammany there are men with sentiment, is that three famous landmarks would be wiped out in one fell swoop. The graves decide to move their wigwag.

Old Landmarks Must Go.

In addition to Tammany Hall two old landmarks must have to go. One is the Pastor's, run by the oldest manager in New York, and the only place where a variety show is given. All its rivals, you know, are presenting "vaudeville" at Tony Pastor's, a score of well-known artists, including Lillian Russell, De Wolf Hopper and James T. Powers, not to mention the Monte Carlo, made their initial bows to the public.

The other theater is the Academy of Music, the largest dramatic house in town. Its lease expires in the next 18 months, and the sachems have several good offers for the building.

"If we move it will shatter all traditions," remarked one leader sadly. "But Murphy does not care much for traditions. He thinks it is time we got a move on, and I suppose we will be compelled to do so."

Whether the pictures of Croker and John Kelly will be transferred to the new quarters is as yet an unanswered question.

They were great men in their day, that is great from a Tammany standpoint, but times have changed.

Murphy does not think that either of them could whip the Brooklyn organization into shape, capture state conventions, and be the only large sized toad in the turbulent Democratic pulpit.

The predecessors of the present boss never cut ice outside the city limits. Every time they tried they lost it.

So if Murphy permits these old traditions to grace the new headquarters, it will not be from any feeling of reverence.

It will simply be that he wants to have something to gloat over.

At the Patton Home for the Aged.

PORTLAND, June 13.—(To the Editor.)—The Patton Home is situated on Michigan avenue in the district of Albina and is reached by the L. car. It is well adapted to its purpose, both in Summer and Winter. There are about 35 women in the home, many of them well worn, and a number of men. Most of those at the home are aged people; one woman is 96 years old, another 94. It would be a difficult matter to improve upon the management of the home. From early morning until late at night our matron is busy, seeking the convenience and comfort of all. On Sunday afternoon religious services are held by the different congregations, and once a month the lady directors meet and take tea, besides giving concerts quite often.

What Are Glands? What Are They? Where Do You Find Them?

Every organ of our body is controlled by a gland which secretes an element from our blood and gives it to the organ to keep it in health. When the gland fails to secrete, then the organ starves, which in turn makes us sick; then we begin to think about ourselves, the doctor and druggist. When the gland is secreting properly from the blood and giving it off to the organ, we never think of the doctor, druggist, or even give ourselves any care.

Why? Because there is no need for concern; we are well. When our stomach does not handle our food properly, or our kidneys are out of order; when we see a lump or swelling on our person, then we begin to get concerned about ourselves; then we want to know what is the matter. We immediately begin to investigate and try to relieve ourselves by the intrusion of a doctor. The above disorder is a disease of some part of your vital anatomy. There is a want of the physiological element, or an overabundance or perversion. The cure is to cause a perfect equilibrium. You say: "How am I going to do all that?" The answer is, call or write to Van Vleck Glass Extracting Co., 708-709 DeLuna building, Portland, Or., and consult with them. They make no charge for examination or consultation. Their physical will tell you what glands in your body are at fault that are causing your trouble, and will tell you which glands taken out of young and healthy sheep from a gland which extract and active principle and put it up in tablet form) it will take to cure you. Van Vleck found them first and makes the tablets and sells them to you. If you are convinced that they are what your system demands to bring about a cure in your case. There is no charge if you don't tell you correctly. Your time against our time. We make microscopic and chemical analysis to prove our way, as we go scientifically every step of the way. It matters not what form of nervous or chronic disease you may be suffering from, young or old; if you are sick, the glands in your body are at fault, there can be no other cause, except an injury, which is not a glandular disease, though it may, by destruction of parts or interference with secretion or excretion (i. e., the making of products and carrying of these products or of poisons), bring about a disorder identical with disease from ordinary causes. Inherited diseases yield to this wonderful glandular treatment. Come in and talk with our physician, don't put it off; this is your OPPORTUNITY. I cannot refrain from here quoting to you a verse from the mind of John J. Ingalls:

Master of human destinies am I,
Fame, Love and Fortune on my footsteps wait.
Cities and field I walk; I penetrate
Deserts and seas remote, and, passing by
Hovel and mart and palace, soon or late,
I knock unbidden ONCE at every gate.
If sleeping, wake; if feasting, rise before
I turn away. It is the hour of fate,
And those who follow me reach every state.
Mortals desire, and conquer every woe,
Save death; but those who doubt or hesitate,
Condemned to failure, penury and woe,
Seek me in vain and uselessly implore;
I answer not, and I return no more.

BY ALL MEANS, CELEBRATE

Suggestions by Secretary Clark, of Last Year's Committee.

PORTLAND, June 13.—(To the Editor.)—Should Portland celebrate the Fourth of July? Why, of course. Should the spirit of Liberty be allowed to die? Why, of course not. The day of the Declaration of Independence is passing into history—will be ancient history—and forgotten history if we allow the day to pass without some fitting celebration to show the boys who are growing up to take our places that this Nation has a birthday, and that it is remembered on the Fourth Day of July each year.

The Stars and Stripes should be seen adorning every home in Portland. Our people should be reminded at sunrise that there were 13 original states by a salute of 13 guns and at high noon a salute of 48 guns will remind them that we have grown to embrace 48 states. Although we have grown we are not too big nor too old to celebrate. Give us at least some patriotic exercises. If our people feel that the Rose Festival has cost them all they can afford, let us use what funds remain from last year and do the best we can, and next year when they make their donations to the Rose Festival let them bear in mind that there will also be a Fourth of July celebration. By all means celebrate.

They said the people along the line of the surveyed road were deeply interested in this undertaking, and especially residents of Klamath County, for the completion of the road would mean direct communication with Portland. The early completion of the California Northwestern will mean much to the Klamath country, they said, but if the Natron line could be assured of an early start it would induce the people with greater enthusiasm than they now possess concerning their country.
