FLOWERS FOR SICK

Thousands of Bouquets Distributed During Festival.

BY CHURCH YOUNG PEOPLE

F. S. Francis, President of Union, Reviews Work of Taking Roses to Hospitals and Homes Where There Was Illness.

Distribution of roses to inmates of hospitals and to those confined at home by illness during the Rose Festival, as carried on by the Christian Young People's Festival Union, was a big success, according to the report of F. S. Francis, president. This report will be read at the next business meeting of the Sunnyside Epworth League, in which chapter the idea, originated by the Christian Endeavorers, and was elected president because of the belief that he would be able to direct the work more efficiently on that account. So pleased were the officers of the society and those who co-operated with them that it has been decided to maintain a permanent organization, and next year during the festival the plan will be worked on a much larger scale. The organization tried to send a bouquet of flowers to every sick person in Portland, whether at home or in a hospital, during the Rose Festival, and succeeded admirably, although the task was a great one. A large number of the young people's societies of the churches, regardless of denomination, joined at the festival to make possible the execution of the plan. It has been impossible to ascertain the number of bouquets distributed, but the number was very large. From all points have come letters and expressions of gratitude for the roses sent by the Christian young people of the city. The report of President Francis follows: From all points in January of this year the suggestion was made at our cabinet meeting that we undertake to organize as many as possible of the young people's societies of Portland into a movement to distribute roses during the Rose Festival week, June 10 to 16, through all the hospitals and sanitariums of Portland, and to others who were unable to attend the Rose Festival. The idea was approved by the cabinet, passed upon at the business meeting of the chapter, and a meeting was called at the Sunnyside Methodist Episcopal Church on the second Monday of February. At this meeting officers were elected, committees appointed, and the general plan discussed. Meetings were held each month on the second Monday, and although the attendance decreased, the work was continued, until by the second Monday in May everything was ready for operation. Plans had to be changed from time to time, but by the meeting in May each society was assigned to a definite place of work, and all of the known places in the city were distributed. Flowers were practically arranged for.

as a social event and as an influence for good in the support of the famous Cotel ordinance, of which the National president is known to be an earnest advocate. President Warne represents an organization composed of 23 state associations, 746 local churches and a following of 1,250,000 people. The Spiritualists are proud of their National leader. He is a member of the faculty of the Hahnemann Medical College in Chicago, and president of the Morris Pratt Institute, Whitewater, Wis. In early life he was prominent in bank circles in Iowa, was successively County Auditor and County Treasurer of his county, and once represented his constituents in the Iowa Legislature. Portland Spiritualists without regard to party or division, will give him a warm welcome to the metropolis of the Pacific Coast.

VACATE BENCH ON JULY 4

NO SUCCESSOR TO CAMERON YET NAMED.

Municipal Bench Appointment Believed to Lie Between Bert E. Haney and John Van Zante.

District Attorney-elect Cameron will not vacate the Municipal Court bench until Saturday, July 4, and Mayor Lane will not be privileged to appoint any one to succeed Mr. Cameron to preside over the destinies of the Police Court until then. It is said that Judge Cameron decided upon this method to keep a Democrat out of office as long as possible. Who the new Judge will be is unknown, as the Mayor says there is no vacancy, and that he cannot with propriety make any announcement until Judge Cameron abdicates. The names of Bert E. Haney, a deputy in the office of the District Attorney; John Van Zante, a faithful Democrat; Oglesby Young, Democrat and lawyer, and others have been mentioned, but it is generally believed the appointment lies between Mr. Haney and Mr. Van Zante. The man named as successor to Judge Cameron will have the appointing of a clerk. Aside from the announcement that J. J. Fitzgerald will be his chief deputy and that Frank D. Hennessy will be an attaché of the office, District Attorney-elect Cameron has not yet made known his staff. One thing is certain, however—there will be no Democrat on the list. This means that H. M. Esterley, now prosecutor in the Juvenile Court, will lose his position and that he will be supplanted by a Republican. When asked as to whether Mr. Esterley would be supplanted, Mr. Cameron said that he would be. However, Mr. Cameron was not ready to announce the name of Mr. Esterley's successor. All he would say was that a capable and competent prosecutor will be named to perform the work in the Juvenile Court, and that he will be a Republican. When he assumes the duties of District Attorney, Mr. Cameron will assign one of his deputies to duty at police headquarters. The deputy will be on hand all day to make out complaints and to look after the affairs of the State and Municipal Court.

NOTED MAN OF LETTERS

Dr. Richard Burton Will Give Dramatic Reading in Portland.

Dr. Richard Burton, professor of English literature in the University of Minnesota, and widely known in literary circles, will give a reading of Booth Tarkington's "Monsieur Beaucaire" in the Unitarian chapel, Saturday night, June 27. Dr. Burton held for some years the chair of English literature in the University of Chicago. In 1898 he accepted a similar position in the University of Minnesota, where his course of study was the most popular in that institution by reason of his extensive and intimate acquaintance with literature and his ability to interest the student in the works of the great men of letters. He is also an active and interested worker in the Students' Dramatic Club of the University, frequently participating in the club's theatricals. He was for a number of years in the employ of the publishing house of Lippincott & Co. as reader of the manuscripts submitted. Dr. Burton is the author of a number of volumes of poems and essays. His readings of "Monsieur Beaucaire," with which he will make his first appearance in Portland, have been accorded much praise by Eastern critics.

SECTIONAL LINES IN LAKE

Voters in Northern End Combine and Democrats Get Offices.

LAKEVIEW, Or., June 20.—(Special.) The recent election in Lake County missed an expression of the normal political sentiment of the voting population of the county as far as any election in any county in Oregon. The registration shows this county for about 2 to 1 Republican. Results of elections here for several years uphold this ratio. From a strongly Democratic county in the early days, the Republicans have gradually transferred the vote into the Republican column, until a nomination on the Republican ticket made a noise like an election to candidates. But in the recent election a sectional feeling that was engendered by a county seat removal fight and other local matters turned the election into something like a contest between the north end of the county and the south end to fill the various offices with men from each particular section. At the north the vote was pretty solid for Foster for Assessor, Payne for Clerk, and Jackson for School Superintendent, and these men, all Democrats, were elected. One other Democrat, Wallace, for Coroner, was nominated on both tickets, and went in without opposition. The votes cast in the northern precincts followed the slate with great precision, indicating that considerable "missionary" work had been performed in arousing this sectional sentiment for election purposes. It was effective, and turned over to the democratic party large slices of what would ordinarily be considered Republican pie. At Governor Chamberlain's heavy vote in Lake County was cast in Silver Lake precinct, in the extreme north of the county, and one of the heaviest voting precincts in the county, and in South Warner. The latter place is the home of the Warner Valley Stock Company, and incidentally of the numerous settlers who have long been in litigation with the company. During recent years the State of Oregon has taken up the cudgel in behalf of the settlers, which probably has something to do with the vote on the Senatorship.
