Partner in Scandalous Crimes With Butler, Young Man Tells How Evil Genius Committed Murder in Revenge for Discharge.

PARIS, June 27 .- The arrest in this city yesterday of the butler, Renard, charged with complicity in the murder of August Remy, a wealthy retired banker, who was stabbed to death June in his home in Paris, has revealed the existence of an astounding state of affairs in the banker's household prior to the assassination. The banker's nephew, Raingo, was subjected to a severe examination, at the end of which he told the magistrate that Renard had

The young man confessed also that the relations between him and Renard had been of a scandalous character.

Climax Comes at Last.

M. Remy often complained of Renard's growing domination in his household, but his wife defended the butler. The climax came the day before the assarsination, when the banker discovered his nephew and Renard together. He then informed his wife that he would no longer endure the situation and that he intended to send his nephew to a disciplinary school and that he was going to discharge the butler. High words followed this announcement. Mme. Remy refused to believe the stories told her and finally, in company with her maid, she left the

That same night, Raingo has de-clared, M. Remy and Renard quarreled during the dinner and Renard killed the banker by stabbing him with a desert knife. After killing the old man, the butler arranged the house and the dining-room in such a manner as to give support to the theory that the crime had been committed by burglars. Another arrest in the case is expected. When Mme, Remy was apprised to-day of the arrest of Renard, she would not believe the charges against him. "No," she declared, "it is impossible. SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 27,-Speaking over the long-distance tele-phone to persons in San Antonio to-day, Sheriff Robinson, of Valverde County, across the border from Las Vacos, Mexico, thus described the sit-uation at the latter place, which was attacked yesterday by bandits alleged Kruse, lessee, Gearhart Park, Or.

"All communication between Las Vacos and Del Rio is cut off. The town is isolated and it is absolutely impossible to tell what is going on there. At the beginning of yesterday's fighting all wires leading out of the town were cut and what reports sent are unvert-fied. Only from what could could be seen could anything be learned.

"Judging in this manner, we believe ere that from 49 to 59 people were killed and wounded in the fight be-tween the attacking forces and the troops. There is no doubt that the troops were taken by surprise. It is also believed that the work is not that of bandits, as has been reported, but that a genuine revolution is in progress. Appeal for Liberty Follows Order of Poughkeepsie Judge Recommitting Him to Matteawan-Jerome Little Interested.

POUGHKEEPSIE, June 27.—Harry Thaw has obtained a new writ of habeas corpus returnable before Su-preme Judge Mills, of White Plains, N. Y. The writ was obtained in anticipa-tion of Judge Morschauser signing an order at 11 o'clock this morning recomnitting Thaw to Matteawan. The anticipation by Thaw and his counsel that Justice Morschauser would re-commit the slayer of Stanford White to Matteawan proved correct. District Atorney Mack presented to the judge this forenoon the formal order of recommit-ment to Matteawan, which Justice Morauser promptly signed. It will have the effect of returning

Thaw to Matteawan today, but just be-fore the order was signed, Under Sheriff Townsend, who has been the custodian of Thaw ever since the first habeas corpus proceedings were begun, was served with the new writ of habeas corpus, which commands the Sheriff to produce Thaw in the Supreme Court at White Plains on Monday morning.

"I cannot bear the thought of return ing to Matteawan on account of being obliged to associate there with insane people. I would rather go to prison. I thought all along, and especially ce Judge Morschauser handed down decision, that if I could get my case handed down to a jury I would be able to convince the twelve men of my present sanity, and secure thereby my liberty. I am anxious to take the stand and be examined as to my mental condition, feeling confident that a jury will agree that I am not insane."

Dr. Richard Burton Reads "wionsieur Beaucaire"

WHAT a pity it is that the art of public reading is not hailed in this city with the same acclaim awarded to singing or plane playing. Yet, thank goodness, the love among educated people to hear interpretative reading is growing and they are fast learning that poetry and dramatic moment exist as much and often more so, in a reading as in a song. Last night I attended the Unitarian chapel and thoroughly enjoyed a reading by Dr. Richard Burton, professor of Eng-lish literature in the University of Minesota, of Booth Tarkington's romance "Monsieur Beaucaire," The ch building was well filled by eager interested listeners, who often gave njoying.

Dr. Burton, who is well known as an arthur, is a native of educator and author, is a native of Hattferd Conn., and even if I had not known this, I would have said, after having once looked at his keen, spare, intellectual face: "You're from Nev England." He was introduced by Dr. T L. Ellot, and, placing a red-bound copy of "Monsieur Beaucaire" on a rathe ickety-looking reading stand, Dr. Burton first gave us a charming, discoursive talk on the educative value of romantic literature. His voice is pleasant to the ear, his gestures few and phrasing artistic. He discussed Sir Walter Scott's "Meg Merrilles," "David Harum," Zola, Anna Katharine Green, Charles Reade, Black-more's "Lorpa Doone," Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treasure Island," Wilkie Collins, Henry James, "Mrs. Wiggs," Ian Maclaren, etc.

Before turning the pages of "Monsieur Beaucaire," Dr. Burton pronounced the romance Tarkington's "one perfect perormance," and said that he would read the novel as Tarkington wrote it, minus the happy ending Richard Mansfield gave it in fashioning it as a play. "I wish to take you tonight into the 18th century," the reader proceeded, "the teacup time, of wax candles, wigs, silver buckles and shining swords."

So saying, Dr. Burton plunged into "Beaucaire." Ever read the novel? No? Even if you had, a new interpretation would have been given you of it, a clearer vision, a new meaning, had you heard the Burton version. Dr. Burton's imitation of English with a slight French accent was immensely clever and suggested the footlights. The poor but romantic French harber who had dured to love Lady Mars. barber who had dared to love Lady Mary Carlisle, but was always the gallan French gentleman and who fought like a lion, lived again.
