ST. JOHN NOW DRY

Webster Signs Order Closing Six Saloons.

FIGHT IS NOT YET ENDED

Liquor Interests Which Contend That Irregularity Occurred in Combination of Precincts Will Appeal to Supreme Court.

There was sorrow among the thirsty at St. John yesterday afternoon for with the stroke of 12 o'clock Booze was banished from its reign. At that hour prohibition became effective, when County Judge Webster signed an order putting local option into full and formal effect.

Six saloons were hit. It is reported that the six were still doing business during the afternoon, but it was a back-door business, and even that will not last long. Anyone may sign a complaint and the penalty for violating the prohibition laws is not precisely mild.

The saloonmen fought hard to offset the law, advancing alleged technical irregularities. But they failed. They will take the case up to the Supreme Court, but in the meantime prohibition is in effect in accordance with Judge Webster's decision, and the thirty of St. John must hereafter resort to the little tricks of beating the game, such as carrying flasks from Portland or skulking into a by-street where some festive "blind" is carrying out a precarious existence in constant fear of molestation by the law.

It was contended by the saloon interests, represented by E. Magoon, that when the precincts comprising St. John, 90 and 91, were combined with precinct 89, University Park, a technical infraction of the local option law was committed by the hosts of prohibition for the reason that 89 had previously gone dry. The law provides that any precinct which goes dry cannot hope for another election within two years.

Eleven days after the last election, the court would have proclaimed St. John dry except for an injunction secured by Magoon from the Circuit Court. Magoon made the objections already enumerated. A demurrer to the injunction was promptly filed and the arguments on this issue were presented before Judge Gantenbein on Friday, when Judge Gantenbein sustained the demurrer. Magoon at once said he would take the case to the Supreme Court.

It was hoped by the saloonmen that the law would not be put into effect, pending the outcome of the appeal. But the County Court, which was appealed to yesterday for a closing order, promptly issued the document sealing the fate of St. John ginmills.

OWNER STILL GUARDS GARDEN
Bennett Too Busy to Appear in Case Against Railroad.
E. F. Bennett, owner of a horse-radish patch south and west of the city, was so busy guarding the patch from invasion by a railway crew yesterday that he was unable to appear in the Circuit Court and present his side in the injunction which he secured several days ago to keep the Oregon Electric Railway Company from invading and despoiling the garden. At least that was the assertion made by Bennett's lawyer when the case was called before Judge Gantenbein, and a continuance had to be granted until Monday forenoon.

ly raised an army of 18 men and stood off the invaders. For a time the situation partook of the nature of a South American revolution. Truce was effected when Bennett left his army in the field, rushed to the Circuit Court and secured an injunction. Arguments on the question were to have been heard yesterday.

The electric company had a long affidavit as to the nature and value of the land. Bennett was expected to have an affidavit summing up his contentions. But he sent word he hadn't been able to leave his horse-radish patch, since the invaders were just over the fence. The railroad company gave assurance, however, that it had not the slightest intention of breaking the injunction, and so Bennett, thus reassured, will likely be able to get away for a few hours to prepare his affidavit. In the meantime the horse-radish continues growing in luxurious fashion, while the railway is at a standstill.

COMPANY LEAVES HOME

Baker Players to Be at Empire Theater Next Season.

The coming week is an especially notable one in the history of the Baker Theater—in fact, in the history of things theatrical in this city—for it marks the closing of the famous Baker stock company in its original home, the Baker Theater, and the moving next season, of Portland's crack amusement organization to a location further up town, Upper Morrison street, which is rapidly becoming more and more of a business district. The move will be much benefited by the change next year to the Empire, which is an ideal location.

OLD SETTLER OF CLACKAMAS COUNTY PASSES AWAY.

The Late Johann Ulrich Wagner.
WILSONVILLE, Or., June 27.—(Special.)—Johann Ulrich Wagner, one of the oldest and most respected of old settlers of Clackamas County, was buried near Stafford Wednesday. He was born at Chur, Switzerland, and when a young man of 19 years came to the United States and settled in Milwaukee, Wis. He resided there until 1874, when he, with his family, removed to Portland, where he followed his trade of tanner until 1876, when he located on the banks of the Willamette nine miles above Oregon City. He resided there until death. Besides his widow he leaves seven children—Charles F. and Fritz Wagner, Mrs. Gustav Stein, Mrs. Homer Kruse, of Wilsonville; Mrs. Fred Ehlers, Mrs. F. J. Simon, of Portland, and Mrs. Martin Dragasch, of Hood River.

calton in every way for a high-class stock company appealing to the best family patronage in the city. The Empire will enjoy a complete and thorough renovating and changing about during the Summer months, with the end of making it suitable for the reception of the company and its patrons, and there is every reason to believe that the change will meet with hearty approval of everyone just as soon as everything becomes settled. The Baker will be devoted to road attractions in the future, and the prices will run from 25 cents to $1. These attractions will include many for which Portland theater-goers have always paid $1.50 to see heretofore, and will include many musical comedies and operas.

CITY PARK BAND CONCERT

MUSIC THIS AFTERNOON IF WEATHER WILL PERMIT.
Programme of Popular and Classical Numbers Prepared—Will Commence at 2:30 Sharp.

Weather permitting, there will be a band concert at the City Park this afternoon, commencing at 2:30 o'clock sharp. Those who wish to hear the opening number should be on hand promptly. It is the famous "Knights of the Grail" march from Wagner's grand opera, "Parsifal," and one of the gems of the post-romantic era. "Parsifal" is declared by many the greatest work of the great composer, and this march is one of the finest parts of the opera. It has been played in Portland only a few times.

Signor DeCaprio has drawn up both classical and popular works in his program, and the variety is great enough to please all tastes. Aside from the "Parsifal" march, perhaps the most pretentious number is the "Poeme Symphonique," commonly known as the "Danse Macabre," or "Skeletons Dance," by Saint-Saens. This is a descriptive composition, and portrays a graveyard scene. The story opens at the stroke of midnight. The skeletons emerge from their coffins and look high and low for the approach of morning. There are wail shrieks, ghouliah dances, and moans and sobs. At the first cock's crow the spirits return to their cabins, cells, and the music closes with the rattling of the bones as the skeletons drop back into the coffins.

Signor DeCaprio, by request, will play a baritone solo. He has chosen "La Corsia Milanese," a composition of his own, designed to display both execution and tone. His baritone solos are well remembered as happy features of last Summer's programmes.

An unpublished arrangement of the music of the third act of "La Boheme" (Puccini) will be rendered by the band. The programme in full follows: Procession march, from "Parsifal"; Wagner "The Rose Honeycomb"; Braxton Overture; "William Tell"; Rossini Fantasia; "Musical Scenes"; Langley Grand selection; "Bustina"; Mascagni Paraphrase; (Intermission) and Brass Act III from "La Boheme"; Keepey Act III from "La Boheme"; Puccini Baritone solo, "La Corsia Milanese"; Wagner "The Rose Honeycomb"; DeCaprio Poeme Symphonique; Saint-Saens March, "St. Elias"; DeCaprio.

WILL PROTEST TO Y. M. C. A.

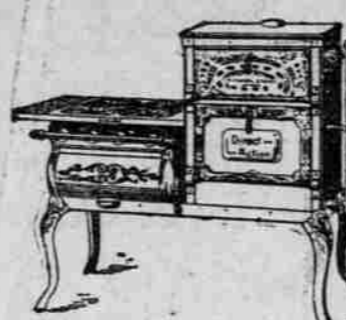

Federated Trades Objects to Open Shop Plan in Erecting Building.

Learning that the Northwest Bridge Company is pursuing an "open shop" policy in the erection of the new Y. M. C. A. building, the Federated Trades Council has appointed a committee of ten members to protest with the association directors against a continuance of the contract under such conditions. Under the terms imposed by the contractors workmen are required to work ten hours a day in violation of the established day of eight hours recognized by the unions. Officials of organized labor yesterday said they had been ascertained that the contract between the Y. M. C. A. and the contracting firm does not stipulate that it is work shall be done without regard to union regulations as to a day's work. They are relying on this fact to bring about a possible adjustment of the matter to the end that the workmen may not be required to work more than eight hours a day.

It is represented by officers of the Trades Council that the members of the different labor unions in the city subscribed quite extensively to the Y. M. C. A. building fund and it is possible that such these subscriptions as have not been paid will be canceled unless the concession demanded is granted. The Federated Trades Union is said to have donated $100 in cash to the building while one individual unionist subscribed $250. These are in addition to numerous $5 and $10 subscriptions from many of the 70 unions in the city or individual members, aggregating several hundred dollars.

H. W. Stone, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and J. R. Bowles, manager of the Northwest Bridge Works, were out of the city yesterday so that the committee was unable to present its grievance. Fourth of July at Tremont. Arrangements have been made by the Sunday school of the Laurelwood Methodist Church for a Fourth of July picnic to be given in the grounds at Tremont Station on the Mount Scott carline. A programme consisting of addresses and musical and literary numbers will be

HOW TO SAVE GAS

The answer is, Get a Gas Stove or Range that is up to date. The trouble with most gas ranges is that they do not burn all the gas that passes through the burners. The gas is partly burned and partly decomposed. The result is that one-fourth more gas is used than is necessary, and the decomposed gas that escapes into the room causes injury to the health of the housekeeper, who thinks that the fault is in the quality of the gas. You can save your health and save your money, if you will try one of our DIRECT ACTION GAS RANGES. These we sell on trial, and if they are not exactly as represented, money refunded.

ORAL SCHOOL FOR DEAF

Will Be Conducted in Connection With Public School System.

Arrangements have been completed by the Board of Education to inaugurate an oral school for deaf children in connection with the public school system of Portland. The innovation will begin at the regular opening of the Fall term of the schools.

Announcement of such a school will perhaps interest only a few, but those few are deeply and sincerely interested. At the opening of the term there will be a number of deaf and dumb children in attendance and already more than half a dozen are eagerly awaiting the chance to learn to speak.

The school will be located, in all probability, in one of the public school buildings, but definite announcement of the location will be made later. Only speech and lip reading will be taught, finger or sign, language being entirely eliminated.

Those urging the establishing of such a school insist that it will be of inestimable more benefit to unfortunate children than the regular state institutions. At the local schools, it is contended, children attending will be permitted to remain with their parents and children of any age will be eligible to entrance. They will also have the opportunity of mingling and associating with speaking people, while at the same time learning to speak.
