SUMMER RUSH AT BEACHES AT ITS HEIGHT

Hotels Filling Up and Cottagers Take Up Residence by the Sea for the Season.

A LONG RUN AND THEN A PLUNGE

THE YOUNGSTERS LOVE TO PLAY AT THE EDGE OF THE SURF

SEASIDE, Or., July 11.—The Summer population at the beaches continues to increase. Cottage-owners are arriving almost daily. Summer residents have flocked down, and the resort has now the aspect of mid-summer. Old and new friends make up the colony of guests assembled at the hotels and cottages. It is a conspicuous fact that the season here, while a bit tardy, has now started in full earnest.

Society finds itself getting settled at its cottages, riding, driving, boating on the Necanicum, fishing, clamming and crabbing, or bathing and early morning walking parties are the order of the day, and immense bonfires attest to the charms of the beach after nightfall. The new auto road from Seaside to Elk Creek lacks about one-half mile of being completed, but motoring parties are frequent and it is only a short time until the road will be in shape.
