

NEW BUILDINGS FOR UNIVERSITY

Extensive Improvements to Meet Growth of the Institution.

CAMPUS TO BE ENLARGED

Regents Expected to Close Option on Kincaid Field—President Campbell Will Go East to Secure Instructors.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Or., July 18.—(Special.)—An important meeting of the university regents will be held here on July 25, at which time arrangements will be made for the construction of one or two additional buildings for the campus, for the purchase of additional land and for general repairs and improvements in and about the university.

Owing to the overcrowded condition of the present buildings, it is quite likely that another recitation hall will be erected between Deady Hall and the new library. Other buildings that are being talked of are a large dormitory for women, and an addition to the engineering building. Owing to the lateness of the season and the time that will be required for the drawing up of plans, it is unlikely that any work of importance will be commenced before Spring. This means that none of the new buildings will be ready for use before September, 1909. There are a number of repairs and improvements, however, that will be made at once, such as the furnishing of the women's clubhouse and the lighting and heating of the library.

More Land Needed for Campus.

One of the gravest problems that confronts the regents is the purchase of additional land for the campus. The university has an option on the Kincaid football field and it is certain that this ground will be acquired and used as a site for future buildings. This means that the students will be forced to secure another athletic field within the next year or two. There are several other tracts of land adjoining the campus that the university needs badly, but owing to the increase in land values in and about the City of Eugene, only a limited amount of ground can be purchased. When the Legislature passed the memorable Eaton bill, appropriating $125,000 per year for the university, land values were 30 per cent lower than they are at the present time. Had the university been able to use the funds when the bill was first passed, instead of waiting for the vote on the referendum, more than $10,000 could have been saved.

Costly Improvements to Be Made.

As the $125,000 appropriation commenced to run during the year 1907, there is now a balance of about $75,000 in favor of the University in the office of the State Treasurer. This amount represents the difference between the old appropriation of $125,000 per year and the new appropriation of $125,000. This fund will be considerably increased by the time the new buildings are completed, as not more than $20,000 a year will be required for maintenance. It is estimated that about $150,000 will be spent for buildings and permanent improvements by September 1, 1909. This means that the university will then be in a position to accommodate a large student body that it is certain to have by that time.

President Campbell Going East.

President Campbell will go East immediately after the meeting of the regents and will secure the services of a number of additional instructors for the coming year. He will also visit a number of big institutions of learning in the East and Middle West. The Registrar's office is flooded with applications from prospective students, and it is certain that there will be an enrollment of not less than 500 during the coming year. The freshman class will contain upward of 250 students as compared with a total freshman enrollment of 290 for last year.

FUNERAL OF J. F. CAPLES

Public Services in Taylor-Street Church Tomorrow.

Arrangements for the funeral of the late John F. Caples were practically complete. Rev. L. C. Poor, pastor of the Sellwood Methodist Episcopal Church, will conduct services at the family residence at 11:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at which only members of the immediate family will be present. The remains will later be removed to the Taylor-street Methodist Episcopal Church, where services will be conducted at 2 o'clock by Rev. D. L. Radet. Friends of Mr. Caples are invited to attend.

GATHERS HISTORICAL DATA

R. E. Gosnell, British Columbia Archivist, Visits Portland.

R. E. Gosnell, for more than 20 years a resident of Victoria, B. C., and for some time past the editor of the British Colonist of that city, was in Portland yesterday for the special purpose of examining the collections of the Oregon Historical Society. For a number of years prior to his editorial connection with the Colonist he was the librarian of the Legislative Assembly of British Columbia and Secretary of the Bureau of Provincial Information. Recently he resigned his editorial chair to accept the position of archivist of the British Columbia government, a position which he has recently qualified to fill with great credit, owing to his intimate knowledge of all affairs relating to British Columbia. He expects to make a special study of all the data concerning the early development of his particular field, and in-dentally of the entire Pacific Northwest. He was in London not long ago examining records of the English government and the Hudson's Bay Company respecting the Pacific Northwest, and found much that will be of great interest to all the region affected directly or indirectly by the operations of that company. This material is being copied under his direction and in due time will be published and thus made accessible to the student of Pacific Coast history. Since the headquarters of the Hudson's Bay Company were at Vancouver, now in Washington, it may be seen that Mr. Gosnell's work is destined to be of great interest to this particular locality.

UTAH MAN ELECTED DEAN OF SCHOOL OF COMMERCE AT OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

Professor J. A. Bexell, OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, July 18.—(Special.)—Professor J. A. Bexell, who was recently elected dean of the School of Commerce at the Oregon Agricultural College, comes from the Utah College of Agriculture, where he held a similar position. Before locating in Utah he was connected with the Angus College at Rock Island, Ill. He comes well recommended as a scholar and as a man who understands his subject. The originality which characterized his work at the Utah school marks him as a man of genius in his particular line of work. He is the originator of several systems of accounting.

noon and night, was a delightful affair, and attracted large numbers of people. Early in the afternoon the award of prizes was announced by A. J. Clark, E. T. Mische and Mrs. A. T. Biles, the judges. There were three prizes for each variety of sweet peas.

There were choice exhibits from all parts of the county, all tastefully displayed on duty white tables on the third floor of the City Hall. The work was in charge of members of the Oregon State Congress of Mothers and R. F. Robinson, County Superintendent of Schools. The annual sweet pea show is designed to stimulate greater love for and knowledge of flower culture, and is said to be rapidly accomplishing its object. There was much interest in the affair from the start, but this season's was the most elaborate and gratifying of the three annual exhibitions.

The complete list of prizes, awarded according to variety, follows:
Salmon—First, Ellen Jackson, Milwaukie; second, Faye Robinson, Portland; third, Lizzie Aebly, Portland.
Creech—White—First, Maurine Thurmond, St. John; second, Faye Robinson, Portland; third, Ellen Jackson, Milwaukie.

BIG FIGHT CERTAIN

Council Will Tackle Problem of Women in Saloons.

ORDINANCE UP WEDNESDAY

Councilmen Are Divided and Belding Says He Will Propose to Class Hotels that Serve Liquor, With Saloons.

There will be a strenuous time in the City Council next Wednesday, when the proposed ordinance barring women from saloons comes up for consideration. All kinds of objections will be hurled at it, the most sensational of which will be by Councilman Belding, who yesterday declared himself in favor of legislation that will wipe out drinking in the hotels and cafes of the city. Other members will make the charge that the ordinance is in favor of special interests, and that it works for the particular interests of the hotels as against the saloons, although the latter pay the high license. The biggest kind of a row is sure to result when the matter comes up for action.

"They talk about the evil of the saloon," said Councilman Belding yesterday, "but I contend and can show that hotels, and some that are located in the heart of this city, lure to ruin more young women than all the saloons put together. You can't get a girl to go into the so-called low saloon, but it is comparatively easy to persuade any unsophisticated girl to enter a hotel or cafe, under the pretense of getting a meal; then purchase a little liquor, dull her senses and she is unable to protect herself. If it is the desire to clean up conditions, I will fight for a law to prohibit the indiscriminate sale of liquor to women in hotels and cafes, and I will prove to any fair-minded man that my position is right."

"Another specially vicious and startling feature of this city today is its Chinese noodle establishments," continued Councilman Belding. "These places sell liquor to anyone, old or young, and are the most vicious resorts in Portland. It is easy to get a girl to go into one of them on the pretext that it is a nice place to eat a noodle house; but the results are so baneful that, in my opinion, the Council ought to revoke every one of their liquor licenses at once. I favor the revocation of every hotel liquor license in this city right now. It is coming to the point where people will have to buy what liquor they want to use and drink it at home, if this indiscriminate sale is continued, for it is so ruinous that it is positively appalling. If the Council is contemplating a measure to regulate the sale of liquor to women, let it pass an ordinance that will cover all of these evils."

Councilman Cottle, chairman of the liquor-license committee of the Council, opposes the ordinance, as he says that it is calculated to benefit the hotels to the detriment of the saloons. Councilmen Willis and Driscoll will support the proposed measure, and it is known that Councilmen Cellars and Bennett favor it. Owing to its drastic provisions, making it one of the most severe laws ever considered by the Council, it now seems certain that it will bring about one of the greatest battles ever fought in the council. It is highly recommended for passage by City Attorney Kavanaugh and Chief Deputy Grant, who declare it to be the most important ordinance as to the regulation of the public morals ever introduced before the Council. The saloon interests are strictly opposed to its passage. The ordinance is fathered by Mr. Driscoll.

STREETCAR MEN OFF DUTY

RELAYS TO INVADE THE OAKS THURSDAY.

Sports and Baby Show Expected to Attract Big Crowd and Swell Benefit Fund.

All is in readiness for the annual picnic of the streetcar men next Thursday at the Oaks, when the motormen and conductors of the city trolley lines will cavort all day long and far into the night. Because of their duties at the controller and ticket punch, the carmen will have to visit the park in relays. They will come and go as their runs demand, but during the day and night all will have sufficient time off duty to share in the festivities at the local Coney Island. The men have arranged with the company to make a night of it and will run cars as late as necessary to carry the crowds home.

From the number of tickets sold by the streetcar men for the picnic, it looks as though there would be a record-breaking crowd. The streetcar men resort on Thursday. There is keen rivalry between the trolley men to see who will sell the most tickets. From the way the crowds are being disposed of, it looks like there will be 50,000 people pass through the turnstiles at the Oaks on picnic day.

A baby show will not be the least attractive feature of the day. There will be many entries, it is said, for this exhibit and the contest for first honors will be keen. Prizes are worth striving for and there will be some of the prettiest babies in the city on parade.

Athletic events promise to be unusually interesting. The streetcar men are expert in a number of stunts and the different barn crews are organizing tug-of-war teams. This contest is expected to be closely fought out.

Proceeds of the picnic are to swell the treasury funds of the Brotherhood of Electric Railway Employees of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company, a worthy organization which distributes benefits to members who are sick or injured and to their dependent families in case of death.

ly the only charge which Mr. Currie makes in his bill for dissolution of partnership is that Mr. Case in taking orders from customers did not secure enough cash to cover the purchase of stocks and bonds by the firm and that the firm in this way became obligated to others to the extent of $1,045.00. According to Judge Mandell, Mr. Case admitted this charge.

Mr. Currie stated today that the receivership had been determined upon after a thorough investigation of the firm's troubles and the best way of weathering them and the promising manner of collecting the heavy indebtedness of customers whom they had been carrying on their books.
