

HOT WEATHER DRIVES CROWDS FROM INTERIOR TO BEACHES

NEWPORT, July 25.—(Special.)—The week has been a busy one at Newport, notwithstanding the fact that the early days were gloomy and misty. All week long tourists have been coming to Newport in large crowds, and the town is now well filled. Practically every cottage at Nye Beach, which is not already filled, is rented for the remainder of the season. Tents have gone up in great numbers during the week, giving Nye Beach a typical Summer appearance.

A burglar made his appearance at Nye Beach this week, and on Friday evening entered the cottage of Dr. H. J. Minthorn, securing about $10 in small change. To allay the fears of the campers, all four of the Newport police force are working on the case, and hope to run the thief to earth.

SOCIAL EVENTS ARE NUMEROUS

Variety of Functions Keep Visitors to Beach Well Entertained.

Parties to North Head and the wrecked Salome have been many in number, and now that the big touring cars are down, it is predicted that the popular trip will have more fascination than before, if possible.

The recent ones were that on Thursday afternoon, when some of the guests at Hackney went in wagons to North Head. In the party were: Mrs. Frank C. Baker, Miss Anna Warnock, Miss Henderson, Miss Lillian Brown, Miss Belle Shields.

A congenial party of Long Beach guests visited the wrecked Salome last week. The trip was made in a touring car, and was in the nature of an all-day outing. An early morning start was made, taking basket luncheons along, and the return was at dusk. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Taft, Miss Louise Lauga, Miss Leslie Flak, Mrs. William O'Donnell, Mrs. Echart, Mrs. Kinley, and Larkin Schell, all Portlanders, with the exception of Mrs. Echart, who is from Salt Lake City.

Later in the week an auto party went from Long Beach to the wrecked steamer Salome. The party was composed of Miss Warnock, Miss Henderson, Mrs. F. Baker and daughter Frances, and Dr. Johnson.

The guests at North Beach Inn have made several trips to North Head and are having nightly beach parties and bonfires. The latter form of amusement is well represented all along the beach. Every night the lovely illuminations dot the long stretch of sandy beach, and the colored Chinese lanterns, from cottages, tents and hotels.

Sunday afternoon a musical was given the guests at Hackney Cottage. Louis Cannon, rendered a most pleasing programme of vocal numbers, and Miss Rose Schacht delighted the party by her beautiful instrumental selections. Later in the evening, Thursday, another musical was given by Mrs. Kinley, who sang Annie Laurie in splendid voice. M. J. Politz also assisted with several vocal numbers. Miss Frances Baker, Mrs. Louis Dammann, Mrs. J. Hackney, B. H. Bodley, and Dr. Fred Reissacker were present.

One of the events of the season, among the very young, was a surprise party tendered Master George V. Knight on his sixth birthday, Wednesday, July 15. The party was given at Mrs. J. O. Wickham's cottage in Centerville. The games were in keeping with the youth of the participants, a peanut hunt exciting great interest. Music and other games, followed later by refreshments, served at a beautifully decorated table, bearing two handsome birthday cakes, presented by the guests, served to make the evening most pleasant one. The small host was also the recipient of many unique little gifts. Those present were: Frances Barbey, Doris Wildman, Florence Holmes, John Wickham, George Knight, Ormond Wickham, Mrs. Wickham was assisted in making Mrs. B. Knight and Mrs. Wildman the most popular guests for the little ones.

The following young people are having most pleasurable vacations in the Schade cottage: Miss May Dudson, Miss Bees McBride, Misses Ida and Frances Schade, Tracy Higgins and Lawrence Schade. Recently the party had a lally-ho trip to North Head and the Fishing Rocks.

With Mrs. C. W. Mastick as chaperone, the young girls who are forming the Mastick house party enjoyed an outing to Seaview on Thursday. They took basket luncheons, and spent the day picnicking. The party consisted of Misses Loretta and Margaret Mastick, Miss Wilma Flak, Miss Minnetta Carson, Misses Emma and Cora Mastick. The party will last throughout the season, and many plans have been made for many

OUTINGS AND EXCURSIONS

Miss Cora Mastick, the young hostess, is a charming blonde, with unusually fair coloring.

One of the largest bonfires in the annals of North Beach was that of the Hackney Cottage guests on Wednesday evening at Seaview. The largest possible logs and driftwood were piled high, decorated with bottles, and fireworks set in the center. The illumination was spectacular. Refreshments were served and an especial feature of interest was lent by the relating of a story by each member of the party. Mr. F. Scudamore, of Portland, was toastmaster. Those present were: Misses Katherine and Cecelia Cain, W. L. Barnes, Lillian Warnock, Henderson, and Rose, Bertha, Lila and Marguerite Schacht; Messrs. W. B. and F. C. Livingston, B. C. Paul, Leo Sealing, George Fichter, F. E. Sundamora, Mrs. Whitney and Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Kline and Mrs. Schacht.

At Hotel Sunset a large dancing party was given on Friday evening. The big rooms were beautifully decorated with ferns, sweet peas, poppies and nasturtiums, while Japanese lanterns lent an additional beauty to the scene. Punch was served during the evening, and later a buffet lunch. The following guests participated: Misses Edie Johnson, Anna Hurd, E. R. Sylvester, Lulu and Evelyn Snow, Marie and C. Zimmerman, Elaine Gooley, Miss Dudrowe, Ida and Frances Gooley, Mrs. W. H. Dedman, Mrs. Fred Johnson, Mrs. E. Rich and Mrs. Anna Paul Marsch, P. Streib, L. G. Schade, Tracy Higgins, H. G. Pottinger, S. Douglas, M. Hinks, D. M. Donough, R. T. Johnson, Earl Lowrey, J. E. Knit, K. C. Johnston, J. R. O'Connor, Charles and H. Jennings.

An interesting card party was given for the guests at the Salt Lake on last Monday night. The dining-rooms and parlors were beautifully decorated with ferns, potted plants, cut flowers and gayly colored Chinese lanterns. The game was 50, and the prizes were given to Mrs. Charles Jennings and J. Cameron.

NORTH BEACH IS POPULAR

Easy of Access From Portland, Large Crowds Visit Resort.

LONG BEACH, Wash., July 25.—(Special.)—One great and pertinent reason for the continued popularity of North Beach is its easy accessibility to Portland. Steamers leaving on Saturday afternoon and evening as late as 10 o'clock at night, out of Portland, bring the Sunday excursionist to North Beach in the early morning on Sunday. The return trip is made at 9 o'clock from Long Beach, giving an outing of fine days to the beautiful beach. Every feature of comfort is looked out for, and first-class accommodations can be secured at any point along the beach from itsca to Tioga. Combining as it does every natural pleasure of a seaside outing, with material comfort, the trip is one surely to be desired by those who can find time and means to leave behind them the hot winds of the city for a day's outing at North Beach.

Since the warm waves have been dispersing themselves over our beautiful Portland, the beaches have received a larger influx of guests. Tents and campers, cottagers and resident guests at the hostleries flock down in crowds and the beach has taken on its busy mid-summer atmosphere.

So many activities are held out to the visitor at North Beach that one is fain to enumerate them. Horseback riding and driving, along the 16-mile stretch of sandy beach, when the tide is out; sunbathing, all along the beach, auto rides to various points of interest in the two big touring cars, wagon and hayrack parties, picnics, jaunts into the beautiful wilds, crab and clam parties, all sorts of outings, besides the gala evenings spent about camp fires, and the many kinds of artistic amusements, tend to make even one day at North Beach a red-letter one.
