HEARST TO TALK THROUGH OREGON

Campaign Managers Arrange His Tour.

WILL SWING AROUND CIRCLE

Repeat Performances of Canvass for Governor.

MAY FORCE BRYAN OUT

Attacks of Independent Leader Are Likely to Drive Nebraskan on Stump—Man Cast Out by Hearst Predicts Failure.

BY LLOYD F. LONERGAN.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—(Special.)—William Randolph Hearst will probably speak in Oregon during the present campaign. Up at the Independence Party's Club in Gramercy Park, the high moguls are busy with time tables figuring just how much territory the proprietor of the new organization can cover between now and November.

Mr. Hearst, it is said, realizes that the only newspaper support he will have in the campaign of the Independence party will be that of papers under his ownership. To reach the great mass of voters outside his circulation he has determined to make a personal canvass. It has been his experience in the state and city campaigns that his remarks have been quoted quite fully and fairly by the opposition press. By a rear-end platform tour of the country, striking the centers of population and large newspaper circulation, he hopes to get his doctrines and ideas before the people in general in a favorable light.

Because of his advocacy of a Navy large enough to protect the Pacific as well as the Atlantic Coast, and his continued opposition to Chinese and Japanese immigration, Mr. Hearst hopes to make a big impression with his speeches in California, Oregon, Washington and the Far West generally.

Keep Hearst Talking.

The tentative plan mapped out contemplates personal oratory by Mr. Hearst beginning August 15 and ending a few hours before the polls open on election morning. How this will appeal to Mr. Hearst has not yet been made public, but his managers believe he will consent. It is the intention to maroon Mr. Hearst on a special train, keep the train moving, and keep Mr. Hearst talking. In this way it is believed that many thousands of votes will be captured for the Independence party.

The schedule calls for a preliminary tour of the West, taking in the Coast states. Then a jump will be made to Illinois, Wisconsin, Ohio and Indiana, where good results are expected. This will be followed by an invasion of New Jersey and New York. From the Atlantic Coast Mr. Hearst will drift down South, paying particular attention to Georgia and other states pointed out by John Temple Graves. The next stand will be New England, where Mr. Hearst and Mr. Hisgen will appear on the same car platform. The remaining days of the campaign will be devoted to New York.

Anybody will admit that this is a pretty ambitious programme, but it is bound to appeal to Mr. Hearst—on paper, anyway. It calls for his appearance in the following states: Oregon, California, Washington, Idaho, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee, with other states to hear from.

Graves Will Join in South.

During his trip through the South, Mr. Hearst will be accompanied by John Temple Graves, nominee for Vice-President, who will be given a leave of absence by the New York American. Presidential Nominee Thomas L. Hisgen will have a section of the train while it wanders around New England and New York. The leading people in the Far West tour have not yet been announced.

Clarence J. Shearn has been signed for the entire season. During recent campaigns Mr. Shearn, who is Mr. Hearst's lawyer, has always preceded him on the platform, and made a good impression on audiences all over the state. Mr. Shearn is a little man with a loud voice and a convincing style of oratory.

Mr. Hearst's original plans provided for a calm, safe and conservative tour of the country. He thought that, if he appeared in a number of big cities and spoke at large, well advertised mass meetings, he would be doing his duty to the party he created. But other enthusiasts do not look at the matter in that light.

"We must keep Hearst talking," declared one man at the Independence Party's Clubhouse today. "We must keep him talking day and night. Then and only then will victory be assured."

The contemplated Hearst train service recalls the exciting times the then Democratic candidate for Governor had in 1906. The same master minds are mapping out his tours now. Day after day Mr. Hearst was routed out at 6 A. M. to speak at 10 minute intervals at water tanks along the line. Then at 8 o'clock at night he would reach some big city, and make whirlwind tours in automobiles and trolley cars, winding up long after midnight. On one occasion he reached New York city after a day of long continued vocal effort to find he was billed for 26 speeches at 26 widely separated points in the metropolis.

Even Invaded Other States.

Another time he addressed 500 enthusiastic farmers at Susquehanna and nobody discovered until the next day that Susquehanna is in Pennsylvania. The Erie train had crossed the line, that was all. His managers also arranged celebrations in New Jersey, and had to be sharply called to account.

The famous "Flying Wedge" is also anxious to get into the game again this year. The "Flying Wedge" was the invention of a Hearst employe, who happened to belong to a labor union two years ago. He gathered together a happy band of union "workingmen," and they had a lovely time galloping about the state. Their efforts met with great success, except for the fact that nobody could ever tell exactly "where they were at." If the "Flying Wedge" was due to invade Sag Harbor, at the extreme edge of Long Island, on a certain night, it was more than an even bet that its voices would be heard in the wilds of St. Lawrence County, up on the Canadian border. But the "Wedgers" enjoyed themselves, and their expenses did not come to much more than the cost of two brass bands, and everybody admitted that they made far more noise.

The "Wedge" is anxious to perform again this year, but the consensus of opinion is against it. It is believed that a compromise will be effected, and a few "Wedgers" permitted to accompany Mr. Hearst on his train.

Prominent Democratic leaders who have been told Mr. Hearst's plans say that such a programme will probably result in forcing Mr. Bryan to take the stump during the last six weeks of the campaign. This prospect is regarded with varying favor by Democrats. Some believe that Mr. Bryan will be stronger at home than on the stump. Others say that the time is ripe for Mr. Bryan to get out and show that he is a bigger and broader man than he was 12 or eight years ago.

Criticisms of Outcast.

"C. Augustus Haviland, once chairman of the Independence League in Brooklyn, has proudly enrolled his name on the list of Hearst traitors. Mr. Haviland, who has just returned from Europe, gives out an interview more in sorrow than in anger, in which he says:

"The Independence League is taking a suicidal leap. Mr. Hearst is being used by a lot of local politicians who want to ride into local office. The sincere men, the thinking men who have no axes to grind, and who are in the league movement for honest purposes, are not one-idea men like the Prohibitionists. They cannot be induced to throw away their votes. The mere politicians who joined in the movement are for the spoils of the office, and for nothing else."

Mr. Haviland figures that the Independence League movement will hurt Mr. Taft and injure Mr. Bryan. As a matter of news, it may be interesting to listen to his reasons. Here they are:

"If Mr. Roosevelt had been nominated on the Republican ticket, the Independence League vote would have been about equally divided. All that is likely to happen now is that the dissatisfied Republicans of the Independence League who respect Mr. Roosevelt for his fearless course may possibly support the league ticket in preference to supporting Mr. Taft, while the men of the Independence League who were Democrats will support Mr. Bryan. It is absurd to suppose for a moment that the men recognized as those who have the best interests of their country at heart will be mere puppets and register a vote which cannot mean anything except to keep before the public a lot of politicians who want local offices."

This argument is not convincing to the average politician, Republican and Democrat alike. For the old party men agree that Mr. Hearst's strength is mostly Democratic, and analysis of his votes in past campaigns has demonstrated this to their satisfaction. But Haviland has been thrown out of the Independence party, and will not be allowed to "hitch on" to Mr. Hearst's special train, even should he feel so inclined.

JAPAN'S TASK NOT EASY

Educated Corean Says Insurrection Is Serious Affair.

TOKIO, July 20.—Kim Yunzik, President of the Privy Council in Seoul, who arrived in Japan with Prince Ito, is quoted by Tokio papers as saying that the object of his visit is to observe the progress of the Prince Imperial's studies and at the same time to make himself acquainted with Japan's condition and development. He expresses himself in very courteous and complimentary terms about this country and its doings in Corea, but he disavows all intention of flattering, and he justifies this claim to candor by speaking frankly about the insurrection.

He has little hope that it will be speedily quelled. Its main causes, according to his view, were the sudden disbanding of the Corean army and the abdication of the Emperor. Many of the disbanded soldiers retained possession of their arms when they fled from Seoul, and they thus formed the nucleus for a dangerous body of malcontents.

Mr. Kim is further quoted as saying that while it would be distinctly advantageous for the Corean sovereign to visit Japan, so as to be able to see at first hand evidence of material progress and modern civilization, there was as yet no possibility of saying definitely when the visit will be made. As for the ex-Emperor, he is now living entirely retired from the world, and he takes no part whatever in administrative affairs, so that little would be gained by his visiting Japan.

It appears from Mr. Kim's statements that the Emperor has been suffering from severe indigestion, caused by the state of his teeth, and he is now under the care of Dr. Koike. The ex-Emperor, also, is laid up with a swelling on his foot.

Vorys Will Open Campaign.

CEDAR POINT, Ohio, August 8.—Arthur I. Vorys, manager of the movement which culminated in William H. Taft's nomination for the Presidency, will preside at the opening meeting of Republicans at Youngstown, September 5. The orators will be Governor Harris, who will speak on state issues, and Governor Hughes, of New York, and Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, who will explain the National issues. Invitations will be extended to Senators Foraker and Dick, though their names will not be on the programme, for addresses
