A PART OF THE CROWD IN THE GRANDSTAND ON THE CLOSING DAY OF THE RACES AT THE COUNTRY CLUB.

STOCK SHOW ENDS

First Exhibition by Country Club Comes to Close.

FINAL DAY BRINGS CROWDS

Effect of Gathering of Blooded Stock Encouraging. Only Disappointment Being Lack of Portland Attendance.

With the best racing events of the entire week, with the biggest and most enthusiastic attendance and with a general feeling of satisfaction on the part of the management, the first annual meeting of the Pacific National Show at the magnificent new grounds of the Country Club came to an end yesterday.

Neighboring cities, towns and communities patronized the big show liberally. Portland patronized it as grudgingly as possible. Each day's attendance showed a far larger percentage of out-of-town patrons than local, although each succeeding day developed a greater degree of interest. Portland finally realized, during the closing days of the fair, that one of the biggest enterprises on the Coast, so far as horses and stock are concerned, was under way, and there was some show of appreciation.

It was noon when the crowd began arriving yesterday and by the time the races started seats in the grandstand and bleachers were filled. Around the inside fence were vehicles of every description and many stood along the fence on the outside of the track.

Hundreds visited the stock barns where blooded stock from many states of the West and Northwest were quartered. Hundreds will also visit the barns today, for the stock is not to be moved until today and Monday.

Brings Permanent Residents.

"The fair was the means of bringing numbers of permanent residents to Portland," said Secretary Westgate. "Even from California several have indicated their intention of locating here after seeing the show and realizing what it will mean to Portland. The show will make Portland known as the horse and stock center of the Northwest, and indeed of the entire Coast.

"We will make no complaint about anything this year, for so far as the show was concerned, everyone admits it was a great success. Next year, and during succeeding years, we hope to have the co-operation of every citizen of Portland and of this section of the country."

A number of horses, including several of Frank Alley's crack animals from Roseburg, made records at the track yesterday. The racehorses, runners, trotters and pacers, for the most part, will be shipped today to North Yakima.

Will Protest Sunday Closing.

A mass meeting for the consideration of the principles underlying the law closing stores on Sundays will be held at Women of Woodcraft Hall at 7:45 o'clock tonight, under the auspices of the Seventh-Day Adventists. That the law is unconstitutional and contrary to the principles underlying the founding of the Republic, because it is legislation of a religious nature, will be the contention of the four speakers who will address the audience. They are: A. J. Breed, of Walla Walla; Daniel Nettleton, of Portland; W. F. Martin, of Portland; and E. E. Andruss, of England. Admission is free.

The area of Maryland is 12,210 square miles, 2330 square miles of which are water. There are seven states in the Union which have a smaller area, viz: every New England state except Maine, and New Jersey and Delaware. The gross area of none of these states equals the land area of Maryland.
