

A Few Reasons Why People Allow Their Teeth to Become Worthless

Afraid the dentist will hurt them. Grudge the money the work will cost. Procrastination. Always putting it off. Lack of pride in personal appearance. Lack of knowledge of the wonderful achievements of modern dentistry, and other reasons too numerous to mention.

THINK IT OVER TODAY

If you are right in neglecting yourself, when modern dentistry, as applied at this office, causes no pain, improves your health and appearance a thousandfold, and all at a trifling cost, considering the immense advantage derived, you will consider it the best investment that you ever made.

LOVE'S ROAD ROCKY

Wedding Bells Fail to Ring for Yamhill Couple.

ARRESTED AFTER ELOPING

Marion Ewell and Nellie Johnson Walk Eight Miles, Wait All Night for Train, and Then They Are Captured.

Determined to elope and be married, Marion Ewell, aged 23 years, and Miss Nellie Johnson, aged 18 years, stole away together from the home of Mrs. Mary Robinson, at North Yamhill, Friday night and walked to Gaston, a distance of eight miles. It was nearly 2 A. M. when the pair, tired and footsore, brought up at the public schoolhouse at Gaston. They took up a position on the steps of the institution of learning, and talked over their plans until daybreak, when they kept out of the way as much as possible until the arrival of the Portland-bound Southern Pacific train. They boarded it and came to this city, where it was rumored they would seek a minister and have him marry them. One thing, however, they forgot—the police. Just as they stepped from the passenger coach at Fourth and Stark streets, an officer stepped up and tapped young Ewell on the shoulder.

"Mr. Ewell," asked the officer. "The same, sir," replied the bridegroom-to-be—maybe.

"I have a warrant here for your arrest for kidnaping; be so kind, pending the investigation of your case," said the officer, in a polite tone.

"Pleased to do so, sir," replied Mr. Ewell, and off to the station-house went they.

Then the humiliating part of the whole game happened. Mrs. Robinson, who was left at the North Yamhill home milking the family cow when her young woman helper marched away with her lover under the protecting shades of night, had quickly surmised what was going, and had caused the police here to be notified. She described the pair, and they were waltz picked up.

Well, it was a bad state of affairs for the lovers. They were obliged to remain at police headquarters, under the care of the genial Captain Bailey, until the arrival of Mrs. Robinson. When she reached the scene, she speedily unwound all of the plans that had been made by the youngsters, and handed out some spicy advice to the humbled Mr. Ewell. It ended by Mrs. Robinson taking Miss Johnson, who he to be sent to a sisters' home at Cottage Grove.

"They think they're pretty freah," said young Mr. Ewell, "but say, just wait till I get through with that old busy-body—Mrs. Robinson; if I don't fool her, I'm a dead one. The girl and I had it all fixed up that, if we are parted by the interference of this woman, who worked the life out of Nell, we will meet tomorrow at Cottage Grove and get married. Why not? She's old enough, I'm old enough, and what's to stop us? We will get married in spite of all they can do."

And Mr. Ewell, of North Yamhill, threw out his chest, and said he'd go and eat, having had nothing in the bread line since leaving the Robinson home Friday night. And as for Miss Nellie, she was humbly escorted to the depot by Mrs. Robinson, and the two were passengers when the south-bound train pulled out.

JEWELRY IN NEW YORK

A Blunder Committed by Police Commissioner Bingham Retracted.

An error gross in itself and unjust in its consequences was made by Police Commissioner Bingham, of New York, recently. In an article published in the North American Review, which gave, or purported to give, criminal statistics of the city of New York, he said that "under existing conditions it was not astonishing that with a million Hebrews, mostly Russian, in the city (one-fourth of the population), perhaps half of the criminals should be of that race." In a letter to the New York Sun, he admits he was mistaken. The statistics used by him were compiled by others, and he used them without taking care for their verification. He says they appear to have been founded "on the percentage of Jewish boys in the House of Refuge.

But even this, he says, is "misleading." Here is his explanation in detail: "The figures used in the article were not compiled by myself, but were furnished me by others and were unfortunately assumed to be correct. It now appears, however, that these figures were unreliable. Hence it becomes my duty frankly to say so and repudiate them."

The idea which I sought to impress was that the number of foreigners with whom the police come in contact is very large, and that a special knowledge of racial customs and manners is essential to the attainment of the best results by the police in the investigations of crimes committed by and against those of foreign origin. The percentage given of Jewish boys in the House of Refuge is, it appears, also misleading. This proportion of boys, it is now pointed out, should be considered not solely in relation to the total number of boys in the House of Refuge, but with reference to the total number of boys in all similar institutions where boys of this age, and of other races and faiths, are sent. The proportion of Jewish boys considered in relation to the inmates of other like institutions would be, of course, relatively different.

In view of all this and of the fact that many estimable citizens feel hurt by what I wrote without the slightest malice, prejudice or unfriendliness, for I have none, I withdraw the statements challenged frankly and without reserve. I shall look forward with interest to the result of the research of the committee of representative citizens which is now engaged in making an accurate and exhaustive study of this whole question and shall be glad to meet them.

FIRE DESTROYS CHURCHES

Three Houses of Worship Go Up in Flames.

FOND DU LAC, Wis., Sept. 25.—The destruction by fire of three of the principal churches, an automobile garage and seven automobiles and the residence of former Mayor Mayham, entailed a loss early today estimated at $300,000, partially covered by insurance. Among the principal losses are:

St. Joseph's Catholic Church and parsonage, $100,000; Congregational Church, $75,000; Crescent Garage and seven automobiles, $25,000.

The fire is said to have started from an explosion of gasoline in the Crescent garage. That building with its valuable contents was soon licked up and with the aid of a high wind the flames also communicated to the church property in that vicinity. Firebrands from the burning churches were blown over an area of 10 blocks, spreading fires to roofs of many residences.

Argentina's area under cultivation is now 26,000,000 acres, comparing with 12,000,000 in 1905.

NAPOLION AND HAMLET

Iron Chancellor Was Well Aware That Imagination Plays an Important Part in Great Statesmanship.

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—(Special)—A work of great interest has appeared here under the title, "Bismarck and Shakespeare," and reveals a perhaps hitherto unsuspected admiration on the part of the "Man of Blood and Iron" for the most poetic of all poets. The author's name is Arthur Bohlting.

Even as a student at Göttingen, Bismarck is found writing enthusiastically of "old Shakespeare" and "my Shakespeare," and requesting an English friend to send him, without delay, the English version of "Hamlet" and "Richard III."

Later on, as a country gentleman in Pomerania, Bismarck and his young wife got up Shakespeare parties, in the discussion at which both took an active and intelligent part. Often in the course of his political career he referred in his dispatches to his intimates for purposes of secrecy to well-known contemporaries by such names as "Falstaff," "Romeo," "Trinculo" or "Fortinbras."

In one of his public speeches he compared Napoleon III to Hamlet—no inapt comparison, as some, at least, may think; and since Bismarck's time no quotation is commoner in German books and addresses and conversation than "To be or not to be." He was fond, too, of constructing a Shakespearean scene.

After the treaty of Gastein had brought Lauberg and Kiel and Schleswig into Prussian possession, he suggested to General Manteuffel as they went to meet King Wilhelm that they should greet him as the witches did Macbeth, somewhat as follows: "Hail! Thane of Lauberg; Hail! Thane of Kiel! Hail! Thane of Schleswig!" History omits to say if the suggestion was carried out. As he grew old and his political star was declining, he often had the names of Lear and Coriolanus on his lips, until at the last his

The MONARCH-RANGE

Actually Pays for Itself in Cold Cash!

BY reducing fuel bills 25 to 50 per cent—

BY saving one quarter of the time usually spent in the kitchen—

BY eternally doing away with nearly ALL of the disagreeable labor necessary to keep the common range halfway presentable.

Understand Us

We don't make this unusual statement thoughtlessly. Our 30 years' experience as stove dealers convinces us that the Monarch is the one and only range that would justify such a claim. We want to demonstrate it to every intending range buyer.

Fuel, time and labor represent real money—and the Monarch Range will save a considerable percentage of all three.

This we can prove conclusively by the construction of the range and by the testimony of hundreds of Monarch owners in Portland.

Actual figures show that the saving in the first year or two of the range's use is sufficient to repay its entire first cost.

This, without even considering the delight that a woman experiences in using a range that ALWAYS does its work WELL. The value of such satisfaction is infinite. It can scarcely be estimated in dollars and cents.

FUEL

If Monarch Ranges were made like other ranges it would be ridiculous to claim a 1-3 fuel saving. But they aren't. Even the material is different. Made of malleable iron and rivets instead of brittle cast iron, bolts and stove putty, the Monarch gives for years and years good economical service that cannot even be expected of common "leaky" steel Ranges.

TIME

Much of the time spent in kitchen work is WASTED—waiting for the top to get hot in the morning, or the oven to get up to baking heat. The Monarch air-tight malleable construction saves this time. A piping hot fire in five minutes after opening the drafts is the regular thing.

LABOR

Stop blacking the range top! Nevermore touch the body of your range with paint! Give up scraping and scouring dirty black kettle bottoms. These things aren't necessary in a "Monarch" kitchen. The Monarch doesn't need such care, but still it's the constant pride of a housewife. It's so spotlessly clean and shiny.
