MEN WHO FIGURED IN NEWS OF WEEK

Some Who Have Acquired Prominence in Public Prints, or Have Had It Thrust Upon Them.

New YORK. Oct. 17.—(Special.)—
Among men who figured in the news of the week is Sir Alfred Harmsworth, or Lord Northcliffe, himself one of the greatest publishers of news. He controls the London Times, and is proprietor of the Daily Mail and some 45 other publications. He has arrived in New York, accompanied by his wife and mother. He will spend some 45 other publications. He has arrived in New York, accompanied by his wife and mother. He will spend some time in New York and then go to Newfoundland to look after his vast interests there. He was born in Dublic in 1855 and has made a name for himself in journalism.

Jonathan P. Dolliver is glad the Chicago convention chose Sherman to be its candidate for the Vice-Presidency. It was reported that the President wanted the lowal make a great to his succession of the nervos and his treatment it so of the nervos and his treatment it so of the nervos that the President wanted the lowal man as a running mate for Taft, in the belief that he would make a great
