Miss Cornelia Barker gave a violin solo, "Evening Star" from "Tannhauser." During the ceremony Miss Broughton played the "Spring Song," accompanied by Miss Barker on the violin. The bride wore a gown of white duchesse satin, trimmed with pink lace. The corsage was entirely of lace. Her veil of full was caught with orange blossoms. She was attended by Miss Connelly, who was gowned in pale blue messaline. Mr. E. Curran acted as best man, and little Agnes Cover, sister of the bride, was flower girl, carrying a basket of pink carnations, and was attended in a light blue silk princess dress. Mrs. Kleemann, mother of the bride, wore a black spangled net over gray silk, and Mrs. Cover, mother of the groom, was gowned in black silk. The bridesmaids were Messrs. Leo Thiébeau, F. Craig and F. Tuesday, December 1, at 4 P. M., the marriage of Miss Ethel M. Slater and in the Bohemian section of San Francisco and had among her sitters many of the most prominent people of the city. In the fire following the earthquake this studio was destroyed, together with a large number of unfinished works. Since that time Miss O'Ryan has had her studio in this city and her delicate artistry is becoming more and more appreciated.

Perhaps the gem of the exhibition is the miniature of California's renowned landscape artist, William Keith. The splendid personality of the man is portrayed with the most consummate art.

Another miniature with exceptional qualities is that of Mrs. David Honeyman. The miniature of Mrs. L. Allen Lewis and young son is another artistic triumph. Among the works in pastel, a medium which Miss O'Ryan recently adopted, are portraits of C. E. S. Wood, Mrs. Don J. Zan, Mrs. George W. McBride, Miss Dorothy Morrison, Miss Lella L. Shelby, Mrs. L. Allen Lewis and Miss Maud Howell. Miss O'Ryan's work in oils is represented by portraits of Dr. A. A. Morrison and Mrs. Robert W. Lewis and her two young sons.

William Robert L. Stopper was solemnized by Rev. Henry A. Barden at the clergyman's residence, 271 College street. The bride and groom were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Taylor, who acted as matron and best man. Mr. and Mrs. Stopper will reside at 1221 East Taylor street.

COMING EVENTS.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of St. David's Parish will hold an important meeting on Thursday, December 10, at 2:30 P. M., at the house of Mrs. Frank W. Swanton, 585 East Yamhill street, to which the members of all auxiliaries of the city have been invited. The subject under discussion will be "Missions in Alaska," and since the Diocese of Oregon has taken charge of the missionary work in that far-off land, it is expected that much information may be gained and benefit derived from the meeting. Rev. C. H. E. Bloor, now rector of Trinity Church, Everett, Wash., and formerly missionary to Alaska, will address the meeting. Dr. Bloor was the pioneer missionary in that part of Alaska known as Seward Peninsula. He established St. Mary's Mission at Nome; through his efforts a nice church was built there, and with the aid of the ladies of the church much good was accomplished in the early days in that inhospitable clime. And while the spiritual well-being was being looked after, the material prosperity of the mining camp was not overlooked, large sums of money having been raised to care for sick and needy who found themselves in many instances a long way from home, with no way to get home during the winter months, and to such the hand of friendship was extended. This was the work of Dr.
