An enjoyable evening was spent on December 8 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Wolf, 450 East Sherman street, in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary. Relatives and friends joined them in festivities of a social nature.

The Swatka 500 Club was entertained by Mrs. Reising last Thursday and spent a very pleasant afternoon. Each day was won by Mrs. Herschler. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Herschler.

WEDDINGS.

Story-Gibson.

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gibson, 2 Union avenue North, on Monday evening, December 7, when their daughter, Estelle Maud, and Daniel D. Story were united in marriage by the Rev. Benjamin Young, of Taylor-street M. E. Church. At 9 o'clock the bride entered the parlor to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, rendered by Mrs. E. V. Carpenter and Miss Pearl Chandler. The bride was given away by her father. The ring ceremony was performed, the bridal couple standing under a canopy of Oregon grape and an umbrella from which was suspended a white wedding veil. The bride wore a gown of white silk, organza over satin, and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations. Her bridesmaid, Miss Grace Story, sister of the groom, wore pink, and carried a bouquet of white carnations. Frank Schletter acted as best man. The parlor and dining-room were beautifully decorated in Oregon grape, ferns and white chrysanthemums. A reception followed the wedding. After a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Story will be at home at 2 Union avenue North.

Ford-Drewery.

A wedding of interest was that of Miss Marion Louisa Drewery and Frank Elmer Ford, which was solemnized at noon on Thursday at 27 East Twelfth street, North. The service was read by Rev. John E. H. Simpson. The bride was attired in a blue chiffon broadcloth traveling gown, and carried a bride's roses. She was given away by her brother, Harold Drewery. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Henry Schulderman, a sister of the groom. The bride stood under a canopy of white tulle and Oregon grape, with a background of palms. The color scheme of the room was pink, and was effectively used in the decorations, flowers, candle shades and lights. Mr. and Mrs. Ford have left for a trip to Seattle and British Columbia.

Winans-Ladd.

The wedding of F. Carl Winans, of Walla Walla, and Miss Florence Ladd, of Seattle, took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Lillian Alice Ladd, on Monday, November 22. The wedding was a pretty home affair. The bride was gowned in a traveling suit of broadcloth and carried a bride's bouquet of violets. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, where they will reside. The bride is the only daughter of Mrs. Lillian Alice Ladd, and up to a few years ago was a resident of La Grande, where she was a popular member of the younger society set. The groom belongs to one of the most highly respected pioneer families of Walla Walla.

Urdahl-Brooks.

A simple and pretty wedding occurred Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Shanks, when Miss Clara Brooks became the bride of H. H. Urdahl, one of Portland's well-known young real estate men. Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougier, the officiating clergyman. The only attendants were the two small daughters of Mr. and Mrs. James Forrest Shanks. The little maids were attired in white silk, Miss Dorothy carrying the ring in a silver basket lined with violets. Miss Beatrice carried a large basket of violets. The bride wore a tailored suit of neat gray chiffon broadcloth of distinctive model and carried an arm bouquet of white carnations. The bride is a recent acquisition to Portland's musical circles, coming from Tacoma.

Attwill-Ross.

A wedding of unusual interest to many in Portland was that of Miss Carrie E. Ross to William H. Attwill, of Washington, D. C., last week in Scriveron, Pa., and they will be at home after December 15 at 905 The Alabama, in Washington, D. C. Miss Ross was formerly one of the most successful teachers in the public schools of Portland, having given up her work several years ago to accept an excellent position in the Government work at Washington. Mr. Attwill is one of the examiners in the Patent Office and was for several years prominently connected with work in Harvard University, his home being in Boston.

Covell-Lindsey.

William Covell, of Portland, and Miss Belle Lindsey, of Albany, Ore., were married in the reception room of the White Temple Monday noon, December 7, Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougier officiating. The bride was attended by her friend, Miss Anna Foulkes, and the groom by his brother, Edward Covell. Mr. and Mrs. Covell left for the Rocky cities and Victoria, B. C. They will be at home at 88 East Nineteenth street North after January 1.

SOMETHING ABOUT ROSE STAHL WHO IS COMING TO PORTLAND

Now Famous Comedienne made Great Hit on Broadway in "The Chorus Lady."

NOT since Henrietta Crossman's sensational triumph in "Miss Nell," when she won in one night recognition from New York critics as worthy a place in the front rank of American stars, has an actress scored a similar success until Rose Stahl appeared on September 1, 1908, at the Savoy Theatre in James Forbes' comedy, "The Chorus Lady." Like Miss Crossman, she was practically unknown to Broadway. Today she is recognized as a comedienne of unique capacity for, in the words of an eminent critic, she possesses "a gift not often found in present-day actresses; the gift that makes her akin to Joseph Jefferson, Sol Smith Russell and Nat Goodwin, that felicitous ability to alternate, to almost merge comedy and pathos—the tear behind the laugh."

Miss Rose Stahl.

Immediately previous to her present appearance at the head of her own company under the managerial guidance of Henry R. Harzler, Miss Stahl had won at the Palace Theatre, in London, a reputation of the success she had enjoyed in America's vaudeville theaters, where she had been presenting for three years Mr. Forbes' one-act comedy of stage life, "The Chorus Lady." England's distinguished dramatic critics awarded her recognition never before bestowed on an actress outside of the legitimate stage.
