JOEL D. CARROLL, OLDEST SETTLER IN UNION COUNTY.

Crossed Plains From Iowa in 1864 and Settled in Grand Ronde Valley, Still His Home.

UNION, Or., Jan. 2.—(Special.)—The oldest resident of Union County, if not in Eastern Oregon, is Joel D. Carroll, of this city. Mr. Carroll was born in Clark County, Indiana, October 18, 1818. Practically all of his life has been spent among pioneer people. His father was a prosperous farmer, which work was distasteful to the son. At about 16 years of age he became an apprentice to a blacksmith, which work has since been his chief vocation.

In 1850 Mr. Carroll went to Clark County, Illinois, where he built a shop of his own and for five years prospered at the work. He then sold out and returned to his old home in Indiana, where he soon became the proprietor of the principal shop in New Washington. In this venture he was even more successful than in his first enterprise, and in a few years invested his surplus money in horses, which were driven south into Louisiana and sold at a handsome profit.

Within a few years Mr. Carroll found himself possessed of considerable money, and selling out he business at a good figure, again started west to seek new fields and greater fortune. This trip was extensive and carried him through Illinois, several of the Southern states, and a good portion of Iowa, where he finally located, near Osceola, the County Seat of Clark County. Upon reaching the new home Mr. Carroll acquired an extensive farm, but later moved to town and established the second blacksmith shop in the place.

In the Spring of 1864 Mr. Carroll sold all of his possessions, and bidding farewell to his many friends, started on the long journey across the plains to Oregon. Two wagons were required to haul himself and wife and their ten children. The start was made May 10, 1864, and on the 16th day of the following September the party reached Union, then a village of a few straggling log houses. A short stop was made in the Boise Valley, but being dissatisfied with that locality and hearing favorable reports of the Grand Ronde Valley, the journey was resumed after a brief rest of a week. Mr. Carroll's home has been at Union for 44 years, and he has never regretted his choice of a locality.

The journey across the plains was an extremely hazardous one, and fraught with the usual dangers from streams, floods and hostile Indians, which the adventurous pioneers met and overcame a half century ago. The first man that Mr. Carroll met in the town were A. C. Craig and Cy Prescott, both of whom are dead, but whose widows still reside in the city. After locating at Union Mr. Carroll established himself in the blacksmith business, which he followed for another six years. By that time, feeling that he had served his trade the allotted time, he closed out his business and engaged in farming, which he followed until old age forced him to retire from the field.

Although in his 91st year Mr. Carroll is still possessed of all his faculties and is apparently enjoying life as well as in his younger days. He thinks nothing of taking a journey of several hundred miles, traveling unattended. When not visiting with some of his children, nice different denominations in the town, but all have the same habit of taking up collections. The Methodist Church, the largest in town, passed the hat on Sunday last and $2618.50 was deposited therein.

It came about this way: There was nothing out of the ordinary during the service Sunday morning until it came time for Pastor Leech to announce his text. He didn't say: "If you will turn in so and so." His text was this: "The debt of this church will be paid before the end of the year." In a few minutes it was over subscribed.

A debt of $2300 had been hanging over the church for about three years, and Mr. Leech said it would not hang any longer than it would take to pass the hat around, and the hat was passed. Instead of getting $2300, the sum was over subscribed.

Rev. D. H. Leech, the pastor, was largely responsible for this. Fifteen years ago Mr. Leech owned several bands of sheep in Eastern Oregon. He quit the sheep business for the ministry. He has a habit of encouraging his flock to pay off debts, wherever the Methodist Bishops locate him, and a year ago he came to Corvallis with this habit. During the past year his church at Corvallis has increased its membership about 40 per cent, many of the new members coming from outside the state and from different counties of the state.

EIGHT PER CENT PREFERRED STOCK

Andrew Kan & Company

whose sole capital consisted of $300, a practical knowledge of the Oriental good imported into the United States, indefatigable energy and so today we are teaching only two-fifths of the business which would be ours were we in possession of the capital required to handle it.

The net earnings of the business for the last twenty-five years have been more than enough to pay above 8 per cent on the total issued capital stock, $100,000, for the entire period, and it is estimated that the new capital will double the present net earnings.

The Andrew Kan Company has shown an annual increase each year of its existence, selling only through its own exclusive store, and yet today we are teaching only two-fifths of the business which would be ours were we in possession of the capital required to handle it.

By increasing its capital so that the wholesale selling facilities can be enlarged adequately and immediately, Andrew Kan & Company will be able to take advantage of their years of experience in buying in China, and direct connection with factories of all lines, and thus the already created demand for our goods in this vast territory will be supplied.

AN EXCEPTIONAL INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITY

A better opportunity to share in the profits of a thoroughly established business has never before been offered to the public, because never before have there existed conditions similar to those which make this issue of stock desirable.

The exceptional security of an investment in Andrew Kan preferred is given by tangible assets, property in plain sight, that can be seen and felt and counted.

The corporation owns and operates the largest and most completely equipped store devoted exclusively to the Oriental goods. At each end of the store fixtures, wood carvings, silk, crockery, bric-a-brac, embroideries, robes, brass and china ware, and all real and personal property and equipment, supplies, stock of goods on hand in store and warehouse, are owned and used for the immediate extension of its store capacity, and for taking care of the business which is already assured.

In May, 1903, the Andrew Kan Company was started by a young man

PRESENT OWNERS--THE FOUNDERS--NOT SELLING OUT

Up to the present time, the Andrew Kan Company has been a close corporation, its ownership being vested exclusively in its founders, and each one has a keen interest in perpetuating the great success achieved.

The men actively engaged in the present management are young men, in the prime of their powers, which fact eliminates for a long time the possibility of loss of prestige and earning capacity through the loss of the genius that created the business. They will continue to work on the same principles and according to the same methods which have been responsible for rapid and profitable development of the business up to date.

The present owners are not selling out the business. The interest which is held by them per se cannot receive one cent of dividends until the full dividend has been paid quarterly, at the rate of 8 per cent per annum on all the preferred stock outstanding.

All who are interested in this offer are cordially invited to inspect the store at 246 Washington street, and the warehouse at 248 Pine street, and the approval of holders of a majority of the preferred stock of the company.

The preferred stock is further secured by the good will of the Andrew Kan business, foreign and domestic connections, and the trademark, having value in the open market equal to more than full amount of the total issue of preferred stock.

A statement by the treasurer and managing director, Andrew Kan, certified to by disinterested chartered public accountants and appraisers of recognized authority, will be furnished to each purchaser of preferred stock, to the effect that the corporation owns free and unincumbered real tangible assets to more than $100 for each and every share of preferred stock sold, not including the value of good will, foreign and domestic trademarks, and other similar assets owned by the corporation.

The net earnings for the last twenty years have been in excess of the amount necessary to pay 8 per cent dividends on the total issue of preferred stock, $50,000, for the entire period.

The latest years are the best. The current earnings are the largest in the history of the business.

Subscriptions will be filled in order of their receipt. Money will draw interest from the date its subscription is received by us. The Andrew Kan Company reserves the right to reject any application or to award a smaller amount than is applied for.

A prospectus, setting forth complete facts and data, will be mailed free on request, or may be obtained by calling at The Andrew Kan Company store at 246 Washington street, Portland, Oregon.
