Holbrook, Mrs. Robert Krohn, Mrs. Clifford Irwin, Mrs. H. G. Thompson, Mrs. George Kadler, Mrs. Dwight Edwards, Mrs. N. B. Gregg, Miss Dagmar Korrell, Miss Veda Reed, Miss Mildred Raab, Miss Eleanor Brodie, Miss Margaret Bennett, Miss Louise Williams, Miss Marshall Messers, H. E. Judge, William Honeyman, Al McCalland, James Ambrose, A. S. Rothwell, Herbert Clemens and Edgar Frank.

An affair distinctive from the usual run of social events was an indoor paper chase given Thursday afternoon by Miss Anne Shogren in compliment to the bride-elect, Miss Belle Alsworth.

On a large heart covering an entire table the 50-mile course was laid with words of paper. Miss Mabel Norris won the first prize, a handsome silver cup. Miss Mabel Lawrence the blue ribbon. Miss Alsworth the second and Miss Eva Kierman a box of violets as the consolation prize. The guests were members of the Hunt Club, who entered heartily into the sport. Later a number of men arrived for tea.

Mrs. E. B. Joseph left yesterday for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. George Willis Helms, at Jefferson Barracks, Mo.

Mrs. Charles K. Henry gave a large reception at her Irvington residence Friday evening, at which an interesting musical programme was given by Miss Kathleen Lawler, Miss Nona Lawler, Mrs. Ralph Walker, Mrs. Robert Thompson, Mrs. E. B. Covert and Miss Margaret Fallens.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Rogers and Mr. and Mrs. D. Saffer and son, Herbert, of Tacoma, were in Portland last week to attend the Levy-Senokis wedding.

One of the prettiest of this year's smaller weddings was that of Miss Beaulieu Dooley and Wilson Clark, which took place Wednesday evening in the large drawingroom of the Hotel Portland. The Right Reverend Archbishop Charles performed the ceremony. The bride, who is very popular among the younger set, was attended by Miss Lucille Dooley and Miss Lydia Clark as bridesmaids. Both were gowned in striking white dresses, combined with lace and cloth of silver, and they carried arm-bouquets of pink bridesmaid buds.

Mrs. Frank Dooley was the matron of honor, and appeared in a lovely gown of princess lace cut on princess lines and built over a bodice of white satin with a broad band of yellow satin. She wore a handsome corsage pin and long diamond ear drops, and her bouquet was of maidenhead fern and mauve orchids.

The bride, who was given away by her father, R. M. Dooley, made a winsome appearance in a smart ivory satin dress, with much rose point about the corsage. In her hair were arranged a wreath of lilies of the valley, and she carried an enormous bouquet of these same dainty flowers. The groom's gift was a handsome coral cameo brooch, surrounded by diamonds and with a large pearl pendant. Mr. Clark was attended by Beulah Reed of Oakland. The bride's mother wore a gown of Chantilly lace over a peacock shade of satin. Mrs. Clark, the groom's mother, was in white crepe and Irish lace. The drawingroom was handsomely decorated and supper was served at small tables. Mr. and Mrs. Clark have left for California, and on their return will be at Alexandria Court.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Rankin announce the engagement of their daughter, Winifred Rhoda, to Frank C. Gelliburn of this city, formerly of St. Louis. The wedding, which is to be a home affair, will take place February 22.

Mrs. Fred D. Chamberlain, with her daughter, Miss Ethel, entertained at bridge Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons of this week.

Friends of De Forrest Brush, brother of Mrs. Hugh Hunt, will be interested in knowing that his latest painting, which has been shown at the recent exhibition of contemporary American artists at the Corcoran Art Gallery, has attracted extraordinary praise. The painting, a family group, was purchased by the Armour Art Institute, and critics unanimously aver that in spirit and technique it is reminiscent of the early Dutch masterpieces. The picture shows a beautiful villa in the aristocratic portion of Florence, back of the Pitti palace, and the artist has a penchant for depicting the members of his family in various attitudes in the picturesque surroundings of their home. The foregrounded painting is a delightfully patriotic group, including Mrs. Brush, the only son, aged 21, and the flaxen-haired child gracefully seated on her mother's knee. A handsome portrait of the same little child is owned by Judge C. H. Carey.

NANCY LEE

EVENTS OF WEEK.

The silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Hurlburt, which occurred last Monday night, at their home, 188 East Fourteenth street, was indeed the most delightful affair. The rooms, where some 50 guests assembled, were tastefully decorated, quantities of roses and other beautiful flowers being in evidence.

As a prelude to the evening's entertainment, a piano solo was rendered by Miss Marjorie Hurlburt. After which felicitous and appropriate remarks were made by Colonel S. R. PORTLAND WOMAN WRITES ABOUT STYLES IN PARIS

PARIS, Jan. 6, 1909.—Oregonian, Portland, Or., U. S. A.: Gentlemen—One scarcely associates a trip to Europe in the winter time, as the trip across is usually a rough one, but after you reach Paris, the fashion center of the world, you forget that and become interested in the styles of the present and those that are to be for Spring. Naturally, every well-dressed woman does more or less speculating on the subject all the time. After visiting several dozen of the best shops in Paris, I am convinced that there is to be quite a change in the coming Spring millinery. From the extreme large hats we find ourselves back to a hat of medium size, although not small by any means, with a brim over the face on the old poke-hat lines, and short in back, showing the hair, which is being dressed lower, but still with many puffs and curls. The hand-sewed straw hats will be used quite extensively, many yards being used in the making of a chic hat. Flowers and grapes, with yards of lovely soft satin ribbons and wide velvet ribbons are much had a very enjoyable stag social. The chorus was divided into two parts, one part of which acted as host and entertained the other. The programme consisted of recitations and instrumental and vocal selections, which were greatly enjoyed by the 50 odd men present. The remainder of the evening was very pleasantly spent singing college songs. Another function will be held in about two weeks.

Mrs. John F. Logan was the Portia Club hostess last Thursday, when she entertained the members at her residence, 238 East Sixth street north. In spite of the bad weather, there was a large attendance. Mrs. G. E. Collins had the high score, 200, and Mrs. A. M. Dibble received the second prize. Refreshments were served in dainty style. The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. J. E. Hooford, 412 Ninth street north, on February 2, at 2 o'clock.

The Tuesday Afternoon Club met January 19 with Mrs. Jackson. The business session was followed by a study of Charlotte Bronte, through the novels, "Jane Eyre" and "Shirley." "Jane Eyre" divided into three acts, was comprehensively analyzed by Mrs. Fugate, Mrs. Glens and Mrs. Hays. Mrs. Vorse read selections depicting the author's treatment of nature and Mrs. Whitmer reviewed "Shirley." The club will next meet with Mrs. J. D. Hays, 25 Mills street.

At the close of a short session of George Wright Post and Relief Corps Friday evening the members assembled in the Corps Hall and a birthday reception was given Mrs. Mary Calkin, on the event of the 50th anniversary. Short talks were given and a social hour spent in extending Mrs. Calkin's congratulations. Mrs. Mary Chamberlain presented, in behalf of the Corps, a silver berry spoon. Refreshments were served.

The Wietaria Club gave a Midwinter dancing party last Monday evening at the East Side Woodman hall. The hall was decorated with the club colors and a very enjoyable evening was spent. The patronesses were: Mrs. K. D. McBride, Mrs. A. E. Hostetter and Mrs. H. C. Billings. Club members were: Mrs. M. T. Gany, Adolph Wodan, H. H. Thomas and Ed E. Wedemeyer.
