Alexander Beers, president of Seattle Seminary and College, will continue during the week in the Free Methodist Church, corner of East Ninth and East Mill streets. It was planned to close the meetings today but on account of the special interest they will continue another week. Rev. LUTHER BURBANK SENDS "ROSE OF OREGON."

Luther Burbank, the famous naturalist, has developed a rose which he has agreed shall be called the "Rose of Oregon." He has sent a sample of the finest stock that he has at his experimental stations, a plant which he declares is absolutely perfect from all standpoints of culture and one that he is willing to lend his name to as the "Rose of Oregon."

PLANTING GREAT EVENT

Many Photographs to Be Taken of Exercises for Distribution in East—Citizens Urged to Set Out Roses in Yards.

Representing the work of many years, Luther Burbank, the far-famed naturalist of the Pacific Coast, has developed a rose which he has agreed shall be called the "Rose of Oregon." He has sent a sample of the finest stock that he has at his experimental stations, a plant which he declares is absolutely perfect from all standpoints of culture and one that he is willing to lend his name to as the "Rose of Oregon."

Burbank has sent several letters to the Portland Rose Festival in which he has declared that it was his intention to be present at the rose-planting day ceremonies at the Rose Festival grounds, but that he could not possibly get away from his station.

The rose received from Luther Burbank, as announced in the following letter, stands as one of the greatest triumphs of the field of rose culture of modern times, and for the Rose Festival is looked upon as a triumph which no other celebration in this section of the country has been able to achieve in years past.

The following letter was received from Mr. Burbank yesterday by President Ralph W. Hoyt, of the Rose Festival:

"Santa Rosa, Cal., Feb. 11, 1909.—President Ralph W. Hoyt, Portland Rose Festival Association, Portland, Or.—Dear Sir: By express today, prepaid, Mr. Burbank takes pleasure in sending the rose plant he promised you for your 'Rose Planting Day,' and we trust it will reach you in good condition. Very sincerely yours, 'LUTHER BURBANK.'"

The observance of the second annual rose planting day is to be one of the most significant days of the year so far as the "boosting" calendar of Portland is concerned. Since the day was first celebrated, clear arrangements have been made whereby all sorts of photographs will be taken of the exercises and sent throughout the East. Literature covering the whole plan of the festival for its six days during the week of June 7-12 is being compiled and will be in shape to be distributed by the time the Rose Planting Day affair is over.

Dr. Emmet Drake, who is chairman of the committee for these ceremonies, has already arranged for having the event made one of pictorial prominence, and will see to it that Portland will secure its proper quota of general advertising as a result.

President Ralph W. Hoyt, of the Festival Association, urges upon all who will take part in the planting of the Rose Planting Day exercises to observe the occasion privately.

The Peninsula Rose Association will set out several thousand rose bushes on Washington's birthday. This organization, embracing nine push clubs in the Northeastern part of the city, raised funds 100 rose bushes during the present season and while most of these bushes were planted last Fall, the rest will be set out a week from tomorrow.

The ceremonies in connection with the dedication of the "Rose of Oregon" will be in charge of Mayor Lane, Bishop Scadding and Director-General Nadeau, of the A-Y-E Exposition. Governor Chamberlain has notified the committee that it will probably be impossible for him to be present and deliver an address, but that he will select some one who will represent the state in the celebration.

The celebration of Washington's birthday under the auspices of the Portland Knights of Columbus promises to be a grand affair. The best of talent has been secured by the committee. Judging from the number of tickets already disposed of every available seat in the large alumni hall will be sold.

Among the artists engaged for the celebration is the young opera contralto, Angela May. Socially, as well as artistically, Miss May has a large following. She is a graduate of Notre Dame, Ind., class of 1904. Her success in musical comedy, opera and vaudeville is well known. She will be heard in new numbers and imitations of Anna Held and will be aided by J. Louis MacBrooy in a musical sketch. Mr. MacBrooy is from the "Great White Way," Broadway, New York, and it was his song "Down the Line of the Great White Way" that gave Broadway its worldwide name. Both Mr. MacBrooy and Miss May were with the Imperial Opera Company, singing leading roles.

Another feature of the programme will be several selections by the Trolie Club, directed by Rose Courten-Reed. To hear this splendid chorus of over 30 voices will be worth more than the price of admission. Other numbers will be the Warstrom brothers, Daly, the great, juggler supreme; Fox and Equibart, Professor Eichenlaub, violinist; Miss Hazel Daly, pianist, and star attractions from the Grand and Pantages theatres.

Hon. John F. Shields, L. B. 3, late of Boston, will be the orator of the evening. Tickets may be procured at the Knights of Columbus clubhouse, at O'Neill & Fuller's cigar store, Chamber of Commerce, and the shoe store of J. J. Williams, 201 Williams avenue. CONVICT AIDS ACCOMPLICE
But Goes Unthanked for All Trouble He Takes.

Patrick O'Brien, lately sentenced to two years in the penitentiary, saved his alleged accomplice from sharing his fate in the State Circuit Court yesterday.

The two men were arrested some time ago for breaking into a storeroom and stealing a quantity of blankets and stores. O'Brien was tried a few days since and sentenced to serve a term of two years. He admitted his guilt.

The case seemed a clear one against Howard. He was found with the stolen blankets in his possession. But O'Brien, who had merely gone with O'Brien to carry the blankets, believing them to be O'Brien's, and whether or not Howard should escape the consequences entirely upon O'Brien. The latter was brought down from Salem to testify yesterday morning.

"Sure, he had nothing to do with it," said O'Brien. "I did the stealing and he didn't know it was stolen. He's an innocent man."

Later the jury in the case returned a verdict acquitting Howard. And the acquitted man neglected to drop down stairs and thank O'Brien for taking all the blame of the episode on his own shoulders.

Divorce Upheld in Mexico.
MEXICO CITY, Feb. 12.—The Mexican courts, notwithstanding the fact that Mexico has no divorce laws, have sustained the divorce laws of the United States. Silvio Conti, an Italian architect of this city, was sued for divorce by his first wife, who followed him from Italy, on the ground that they were married in Italy and that that country has no divorce laws. Conti set up the defense that he came to Louisiana, secured a divorce and married there a second time. The Mexican Supreme Court recognized the Louisiana divorce and second marriage and found against the wife from Italy.

$150,000 for Crematories.
The City Council yesterday morning adopted a resolution providing for the lowest bid of $150,000 worth of bonds for the purpose of building crematories and providing a garbage collection system, the question to be submitted to the people at the coming election. Councilman Collins introduced the resolution, acting for 100 property-owners, all heavy taxpayers, who will vote the base problem settled for another year. The resolution further makes it the duty of the Board of Health to select the location or locations of crematories and judgment of the Board is to be final.

No Evidence Against Mrs. Olney.
The divorce case of Kate R. Peterson vs. James Peterson, resulted in a decree for the plaintiff on the grounds of desertion. In the complaint filed there were charges of adultery, immorality, cruelty and return to the oven a few minutes.

Mrs. V. A. P. (Portland) asks: "Can you please give me a recipe for a Spanish omelet or the hot Spanish sauce to eat with it? I have two cook books, but the recipes given for 'Spanish' do not contain anything to make the sauce hot—simply onion, pepper, salt and parsley is what one recipe for 'Spanish omelet' calls for, with, of course, the eggs."

Lack of space prevents my giving these recipes in detail here, but I hope next week to offer something more like what is wanted than the very mild mixture quoted above. Spanish chick, peppers, cayenne and tobacco sauce can always be relied upon to make any compound as hot as any human being can endure.

Next week, also, I will try to give the fruit-salad recipe asked for by Miss A. C. (Portland), and the recipe for "Potatoes au gratin" wanted by Mrs. M. (Portland).
