Spokane Prosecutor Will Banish Railroad President From State.

GRAND JURY AWAITS HIM

Great Northern Official Said to Have Evidence Detrimental to Principals in Root-Gordon Scandal in Washington.

SPOKANE, Wash., March 6.—(Special.)

-Prosecuting Attorney Fred C. Pugb, of Spokane County, writes the following

under his signature:
"I cannot compel the attendance of President Louis W. Hill and other nonresident Great Northern officials before the grand jury which will convene Monthe grand jury which will convene Monday to investigate the Root-Gordon scandal, because our courts cannot enforce obedience to subpenas served outside the borders of Washington; but I can prevent their visiting the state for the remainder of the year, unless they come and go secretly, like fugitives. There is nothing in the law to prevent the grand jury from remaining in session for the next year, and having their subpenas constantly in the hands of the officers, unless the Great Northern officials come in sooner and give us the facts relative to Gordon's alleged shortage, reputed to amount to $75,600, and age, reputed to amount to $75,000, and their rumored connection with Root. "This could be done with comparatively little expense and at a very slight inconvenience to the individual grand jurors by adjourning from time to time, after they have carried their investigations as "I desire to serve notice upon the Great Northern officials now that whatever influence I may have as Prosecuting Attorney will be exerted to keep the grand jury in session, in the manner indicated, continuously, until such time as President Hill sees fit to redeem his promise, made to the committee of the Bar Asosciation in Seattle last December. and aid the people of Washington in their determination to learn the facts underlying the scandal which affects the integrity of a former member of the Supreme Court of this state. This promise, made again and again by Mr. Hill in the courts of his testimony, a part of which The Oregonian recently pubof which The Oregonian recently published, was flippantly broken in St. Paul recently. Mr. Hill may rest secure in the belief that he has it in his power to suspend the criminal processes of this state and to ignore the subpense of the state and to ignore the subpense of the rest of the subpense of th grand Jury, but I am very sure it is in our power to banish him and several of his associates from the state so long as their policy is to stifle the facts of this investigation.

Evidence Said to Be Damaging.

"The papers requested of Hill and associates at St. Paul by ex-Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Webster were not of such a private or confidential nature as to prejudice the Great Northern if made public, and the request was made in good faith to enable the grand jury to pass upon the evidence tending to show that Gordon was guilty of em-bezzling $2200 of the company's money. drawn by him to settle the case of Sparvs. the Great Northern, Mr. Hill also declined to explain the reasons for his refusal. According to rumors em-anating from some of Gordon's numerous counsel, and current in Spokane for the last four or five months, his attorneys have in their possession written evidence of Judge Root's corruption; and

NEW SECRETARY SWORN IN

Puget Sound Man Pays High Tribute to Garfield and Declares He Will Follow in His Footsteps in the Department.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, March 6.—Judge R. A. Ballinger, of Seattle, was sworn in as Secretary of the Interior at 10 o'clock this morning and spent the afternoon at his new office, receiving congratulations. Speaking to newspaper cor-respondents, Secretary Ballinger said: "Mr. Garfield has made an exception-In Garneld has made an exception-ally efficient Secretary of the Interior I would have been pleased at his con-tinuance in that post. To be drafted as his successor is not without regret on my part. You speak of the policy to be pursued by me.

"I know of only one policy that per-tains to an administrative officer, and that is to administer the law as he finds it and enforce the highest effic-iency on the part of his subordinates. The Interior Department, I think, deals with more statutors law the with more statutory laws than any other and its most complicated and difficult labors are confined to the protection and disposal of the public domain, with which I feel considerable familiarity because of my brief service as Commissioner of the general Land Office and my general knowledge of Western conditions."
