CUBAN MAY CAUSE GREAT TARIFF WAR

All Nations May Claim Same Rates Under Most Favored Nation Rule.

OBSTACLES TO RECIPROCITY

European Nations May Refuse United States Same Terms as Under Special Treaties—West Objects to Drawbacks.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—That the Payne tariff bill would bring about a great international tariff war if enacted because of the Cuban reciprocity treaty, is one of the arguments that are being made against the measure. It is urged that foreign countries which would otherwise agree to give the United States the benefit of their most favored nation clause in return for the minimum scale of duties provided for in the Payne bill will contend that the Cuban reciprocity provision is the most favored nation clause of the American tariff and will therefore refuse to enter into a low-tariff agreement with this country.

CUBA NOT LIKE FOREIGN NATION

This difficulty regarding the Cuban reciprocity treaty and its relation to the maximum and minimum tariff provisions of the Payne bill was not overlooked by the framers of that measure. The committee which drafted the bill considered the possibility of the claim being made that the clause concerning the treaty with Cuba, discriminates against other nations. It was agreed to allow the provisions to remain in the bill, upon the assumption that other countries would recognize the unusual relationship existing between the United States and Cuba and would not object to the lower duties which the island Republic would get. Furthermore, in support of this argument, it is contended that Cuba ships to the United States from foreign countries with the imports of countries of Europe.

DIFFICULTIES OF RECIPROCITY

There are other difficulties in the way of operating successfully a maximum and minimum tariff. Most European nations have special trade relations on certain products with their neighboring countries and it would be inconsistent to have United States to expect these nations to aggregate these agreements in order to get the benefit of our minimum duties. On the other hand, the framers of the Payne bill have designed the maximum tariff provision in such a way that virtually every country in Europe would be compelled to seek our minimum duties in time.

FRANCE GREATLY AFFECTED

France is one of the countries that will be most affected by the maximum schedule of the Payne tariff. The duties imposed by the present law on wine, liquors and spirits are increased 40 per cent in the maximum provision of the bill, and this increase would seriously affect the importations from the low grade wines, principally on the low grade wines and Spain also would feel the effects of these duties.

Women Object to Stocking Tax

CHICAGO, March 20.—"Kill the stocking tax!" A country-wide movement against certain features of the Payne tariff bill which will be participated in by more than 2,000,000 women is seen in plans just launched here. Chicago club women have determined to enlist the National Federation of Women's Clubs in an attack on the schedule in its application to stockings and stocking material. Features of the Payne bill which retain the present high tariff on wool, silk and cotton stuffs, and even increase the tariff on cotton stockings, are also being discussed.

Basis for Negotiations

The Payne bill places a maximum duty of 20 per cent additional on the following articles: Chemicals, tobacco, agricultural products, silk, wool, flax and extracts for dyeing in the chemical schedule, for which there is no tariff at all. The duties on iron and steel are retained as maximum duties on pig iron, structural steel, steel pipe and numerous other articles. The maximum duties on steel and iron are 2 1/2 per cent more than the minimum, and for the sundries schedule the increase is an addition of 25 per cent ad valorem. For flax and wool schedules there are no maximum duties prescribed.

West Loses by Drawback

Representatives of Western States maintain that the new drawback provision in the Payne tariff bill is discriminatory against the West in favor of the East. The revised drawback section permits manufacturers of raw material without the necessity of using the imported material in the production of a raw material of domestic production in equal quantity and of a similar character may be used instead of the imported material.

New Star Field for Flag?

WASHINGTON, March 20.—A new "Old Glory" is proposed in a bill recently introduced by Representative Anshbury, of Ohio, to amend the section of the revised statutes which relates to the design of the American flag. A new formation of the stars is suggested. They would be arranged "in five arcs in combination, the centers of the arcs to be the apices of a regular pentagon, the radii of the arcs to be equal to one side of the pentagon." As to the size of the stars, the bill prescribes that their radius shall be equal to one-fourth the diameter of the stars from center to center." Provision for adding new stars for new states might be made by extending the arcs.

Watching A Stomach Digest Food: Was the Means Whereby Science Made Possible the Cure of Dyspepsia. The Abbe Spallanzani was the first scientist to study systematically the chemical powers of the gastric juice, but it was by the careful and convincing experiments of Beaumont that the foundation of our exact knowledge of its composition and action was laid. Beaumont was an army surgeon, located at an obscure military post in Michigan. He was yet a territory, and was called upon to treat a gunshot wound of the stomach in a Canadian voyageur—Alexis St. Martin. When the wound healed, a permanent opening was left by means of which food could be placed in the stomach and gastric juice taken from it. Science also knew what the gastric juices are and how to make them best for the system.
