NEW PROCESS TO MAKE PROFIT ON WASTE PRODUCTS.

Will Use Sawdust and Slabs to Make Paper Pulp, Increasing Supply Immensely.

MINNEAPOLIS, March 27.-What MINNEAPOLIS, March 27.—What is considered a significant industrial discovery was claimed today by Dean George B. Frankforter, of the College of Chemistry of the University of Minnesota. It means, he asserts, that the United States will produce a hundred times as much wood pulp paper as was believed possible and that every cord of fir lumber will yield $10 profit on by-products alone and that the greater part products alone and that the greater part of the 60 per cent of a tree now wasted will be turned into profit. The perfected process consists of taking small pieces of waste wood or dust, laying them on a steel incline over a furnace and subjecting them to a chemi-cal process of distillation carbon bi-sul-phide or gasoline is poured over the sawdust, dissolving the turpentine and rosin, which pass off as gas into a coll of pipe leading to a tank. The process is similar to the distillation of sugar. The wood pulp remains free from pitch and is suitable, it is asserted, for the manufacture of paper. The existing method of distillation left the pulp in the form of charcoal.
