Handcraft Rugs—the New and Artistic Floor Coverings

"Colonial Ragstyle" is the name applied to the various rag weaves now so popular in the East. That they have passed the "fad" stage is evident from the steadily increasing demand for these dainty and highly artistic fabrics, and they are recognized as having a legitimate place in the Colonial Renaissance. As a Summer rug nothing compares with them for color and service. They add a freshness wherever used and their wide variety of color admits of their use throughout the whole range of interior decoration. We have them in all sizes up to the 9 ft. x 12 ft. and can supply special sizes to order. See our large corner window display this week.

For Summer--New Fabrics for Door and Window Hangings

For the bungalow and Summer cottage we are showing a stock of washable and sunproof materials in modern designs and colorings—cretonne, chintz, taffeta, Monk's cloth, jasper cloth, art crash, burlap, denim and fabrics in mercerized shadow silk effects—so abundant and varied in their suggestion of appropriate decorative schemes that one cannot fail to make correct and pleasing selection. The Drapery-Decorative Department—sixth floor.
