They will return home by the South, visiting most of the principal cities, arriving here in the late summer.

Oregon City Pastor Now an Author. Rev. E. Clarence Oakley Brings Out "Dyke's Corners," a Tale of a Crossroads Community That Shows Sharp Power of Observation.

OREGON CITY, June 5.—(Special).—Few, if any, towns in Oregon have produced so many authors as Oregon City, the birthplace of Edwin Markham, the girlhood home of Ella Higginson, and the present abode of Eva Emery Dye and the newly discovered E. Clarence Oakley. Not even the closest friends of Mr. Oakley, the popular pastor of the First Congregational Church, have suspected that he had a book in hand, that for genuine wit, humor and what the actor folk call "heart interest" probably surpasses anything yet done by an Oregonian. "Dyke's Corners" is the suggestive title of a village tale just published by Richard Badger, of the Gorham Press, Boston, that from a mechanical point of view attracts at first glance. Whether or anything between the covers is actual or not, or whether the scene lies in Oregon or the East, or whether Mr. Oakley delves out of his own experiences as an amateur photographer, musician or minister, the reader must discover and decide for himself. At any rate there is a mystery, a plot and considerable psychological interplay that may have occurred at any point between Eugene and Oregon City among any of a score of village corners like "Dyke's."

Those who look for anything sad or solemn will be amply disappointed, for from start to finish the Oregonian of humor bubbles in this latest Oregon book, and bids fair to make it one of the "best sellers" the Beaver state has ever known. Like Ralph Connor and Ian MacLaren, Mr. Oakley has not lived and studied among his parishioners in vain.

JAEGERERS TO ADOPT WAIF. Baby Found on Porch Will Soon Have Legal Name.

It is only a question of a few weeks now until little Miss Loleta Lenore Jaeger will have a lawful right to the name she is bearing, and become the legally adopted child of her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Jaeger. She has been the center of an admiration and corresponding member, known and unknown. All sorts of presents have been sent her through the mails and she has been the recipient of much attention and the mail for appropriate remembrances from people who only know of her through the press.

USE OF PATENTED ARTICLE. Protest From German Citizens Against Passage of Amendment 161.

To the Editor.—We notice in the bulletin of the German speaking societies, which recommendations for voters on the various charter amendments are set forth that the voters are asked to vote in favor of abolishing and prohibiting the use of patented or trademarked articles in the improvement of public highways or places.

The adoption of the amendment referred to would be a disastrous thing for the welfare of the city, as under its terms the city would be restricted from using many of the most important and necessary articles for the convenience of the public. It would not only prohibit the use of many of the most important and necessary articles for the convenience of the public, but also cut out all useful and modern appliances and materials used in the construction of public buildings, such as schools, hospitals, sewers, sewer and water systems and the adornment of public parks.

Irish Peer Has New Honor Thrust Gently Upon Him. Falls in With Delegates to Grocers' Convention; His Name, Clanwilliam, Is Interpreted "Dan Williams," and He Is Made Member of Asparagus Club.

VICTORIA, B. C., June 5.—(Special).—Lord Clanwilliam, the Earl of the name in the dual peerage of England and Ireland—soldier, statesman, scientist and sportsman of renown—has had a new honor thrust upon him during the two short weeks he has been enjoying his homeward trip through the American West. He is now a full-fledged charter member of the "Asparagus Club," and as such an associate or corresponding member of the St. Louis, Mo., branch of the Retail Grocers of America, whose annual conference in Portland this week he has been hidden to attend.

His Lordship and Lady Clanwilliam just now are trout fishing at Courillon Lake, but they will go to Portland, if it is possible for them to do so, while the vegetable visitors are in the City of Roses.

The "Asparagus Club" is in reality a brand-new secret order, not yet quite so well established as the Masonic craft—but coming on. One of the chief objects of its formation and existence is the dissemination of the picture postcard, section 1, clause 1, of the adopted constitution making it obligatory upon each member "to send at least one picture postcard to every other member before July 1, 1910." The mother lodge of the new order—with the single exception of Lord Clanwilliam—is exclusively limited to its membership to 123 members of the Portland Council 38 St. Louis delegates of the Retail Grocers, and the 15 of their wives and daughters who accompany them to the Portland convention. They left St. Louis about three weeks ago, making a big detour in order to see something of the Canadian West. Paul, their car was switched onto the Canadian Pacific and came to the Coast via Winnipeg by the Canadian route.

After leaving Winnipeg, the smoking-parliament extended a welcome to a through-Canada traveler, who quickly proved himself a "jolly good fellow" with an inexhaustible fund of stories, every one of which sounded like "Dan Williams" and as such was introduced all around, being variously addressed as "Dan" or "Williams" before Banff was reached. On the third day for a new council that has ever been given by the Knights of Columbus in Oregon. The special train of sleepers will leave Portland late next Saturday night, arriving at Eugene early Sunday morning. The train will bring the members back to Portland at 7 o'clock Monday morning. All day Sunday will be devoted to the work at Eugene. The degree work starts promptly at 1:30 o'clock and the initiation will end with a splendid banquet. The Knights of Columbus male choir will accompany the excursion, rehearsal for the choir being called at the clubhouse for next Tuesday evening.

In Eugene, elaborate preparations are being made to entertain the visitors and the train will be met at the depot by a delegation of citizens and the candidates. The new council at Eugene will start with 50 members.

HOW TO REMOVE WRINKLES IN 15 MINUTES. Just put Neo-Plastique—a harmless vegetable jelly—on your face and let it dry. In 15 minutes wash it off. That's all. No peeling. Very pleasant, refreshing and natural. Perfectly harmless.

KNIGHTS GO TO EUGENE. Members of Columbus Order Will Institute New Lodge Saturday. Five sleeping cars will constitute the special train which will carry the Knights of Columbus from Portland to Eugene next Saturday night. At least 123 members of the Portland Council will make the trip to participate in the installation of a new council at the home of the Oregon University. There will also be delegations from Cook Bay, Astoria, Baker City and Vancouver, Wash.

H. Liebes & Company. CORBETT BLDG. J. P. PLAGEMANN, 28 MORRISON ST.

Nicholas, the Empress and the Dowager Empress came to St. Petersburg today from Pskov-Selo to take part in the dedication of the monument to Alexander III, that has been in course of construction for more than 10 years. The Czar unveiled the monument after religious service by the Metropolitan of St. Petersburg, and led a parade of detachments of the guard and other regiments associated with the late Emperor. The monument is a colossal figure of the late Emperor on horseback.

WE CONSIDER THE GOOD WILL OF OUR CUSTOMERS. As one of our most valuable assets, and we realize that to obtain and hold the favorable opinion of our patrons we must give full value.

The fact that many of our sales are made to friends of former patrons is evidence that our instruments and methods give satisfaction. Our organization was planned and is conducted on the idea of giving the kind of service that will bring favorable comment from those with whom we deal.

In our belief, there is no better way to conserve our own interests, and it certainly works to the advantage of the purchasers. Buying here is not a speculation—it means certainty of satisfaction, for we consider a sale concluded only when the customer is convinced in his own mind that he has received the worth of his money.

If this policy appeals to you, we shall be glad to have you inspect our offerings.
