FUEL PROBLEM SOLVED A New Invention Saves Half the Price of Fuel.

The most recent of inventions that is really practical and a money-saver is the Port Orient Oil Burner, which can be installed in a few minutes in cook stoves, heating stoves, furnaces or other fire

The heat is produced by a combination of 20 per cent gas formed from either distillate or coal oil, and 80 per cent air. A pure hydrocarbon gas is formed that makes the cleanest and most economical heat possible. There is no smoke, soot

From a conservative view there is a saving of at least 50 per cent over wood, coal, city gas or other fuel. Previous to this invention fire in all oil burners was controlled by the oil valve, but this burner reverses the principle and the fire or flame valve now controls the oil. No more oil is used than is needed. Any size flame from a gas jet to a 15 or 20-foot flame can be made and it can be deflected to any part of the furnace. The heat is inventor, Thomas Muchlelsen, San Diego, Cal., claims that the life of the burner is indefinite, while the life of the stove is prolonged five times. You can start a fire in two minutes and four minutes have the oven hot enough to bake. This will surely be the burner of the very near future.

A local company is being formed to put the burners on the market. Demonstrations are being given daily at J. J. Kadderly's hardware store, 130 First st.
