HILL'S HAND BEHIND MOVE?

Oregon Trunk Must Make Showing to Hold Survey Rights in Deschutes Canyon—Sidelights on Organization of Road.

BY R. G. CALLVERT. THE DALLIES, July 24.—(Staff Correspondence.)—All day long four-horse teams, hauling wagons piled high with railway camp equipment, have trekked out of The Dalles, bound for the Deschutes River. Beginning at 7 o'clock this morning it was not until 5 this afternoon that the last of the 40 wagons shipped here last night by Porter Bros., railway road contractors, who are supposed to be working for the Hill railways, wended its way to the southeast.

Indications today are almost conclusive that Porter Bros. intend to establish not two, but five or six camps, as if preparing to cover the entire ground of the Oregon Trunk line surveys. They themselves did not know, was the reply given by representatives of the Oregon Trunk today, to inquiries as to the number of camps and places of location.

Rush Orders Are Given. Johnson Porter, who represents the contractors on the ground, left this morning in an automobile for Grass Valley, 40 miles from the mouth of the Deschutes, from which point Harriman is now engaged in building a wagon road into the canyon of the river. Porter told that he was going to select camp sites and the evidence today is that he was not dissembling.

Porter Bros. Surprised. Today Contractor Porter told that he did not know that the work was to be commenced until last Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. The camp equipment was not together and put on board the Bailey Gatzert Thursday night. Much of the stuff is new. There are scores of wheelbarrows in knocked-down form, 12 new Studebaker wagons knocked down and nearly 30 other wagons, steel rods for rock drilling, tents, blankets, scrapers and all kinds of construction tools. Much of the food supplies were purchased here, and the new wagons were put together on the dock and loaded to capacity.

Construction Now Under Way. Every indication is that men and equipment were secured hastily, and it is believed to be true here that the contractors today only know in a general way where the camps will be established.

It is believed here that technically speaking, at least, actual construction work has commenced on the Oregon Trunk Railroad. The accepted theory of men who are familiar with Interior Department pro-

MOORS HURLED ON BY BAYONET POINTS

FIGHT TO DEATH WITH SPANARDS AT MELLILLA.

Killing of Colonel Spurs His Men to Fierce Fight With Bayonet and Saber.

MALAGA, Spain, July 24.—The steamer Menorquin, with 86 wounded aboard, arrived here today, from Mellilla, where the hospitals are overcrowded. Passengers on the steamer declare that the residents of Mellilla are panic-stricken, the successes of the Moors giving rise to the belief that they will swoop down on the city itself. Friday's battle was sanguinary, there being much hand to hand fighting.

The Moorish tribes now gathered close to General Marina's camp are estimated at 16,000. Their recent losses are said to have been nearly 1000. The Spanish forces lost not less than 2000 men.

When the battle became general, the Spaniards endeavored to trap the Moors between two lines of fire. The tribesmen, however, were too wary and fought desperately. They retreated only when they were literally hurled back at the point of Spanish bayonets. At dusk there was a lull in the fighting.

Colonel Cabrera, while addressing words of cheer to his wearied men, fell dead with a bullet in his heart. With a cry of rage the Spanish forces rushed out to avenge the killing and a fierce fight with bayonet and saber followed. The Spaniards then withdrew to their original base.

MAN TOO TIRED TO MARRY Judge Therefore Relieves Him of His Family Responsibilities.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 24.—(Special.)—"I guess I'll give you this divorce, madam," said Judge Frater this morning to Mrs. Laura A. Holt, who asked a perpetual separation from Timothy D. Holt. "Your husband is the most tired man I ever heard of—too tired to be married. And a man so utterly weary that he cannot find time to work for 12 years should be free from the responsibility of not caring for his family."

CUBAN EDITOR WINS DUEL Slashes Arm of President of Havana Council.

HAVANA, July 24.—(Special.)—Senior Eugenio Aspiroz, president of the City Council, fought a sword duel with Senior Wifredo Fernandez, editor of El Comercio, a daily journal.

The duel took place at the Variety Theater this morning before a large number of friends of both combatants. Senior Aspiroz was wounded severely in the right arm.

JAPAN'S NEW AMBASSADOR Uchida to Succeed Takahira, Who Will Succeed Komura.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(Special.)—Baron Uchida, it is rumored, will succeed Takahira as Ambassador of Japan to the United States. He was formerly connected with the legation in Washington. He has been connected with the Japanese Embassy at Vienna recently. It is believed that, if he succeeds Takahira, the latter will be promoted to Baron Komura's post.

MEET DIAZ AT SAN ANTONIO Taft Will Observe Precedent Against Leaving United States.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—It seems probable that President Taft will meet President Diaz of Mexico at San Antonio, Tex., instead of El Paso late in September or early in October.

This arrangement is probable because of President Taft's disposition to observe the long-observed precedent against American Presidents visiting a foreign country.

PHYSICIAN IS SLAIN BY JEALOUS WIFE

Dr. R. A. M. Collins Shot Down in Home.

WOMAN THOUGHT HIM UNTRUE

Belief Husband Loved His Divorcee Maddened Her.

CALLS HELP AFTER CRIME

Incoherent Story of Tragedy Is Told to Police—Sobbing Slay Attempt Own Life and Is Taken to Sanitarium.

Dr. Roy A. Miles Collins, aged 24 years, a physician and surgeon with offices in room 709 Dekum building, was shot and instantly killed by his bride of three months in the basement of the residence of Major J. A. Sladen, 722 Flanders street, in the fashionable Nob Hill district, yesterday morning at 8:30 o'clock. The couple had occupied the Sladen home three weeks as caretakers while its owner and family were at the beach and, when the shooting occurred, were packing their belongings in the basement preparatory to leaving the place. An agreement had been reached between them to separate upon leaving and later have their marital relations severed in court.

The pent-up anguish of a woman's heart, produced by constant knowledge of an unreciprocated love and the unfounded belief that the love she had once claimed had been stolen away from her by another was the cause of the tragedy as it was narrated by an examination of Mrs. Collins after she had been taken into custody. Her jealousy, it is claimed, drove her to madness. Mrs. Collins is 42 years old, 15 years her husband's senior. "It was a case of an old wife and a young husband," she said.

Husband Tells Her Goodbye. Immediately after the shooting, Mrs. Collins sat down on the floor of the basement and placing her husband's head in her lap, extinguished the fire which had caught in his clothing. He only spoke to her once, saying: "My God, you have done it at last. Goodbye."

Dr. Collins was dead a few seconds later and his wife ran to the telephone on the first floor and called Dr. Charles B. Frible in the Washington building, asking him in a frightened and hysterical voice to come at once. "Hurry, Doctor," she said. "He is dying. Come and save him." This statement is the only one of the actual circumstances of the shooting that she related afterward.

Dr. Frible called a taxicab and instructed the driver to go to the Sladen residence with all possible speed. When he arrived there he found the woman writhing in a paroxysm of grief over the dead body of her husband. He made an examination of the prostrate form and announced to Mrs. Collins that her husband was dead, which set her in a mad frenzy.

Moaning, Admits Guilt.

Dr. Frible then took the woman by the arm and led her upstairs. The taxicab was dispatched to police headquarters, where Detective Snow was picked up and returned to the scene of the shooting. He found Mrs. Collins still in a hysterical condition, and, between sobs and apparently insane laughter, moaning, "I am guilty, I am guilty." This she continued to repeat all yesterday and last night. Her condition is considered serious by Dr. G. O. Jefferson, who was called to attend her and after being transferred to the County Jail yesterday afternoon from the City Jail, she was sent to Mountain View Sanitarium.

Mrs. Collins attempted to take her own life three separate times yesterday afternoon, once by pricking the blood veins in her arms with pins until they bled freely and twice by tying her handkerchief about her throat in an effort to strangle herself. Matron Simmons, of the women's ward, arrived just in time to

CHILD IS KIDNAPED ON BUSY STREET

WHISKED AWAY IN AUTOMOBILE ON LEAVING STREETCAR.

All Chicago Seeking for Little Japonica Fleming, Who Is Stolen From Parents.

CHICAGO, July 24.—(Special.)—The strange disappearance in daylight of Japonica Fleming, the pretty 11-year-old girl who, it was reported to the police, was taken from Twenty-third street and Cottage Grove avenue and whisked away in an automobile while the child's parents were marketing not 20 feet away, today resulted in a city-wide hunt by detectives.

The missing child is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Fleming, of 48 Twenty-third place. The father, mother and daughter were returning to their home from a shopping tour in the Loop and got off the Cottage Grove avenue surface car at Twenty-third street. The little girl followed them from the car to the curb, and that is the last the parents saw of her. While Mr. and Mrs. Fleming were looking in a show window the daughter disappeared.

The disappearance occurred at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Hundreds of persons were in the immediate vicinity of the spot when the automobile drove up, but no one noticed that the child had been taken.

BLERIOT SWIFTLY CROSSES CHANNEL

Flight of 22 Miles Made in 23 Minutes.

USES SMALLEST AIRSHIP MADE

Machine Carries Three-Cylinder Motor.

FIRST TIME FEAT IS DONE

M. Bleriot Is Aviator of Prominence and Experience and Won French Acroplane Prize of $2600.

DOVER, July 24.—Louis Bleriot, the French aviator, accomplished the remarkable feat of flying across the English Channel this morning in 23 minutes. The distance from his starting point, near Calais, to Dover is about 22 miles, and he therefore traveled at the rate of nearly a mile a minute.

The aviator left the French shore at 4:50 and within a few minutes alighted the white cliffs of the English coast. He descended gracefully in the North Fall Meadow, behind Dover Castle, at 4:53 A. M.

M. Bleriot looked little the worse for his hazardous trip, although his foot was burned by petrol. This gave him some trouble, and he had to be assisted to an automobile which was waiting. He drove to the Lord Warden Hotel, where he was greeted enthusiastically.

Following Boat Distanced. A French torpedoboot destroyer followed the aeroplane but so swift was the speed of the machine that the destroyer was soon left far behind. Although the start was made in calm weather, the wind soon rose and a strong breeze was blowing at the time of the descent, making the performance all the more noteworthy.

The French torpedoboot destroyer arrived at Dover at 6:50 with Bleriot's wife and a party of friends on board.

By his achievement today Bleriot wins the special prize of $2000 offered by the London Daily Mail.

Bleriot Active Aviator. M. Bleriot has for several years been an active aviator in France, and is said to have had more miraculous escapes than any other aviator.

He made a cross-country flight from Turin to Arthenia, France, on March 3, 1908, in a monoplane.

His latest achievement prior to crossing the Channel was a flight on July 15 from Etampes to Orleans, covering the distance in 56 minutes, 10 seconds, including a stop of 13 minutes to examine his aeroplane.

Herbert Latham made a daring but unsuccessful attempt last Sunday to cross the English Channel. Latham covered about half the distance at an average height of 500 feet, when he was obliged to descend because the motor gave out.

Following on Latham's failure, M. Bleriot and Count de Lambert announced their intention of making the flight. Latham was induced to make his preparations for a second attempt hastily. It was Latham's intention to make a second trial Monday.

LATHAM MAY NOT TRY TODAY

Does Not Start With Bleriot, Who Gets Off Successfully. CALAIS, July 25.—M. Bleriot at 4:25 A. M. started in his monoplane for the flight across the Channel. He made several trial flights prior to the start, occupying about 10 minutes. The weather was fine and no wind was stirring. A torpedo boat destroyer followed the aeroplane.

Two destroyers were off Sangatte at 5:10 A. M., awaiting the appearance of Herbert Latham, who also intended to make an attempt to cross the Channel. At that hour the wind was rising and Latham failed to appear. It is not probable he will make a start this morning.

DANCE IS NOT NICE, SAY PRUDISH COPS

GERTRUDE HOFFMAN ARRESTED FOR SHEDDING TIGHTS.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Gertrude Hoffman, the dancer, was arraigned in Police Court today and paroled until next Tuesday, when the court will take up the question whether or not her performance at a local theater is "indecent, suggestive and immoral and offensive to public decency," as the complaint charged.

The arrest of Miss Hoffman, a Salome dancer, marks the beginning of a campaign against questionable theatrical productions by the new police head, Commissioner Baker. The order for her arrest came from Commissioner Baker himself. Other arrests are to be made, says the Commissioner, unless certain performances, particularly dances, are decidedly reformed.

"I am going to take drastic action," said the Commissioner today, "and owners, lessees and managers must obey the law."

Mr. Baker said he did not order Miss Hoffman's arrest until after he had sent six persons to see the dance and later had attended the dance himself. He and the others agreed, he said, the exhibition was improper.

Court developments today showed the charge in the Hoffman case hangs upon the definition of "tights."

"I will let the show go on," said Police Magistrate Steiner, "provided the young woman wears tights."

Miss Hoffman protested she did wear tights, but their knee length was what caused police criticism.

REFORM, BUT NOT ENSLAVE

Rich Chinaman's Object in Sending Girl Away. WASHINGTON, July 24.—A Chinese girl's mania for 5-cent theaters and not, as she says, $600 in gold caused Ing Yee Yuc, Chinese merchant of Washington, to place little Ping Toy, who lived in his household, in the care of Chin Hing, of New York, said Ing Yee Yuc, and his reputation for veracity is said to be second to none in Washington's Chinatown.

Ping Toy and another girl, Moy Yum Toy, ran away from home and when they pair were found yesterday by the Children's Society, Ping Toy said she had been sold into bondage, Ing Yee Yuc having received $600 for her. The latter denied the girl's story. He brought her here from China, he added, to be company for his wife, who has returned to China on a visit. According to the girl's story, Yuc's son bought her for $160 and Yuc sold her to Chin Hing because he said he was going back to China.

KING EDWARD VISITS REID

Festivities at Little Village Around Ambassador's Country Home. SLEESOE, Engr., July 24.—This little old-time village, which clusters around the gates of West Park, was en fête today for the visit of King Edward, who arrived this afternoon to spend the weekend with Ambassador and Mrs. Reid. There was a great influx of notables from all parts of the country to welcome his majesty.

The municipal school authorities and magistrates presented an address of welcome. Later Mr. Reid escorted the King through the stately avenue to the house, where the guests were presented and tea was served.

REVOLUTION RISES AGAINST ALFONSO

King Under Influence of England.

MERE TOOL OF CLERICALS

Turmoil in Spain Postpones Visit to Cowes.

COUSIN POPULAR HERO

Princess Beatrice Applauded for Not Changing Religion and Praised by the Prince's Mother, Princess Enalida.

MADRID, July 24, via Bayonne.—(Special.)—Owing to the grave situation here, especially the revolutionary propaganda among the troops, a strict censorship has been established over all telegrams. It is impossible to send anything direct from Madrid. Revolutionary activity has assumed astonishing proportions, characterized by fierce attacks upon King Alfonso for being subject to foreign—that is, English—Influence. He has, therefore, cancelled his projected visit to Cowes, greatly to the disappointment of Queen Ena, who had been building on it for some time.

Denounced as Tool of Clericals. The King's action in punishing his cousin, Don Alfonso Bourbon, for his romantic marriage with Princess Beatrice of Coburg is actually also made a ground of attack. He is denounced as being merely a tool of the Clericals, and his hostile measures against his cousin, which he took entirely out of deference to Spanish feeling, are attributed to foreign influences also.

Princess Beatrice is held up to admiration for refusing to change her religion and is favorably contrasted with Queen Ena, as no one, it is said, could believe the sincerity of her acceptance of the Roman Catholic faith. Papers publishing these attacks are no longer confiscated.

Prince's Mother Approves Match. The Infanta Enalida, mother of the banished Prince, has given an account of his marriage, which, she declares, took her absolutely by surprise. She says: "The sudden marriage can only be ascribed to the impetuosity of youthful lovers, and I hope after a time King Alfonso will pardon them. Personally, I cannot blame them for determining to override conventions. Princess Beatrice is a charming, cultured girl, who could captivate any man, and I could wish no other wife for my son."

This interview has further complicated the position of the King and Queen, who are pointed out as only playing opposition to this marriage to deceive the people of Spain.
