BULL RUN PRAISED

Colonel Tucker Declares It Is Curing Him.

BEATS DOCTORS, HE SAYS

Portland's Water and Climate Make New Man of Him, Asserts Retired Army Officer After Short Time Here.

What the physicians in the land and the famous medicinal waters of several hot springs were unable to do for him—restores him to health—Portland's pure and sparkling Bull Run water and wonderful climate is accomplishing for Colonel W. F. Tucker, U. S. A., retired, whose domestic troubles a year ago were the talk of the country.

Colonel Tucker was stationed in Portland several years ago in charge of the Quartermaster's service here, and the climate and water made such an impression upon him that he felt if he could return here he would recover.

"I have been in Portland only two weeks," said Colonel Tucker at the Portland Hotel last night, "and the wonderful Bull Run water and splendid climate have made a new man of me. I feel better than I have felt in many months.

"I like Portland very much. It is a beautiful city, and its Bull Run water is superior to any in the whole country. Collector of Customs Malcolm wants me to write to my friends in the East and tell them what the water has done for me, and I believe I will."

MR. SCHNABEL IS PLEASED

Indulges in a Little Self-Glorification Over Certain Events.

PORTLAND, Or., Aug. 7.—(To the Editor.)—Kindly yield me this space for self-ventilation. During the month of December, 1907, the "sign off" and "fall in line" with the plan of this reorganization, I have no apologies to offer.

Amid this storm of abuse and dire threats, I sat (as calmly as my nature permitted), head or copper, Has no odor, no sediment, and waited while the scheme of rehabilitation unfolded, having scented the plans and their finery and the necessity thereof to protect the "higher ups."
