Roy Hitt was on the slab for Vernon The big fellow was in rare form and won his game easily, 2 to 0. Hitt kept the Portland batters swinging their heads off and had curves which broke fully a foot just when the Beavers had it all planned to send out a hit. Two bingles was all that Portland could make off his delivery, one a scratch in the seventh by Grancy and the other a clean drive by Armbruster in the eighth. Jess Garrett was on the slab for the Beavers. He was hit freely throughout but managed to keep the Vernonites runless until the eighth, when two runs came in on Bernard's home-run drive through the fence. Four hits were made in that finning and then Jess was jerked out and Guyn sent in. Guyn had a bad inning in the ninth and had the bases filled but ended the agony by fanning Truck Eagan before a score had crossed the pan. Hitt kept the Portland batters swing-

Vernon had the best of the going all the way through. The atmosphere was acqually for Garrett in the second and again to the fourth, but until the eighth there was nothing doing. In the fourth Engan hit, went to second on Coy's hit and to third on an infield out. His slow base running there prevented a score.

Brashear Is Put Out.

Brashear was put out of the game by Umpire Toman and was also ordered off the grounds. This order he refused to and the park policeman had to be

"You're a bum, Toman," were the words by Brashear which started the "Get off the grounds," retorted Um-

And Brushear stayed while Toman con nard by the Vernon team and had Ber The affair was none too well liked by the crowd, which feared it would be de prived of a game. This happened in the third inning and it was Bernard who substituted for Brishear and who later won the game with his home-run.

Portland Plays Ragged Ball.

Portland played ragged ball all through the game. Garrett fielded his position poorly and allowed at least two men to reach first by falling, to rover the bag. The infield seemed to lack pepper but with all the poor play it was clean hitting in the eighth by Vernen which cost the game. There with one down Haley singled, stole second and scored on Bernard's home-run along the first base line. The hall went through the fence but Haley would have scored any-way as he had a big lead. After that Eagan and Coy both singled and it began to look like a slaughter when speared a hard drive by Mott and retired Beavers finished the game with but three men left on bases all through. It was one, two, three for the first five innings but in the aixth Armbruster drew a pass and was sacrificed to second and was sucrificed to second he died. In the seventh Grapcy singled and stole second and died there while Armbruster's single in the eighth falled to place him any farther than the initial sack.

son, of the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club, of Portland, again established himself as the greatest hurdler of the world. Not satisfied with having bearien Shaw in the world's championships at London last year, Smithson today defeated to famous Easterner whom the Amateur Athletic Union credits with a record of 151-5 second for 129 yards, by ten feet in the same time. Unfortunately, both Smithson and Shaw bowled over a hurdle in running, and this prevents the time being recognized, though everyone present was thoroughly satisfied that the Multnomah Club entry was the master of all hurdlers. Today's meet, which was remarkable for many features, in addition to Smithson's performance, was universally declared by the Amateur Athletic Union officials, such as James E. Sullivan, Mat Halpin, Harry Lyons and Evecett C. Brown, to be the most successful and satisfactory meet ever conducted under the auspices of the organization. In other words, Billy Inglis and the Seattle Athletic Club officials, as well as the Seattle athletes, did themselves proud.

Homage Paid to Hayward.

Seattle won the meet today and thereby has gained title to the American championship in athletics, for it was a senior meet and the best talent from all over the country competed. Still, it was an Oregon man, Trainer Bill Hayward, who possible Seattle's victory, and the Club officials are willing to acknowledge homage to Hayward, who took an un-developed and merely prospective team, and made it a factor and winner in both

WITH three teams bunched around the top in the American League, there are enough thrills to satisfy the most rabid fans. It has been many moons since the Athletics were at the top of the column.

Hitt deserves all the credit for winning the local game yesterday. His curves curved, wriggled, twisted and bent in every conceivable direction and had the Beaver sluggers nonplussed all through. Bill Chinault appeared in the game for a moment when he batted for Gar-rett in the eighth. He arrived Saturday morning, after pitching in Tacoma on Friday. Brashear's conduct in the third in-ning was disgraceful and would cer-tainly not have been tolerated or even attempted in the Northwestern League. Vernon was inclined to be ragging all

Coy sent out a stinger in the eighth straight at Garrett. The pitcher dodged and received the ball squarely on the hip. Jess limped from then on until he was taken out.

There was considerable betting on the game, with odds of 2 to 1 on Port-land. A number of bets were sched-uled Friday afternoon at 3 to 1 that Vernon would win a game.

Truck Engan sent a drive over the left field fence in the fourth, but it went foul by a few feet. The next ball he slammed to the right field fence and he could have made it a dou-bie if he had used the speed of a Eagan was so slow on bases that he cost Vernon at least one run, possibly two. Coy's long hit should have scored two. Coys long hit should have a him in the fourth, as he had a big lead, but he only made second. Then in the eighth a long hit by the same man gave him another chance, but Truck watched the inning die from third.
