STORY OF CRIME DENIED BY WOMAN

Widow of Murdered Man Repudiates Confession of Affinity.

RECEIVES SHOCK

Mrs. Kvalshang Overcome at Sight of Illicit Lover, Who Says He Killed Her Husband Because She Incited Him to Deed.

TACOMA, Wash, Oct. 9.—(Special.)— Mrs. Martin Rvaishaug, upon whom Charles Newcombe, soon after his arrest, threw all the blame for her husband's death, claiming that she incited him to commit the murder and fired three of the five shots, took the stand late this afternoon and flatly repudiated her affinity's confession.

fty's confession.

The courtroom was packed, threefourths of the audience being women, when Mrs. Kvalshaug, charged jointly with Newcombe, walked into the courtroom on the arm of Deputy Sheriff Desmond. As she approached the witness stand she glanced at the prisoner. Their eyes met and both were greatly agitated, the woman clutching at her breast. It took several minutes for her to gain her composure. As she told her story, Newcombe's eyes filled with tears, but when combe's eyes filled with tears, but when she denied his confession his face hard-ened and his eyes gleamed.

Saw Newcombe Running Away.

I never asked Newcombe to kill my husband," she said. "Instend, he always kept urging me to leave him and when I refused he became very angry and said he would knock his block off or shoot him. I did not know that the crime was contemplated that night, and was not aware that it was Newcombe who fired the shots until I saw him under the elec-tric light running away." Newcombe's confession is a cold-blooded document filled with revolting details of the long continued wrongful relations between himself and the murdered man's wife.

According to Newcombe's confession they met on the afternoon of May 14, when she told him he must kill her husband that night, on the way home from a dance. Before that she had urged him to the deed and while she was in the hospital recovering from appendicitis he said she gave him money to buy the revolver.

Wife Shot, Too, He Says.

They all went to a dance on the fatal night and there again, Newcombe says, the woman urged him to kill her husband that night. Newcombe left the party early, went home and changed his clothes, got the revolver and met Kvalshaug and his wife on the trail. The latter was shead and as she passed Newton has been added to the passed to the passed to the passed Newton has been added to the passed to combe she whispered, "Get him now."

As Kvalshaug came up Newcombe struck him on the jaw, knocking him down. They clinched and Newcombe fired two shots. In a minute, Mrs. Kvalshaug came up, he said, and fired two shots at her husband. Newcombe then went away, leaving her standing there. William J. Newcombe, father of the prisoner, testified to his son's peculiari-ties when a child, the defense attempting to bring out that the prisoner was insane when he committed the crime. Night ses-sions of the court have been held the past week, and they will be continued until the case is finished.

Venire of 74 Now Exhausted Without Securing Panel.

PENDLETON, Or., Oct. 9 .- (Special.) PENDLETON, Or., Oct. a special, After two days of fruitless endeavor on the part of the attorneys and court at-tuches not a single juror has been se-lected for the trial of Mike Ryan on a charge of murder.

Eleven men have been passed for cause, but as no peremptory challenges have been made by either side no one of these 11 may sit on the final jury. Another ctal venire of 30 names was drawn this afternoon, making the third venire and a total of 74 names so far drawn.

The attorneys express no hope of se-uring a complete jury before Tuesday or Vednesday. There have been but few spectators in the courtroom during the efforts to secure a jury.

One of the spectators has been Mrs. Edward Dixon, widow of the man killed by Ryan. She sits well back in the court-room with a baby on either side of her.

I expect the opposition of every scoundrel, but I am ready to meet them all and go down, if the people of this city are content to let them put me down."

Jerome Will Not Run.

As had been expected for several days, William T. Jerome issued a statement to-night, formally withdrawing from the contest for re-election as District At-torney as an independent. His statement says in part: "After a further careful reflection, it seems to me I ought no longer to con-tinue as a candidate for election to the office of District Attorney of New York County, and I have today filed my declination of nomination as a candidate for that office."

Bannard Against Suffrage.

It became known today that Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, now prominently identified with the woman's suffrage movement, had submitted a series of questions to all three mayoralty candidates. The first question, naturally is "Do you favor or oppose extending suffrage to women?" Mr. Bannard has already answered this on as follows: "That is a legislative and state ques-tion which I, as Mayor, would have noth-ing to do with. At present, however, I am not in favor of it. I am inclined to think that it will come about ultimately."

Secret of Result of Battle for Control Revealed in Suit for

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 .- (Special.)-Frank H. Platt, son of ex-United States Senator Platt, was examined today by the Supreme Court as a witness in a suit brought in Montgomery County by Benjamin F. Spraker for the ap-pointment of a receiver of the United States Express Company and for an accounting of the affairs of the com-pany. Spraker holds five shares of the capital stock of the company.

"In the course of his testimony Mr.

Platt revealed the secret of how E. H. Harriman had entrusted him with more than $2,000,000 to buy 22,008 shares of stock of the United States Express Company. The stock still stands in the name of Mr. Platt on the books of the company, although he assigned the certificates to Mr. Harriman some time go. The revelation that Mr. Harriman was back of the Platts in their fight to continue control of the United States Express Company caused a sensation It appears that Mr. Harriman went to the assistance of the Platts when the suits that threatened to oust them from control of the company first started.

Frank E. Rodman, of Real Case Fame, Marries Miss Noss at Prineville.

NOT WITNESS AGAINST HIM

Miss Ethel Noss, at Home in Portland, Disclaims Any Affection for Chauffeur and Says She Does Not Know His Bride.

PRINEVILLE, Or., Oct. 9.—(Special.)

—Frank E. Rodman and Miss Noss bought a marriage license of County Clerk Brown here today, and were married tonight at George Rodman's place near Culver.

That the ting-a-ling of wedding bells is one of the culminating phases of the Real case, is indicated by the foregoing dispatch. Frank E. Rodman, the bridegroom, is none other than the chauffeur who faces a manslaughter charge for killing Mrs. May Real on the Linnton road last August. And, entailing a mystery as peculiar as some of the tangles of the automobile fatality, the bride, Miss Noss, bears the same age the main witness against same name as the main witness against Rodman, Miss Ethel Noss, a young woman, aged 18, and very pretty. Miss Rodman, Miss Ethel Noss, a Young woman, aged 18, and very pretty. Miss Noss was found at her home at $74 Savier street last night.

"The idea! It's preposterous. I don't even know Rodman to talk to," she said. He has put up some girl to take my name in getting the marriage license, or he may be marrying a Miss Noss, but I doubt it. I have no relatives of that name. I'm the only Noss in the Portland directory, and it would be really odd if there's another Miss Noss in Prineville.

Then also bearing a tinge of mystery, Mrs. Hazel Maddux, indicted with Rodman for manslaughter, is at the home of her parents, 129 East Forty-seventh street, sick abed. Aroused and asked over the telephone if she knew of Rodman's nuptials, she was incensed at the suggestion that she knew anything about Rodman or his love affairs. About Miss Noss, however, she was more voluble. Noss, however, she was more voluble. "Ethel may be the bride," she said. "have not seen her for five or six days No. I have not telephoned to her either."

"Mrs. Meddux is a rascal," said Miss.
Noss. "I telephoned to her tonight in the presence of an Oregonian reporter and she told me all she knew about it, which was very little."
That Rodman had left Portland two days ago to visit his sister in Prineville was the only enlightenment Mrs. Maddux could throw on the chauffeur's move-ments. She was not aware that "he had a girl" in Prineville and was positive he had not been keeping company with a Miss Noss.

Rodman is free under $2500 bonds, as s Mrs. Maddux, and their trials for nansisughter have been set for hearing early in November. While evidently on good terms before indictments against them were returned, now they appear to be unfriendly and Miss Noss is barely on speaking terms with Mrs. Moddux.

Miss Noss was brought into the case by informing the District Attorney's office she had beard Mrs. Maddux say that she and Rodman were out on the Linnton road "joy-riding" the morning Mrs. Real was killed. Miss Noss is regarded as the most potent witness against the pair and is also held under bonds, the amount in she had plighted her troth with the man her testimony may send to the penilen-tiary for a period ranging from one to la years was a shock to the girl. She had retired when the harbinger of he odd tidings rang the bell at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Becker, Jr., at Twenty-sixth and Savier streets, where Miss Notes lives. She all but tottered when the telegram was read to her. Finally, regaining her composure, her first thought was of Mrs. Maddux, believing Rodman's co-defendant in the manslaughter charge could clear the mystery. When Mrs. Maddux answered the telephone, the girl was visi-

"I knew Mrs. Maddux could not be the bride, as she siready has a husband," she said. "Thank God, it's not me. In the first place, I don't know Rodman except by sight and in the second place I wouldn't have him. I see him nearly every day on the street at his automobile stand across from the Perkins Hotel, but do not speak to him except when I have to, so it is hardly probable that I would become his wife. Ugh! I hate to

"I got mixed in the case for telling the truth, which I am going to do right straight through, and I can't help who suffers by it, even if it is Rodman, now a ewly-married man.

'Can I do anything to him if he pre-"Can I do anything to him if he pre-vailed upon this girl to give my name in getting the license?" she asked. Told that in such an event she could prosecute the bride for perjury, she was not overly pleased. It's the bridgegroom she's after.
Then an automobile bearing three mer and two women whizzed by.

"My," said the girl; "there's another "joy ride." Will I never hear the last of this business?"

Talks on Teeth

Alveolar Teeth and Enunciation

The partial plate and bridgework which people used to wear before the Alveolar Method of restoring missing teath was discovered, interfered greatly with enunciation. The very fact of a foreign substance being introduced into the roof of the mouth made it necessary for people to learn to talk all over again. A great many never succeeded. There is an unmistakable impediment in the speech of any one whose mouth is encumbered with a partial plate or a bridge with space underneath to whistle through or make a metallic sound when talking or singing. The partial plate also makes it unpleasant when one is dining. It takes away in large measure the sense of taste, as it covers up the palate. The Alveolar Method emancipates people from the many disagreeable features of the partial plate, but, best of all, it enables one to use the Alveolar Teeth with the same degree of satisfaction that they would use nature's teeth.

No one will pretend to say that teeth fastened to a partial plate are any more than a makeshift. They simply fill up the gap in the mouth where the teeth have been lost. The Alveolar Teeth fill up the gap and they also allow one to chew with them with entire satisfac-

If you are a rank skeptic we are going to ask you if you won't be fair enough to give us a chance to prove that the Alveolar Teeth are all that we claim for them. If you are wearing a partial plate or a bridge, so called, that is gradually destroying the teeth to which it is anchored, we want you to come and allow us to make an examination of your mouth and tell you what we can do for you. We won't charge anything for the service and you will be under no obligation to have any dealing with us whatever, unless entirely earlief that we can make good on our claims for the Alveolar Method.

We are prepared to submit the strongest kind of proof in the shape of letters from patients, and in addition will refer you to people in the same cities in which our offices are, who will gladly tell you all you will want to know about their Alveolar Teeth.
