500 PORTLANDERS SEE APPLE SHOW

The Dalles Sends 200 and Hood River Takes Holiday to Entertain Guests.

AWARDS ARE ANNOUNCED

Professor Van Deman, as Judge, Decorates Displays With Ribbons and Silver Cups Are Trophies for Successful Exhibitors.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Oct. 30.—(Special.)—The arrival of 500 visitors from Portland, 200 from The Dalles and an outpouring from all sections of the valley and near-by towns, coupled with the announcement of the awards, made today the big day of the Hood River Apple Fair.

The weather this morning cleared off, and at an early hour the streets and fair building were jammed. The Portland delegation arrived at 11 o'clock on a special train of eight coaches in charge of William McMurray, general passenger agent, and J. H. O'Neill, traveling passenger agent. Just as the train pulled in the balloon ascension took place, the parachute jumper alighting on the roof of a ranch-house about half a mile from the depot, in plain sight of the spectators.

Met by a big delegation of residents, the Portland delegation was escorted to the fair building, where the visitors joined in the exclamations of delight with the other visitors at sight of the exhibit. It is estimated that the attendance at the fair today was fully 3000.

To Make Display at Chicago.

After waiting anxiously all the morning, the fears and hopes of exhibitors were put at rest this afternoon by the placing of the blue ribbons announcing the winners of the big silver cups. Although all the displays looked as if they were entitled to prizes, the awards are said to meet with general satisfaction. Professor H. E. Van Deman acted as judge on all points except pack, which were decided by A. P. Bateham, of Mosier.

E. H. Shepard, editor of Better Fruit, and C. Dethman, one of the directors of the Applegrowers' Union, to whom is assigned the work of picking out the car of apples to be sent to Chicago, got busy this afternoon and are hard at work designating the choicest fruit for that purpose.

LAW OBSERVANCE ASKED

Writer Disagrees With Mr. Crittenton's Restrictive Policy.

PORTLAND, Oct. 29.—(To the Editor.)—Charles N. Crittenton well merits the support of every right-thinking person, in his efforts in behalf of disorderly girls, but it seems that he has either taken a wrong tack or his sentiments have been misstated.

Mr. Crittenton is being reported as opposed to "driving out wayward girls," and this is taken as meaning disorderly houses and tolerating restricted districts. If this is the gist of his discourses, it were better that he devoted his whole time and efforts to the establishment of homes for the wayward, than to scatter broadcast such unworthy theories.

After making as close an investigation of the social evil as I have been able in law courts and one anxious to get at the truth of the matter, I am convinced that to allow disorderly women the privilege of living here in violation of law and decency under all circumstances, stands in the same class with every other violation of law and virtue. It is true that the summary "driving out of wayward girls" may work a hardship to many, unless the proper forces are there to assist them. Violation of law, either statutory or moral, brings its punishment; and it is likewise true that the removal of disease calls for the knife.

Disorderly houses in any community, can have no other effect than to lower morals. It were better to sacrifice a few of the tarnished ones, for the sake of the many.

During the months I have resided in Portland I have been curious to note the effect of the system recently adopted, and am satisfied that with a little closer application of the ordinance of prohibition respecting disorderly houses, a most favorable result will obtain, and much has been accomplished already. It is now required of the churches and societies in hand, including those bearing the Crittenton name, respected and honored by all, to make good and rescue wayward girls under these more favorable conditions. Don't forget that boys need some attention as well.

ALTURAS SURVEY FILED

SOUTHERN PACIFIC TO SECURE OUTLET TO SOUTHEAST.

Klamath Falls Expects to See Active Construction on Natron "Cut-off" Early Next Year.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Oct. 30.—(Special.)—The final survey maps of the railroad lines from this city to Natron, Or., and to Alturas, Cal., have been filed in the land office at Lakeview. While actual construction is under way on the Natron line from both ends, nothing has as yet been done on the Alturas line except to complete the survey.

This line will be constructed soon, it is stated, though it is believed that nothing will be attempted in the way of construction until Spring. This line as surveyed will pass directly down the main Klamath Valley via Merrill on Lost River, pass around the head of Tule Lake through the Bohemian settlement on the Lakeside tract, where the Modoc massacre of November, 1872, occurred, thence down in a southerly direction on the east side of Tule Lake, closely following Fremont's exploration route of 1846, thence southeasterly across an undulating open country to Alturas, Modoc County, Cal., there connecting with the present line already constructed to the Central Pacific overland line at Reno. This will give us Eastern connection and through a region presenting no engineering difficulties. From here to Natron, where the road now extending north from this place will connect with the present system at the head of the Willamette Valley, the distance is 198 miles, of which 60 miles is under contract and construction. It appears to be the purpose of the company to push this work with all possible vigor, so that in less than two years Klamath Falls will probably be nearly 200 miles nearer to Portland by rail than at present.

LEBANON RAISES $3000

Santiam Towns Will Advertise Resources to World.

LEBANON, Or., Oct. 30.—(Special.)—Lebanon business men last night raised $3000 for a publicity fund for the next year. A committee of business men were out today to see the men who did not attend last night's meeting and a sum approaching $3000 is now subscribed.

Many women attended last night's meeting, as much through curiosity as anything, and many of them found before leaving they had contributed from $30 to $60 for a year's advertising fund. The sums subscribed are to be paid in monthly installments ranging from $2.50 a month to $10. Ten men subscribed $1200 of the fund and 20 more are responsible for $1200 more of it. The other $600 is made up of small sums.

It was the greatest booster meeting ever held in Lebanon and one of the most enthusiastic ever held in the county. The people of the community are a unit in the forward movement and believe they see a great future for the once staid old pioneer Santiam town.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Oct. 30.—(Special.)—Harry Short, aged 18 years, employed at the mill of the Stanley-Smith Lumber Company, at Greenpoint, was taken to the State Asylum at Salem today, violently insane.

The young man was brought here yesterday and last night attempted to hang himself in the City Jail with a strip torn from a blanket. After being cut down, he ripped the bedding to shreds and became so violent that he was placed under surveillance for the rest of the night.

Today he was taken before the County Court for examination and committed to the asylum.

PRIZE BOX, $21.50

Wyatt Pays Fancy Price for Albany Spitzenbergs.

PREMIUM FRUIT AUCTIONED

Spirited Bidding for Apples After Fair Closes Runs Up Price. Choice Display Will Be Sent to Illinois to Attract Interest.

ALBANY, Or., Oct. 30.—(Special.)—J. R. Wyatt, of Portland, Assistant United States District Attorney, paid $21.50 today for the best box of Spitzenberg apples at the Albany Apple Fair. The box was bid in for Wyatt by Attorney L. L. Swan, of this city, at the auction held at the fair this forenoon.

This is the largest price ever paid for a single box of apples in the Willamette Valley. It had won first prize for the best box of Spitzenbergs at the fair in competition with several boxes of splendid apples. The apples were grown by G. B. Peebler, at his large orchard three miles east of Albany.

Wyatt, who was a resident of Albany prior to his appointment to the Federal position at Portland, instructed Swan to buy him the best box of Spitzenbergs and also the best box of Northern Spies exhibited at the fair, no matter what the cost. It happened that the box of Spitzenbergs was the first one put up at auction, and the bidding for the magnificent apples was spirited. It went beyond all expectations, and Swan's offer of $21.50 finally won. The box of Northern Spies was put up later, and Swan bid it in for Wyatt for $5.

Sixty-two boxes of the splendid individual exhibits at the fair were auctioned off by Wallace R. Struble, on behalf of the executive committee of the fair, this forenoon. The second highest price paid for a box was $8, which sum P. A. Young, a local merchant, paid for the prize box of Yellow Newtown Pippins. Several boxes sold at $5 each, but most of them sold at $2.50 and $3 a box.

The executive committee auctioned off the individual exhibits which came into their possession under the entry rules when they won prizes. Besides the apples sold at auction, many exhibitors sold boxes which had failed to secure prizes at private sale. These were practically as good as the prize-winners, and brought from $2 to $2.50 a box.

J. M. Hawkins, who recently came here from Paris, Ill., and, with two men from the same city, formed the Oregon Title & Trust Company and engaged in the real estate and abstract business here, bought a dozen boxes of splendid apples to take back to Illinois with him. He will soon make a visit to Paris, Ill., and desires to show his former townsmen some of the famous apples of the Willamette Valley.

The Lane County exhibit, which won first prize for the best county exhibit at the fair, was kept intact, and will be exhibited in Portland during the next few weeks. The Benton County exhibit, which took second prize, was also kept intact, and will be taken to Corvallis and displayed at the Commercial Club rooms there. The Marion County exhibit, winner of third prize, was broken up today and the boxes sold at private sale.

CLUBS ARE HELPFUL

PRESIDENT CAMPBELL FAVORS COLLEGE FRATERNITIES.

House Managers Are Notified by Faculty Committee When Members Are Lax in Work.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Or., Oct. 30.—(Special.)—In an address before the student body yesterday, which he made particularly for the benefit of the freshmen and other new students, President P. L. Campbell spoke on "Planning the Semester." He emphasized especially the value to the students of planning in advance their college work, and planning it with a definite end in view. He also declared that college fraternities are distinctly helpful when they unite with the faculty in efforts to make for good scholarship as one of the principal qualities of their members, as they do at Oregon.

President Campbell said in part:

"Three things are especially important to the student in preparing for his semester's work. One is the habit of long-headed planning in advance. The second is the ability to use time effectively. And the third is to get the capacity for sustained and concentrated effort.

"In the 20 weeks of the semester there should be a gradual increase in the amount of work done up to Thanksgiving. Then comes a needed relaxation, followed by three weeks of hard work until the Christmas holidays. After that are five weeks to the end of the semester, and it is in these five weeks that the maximum efficiency of the college student should be at its greatest.

"If a student can get the habit of self-application out of his university work, his college training will have been more than worth the while. It is the ability to get right down to serious work that we try to teach you at the University of Oregon more than the mere knowledge that is gotten out of books.

"It is our aim to arrange so that students shall have 15 hours of actual recitation work each week, each hour of recitation involving about two hours of preparation. This makes a total of 45 hours a week, or about eight hours a day of work, which I think is enough for the average student; eight of relaxation and eight for absolute rest.

"In order to see that this work is done, we have reports every day of absences and the general standing of each student. Then there is a formal report on the standing of every undergraduate once each month. This results in very high standards and keeps the students in close touch with the faculty. In order further to carry out this idea, if a student is below standing his adviser is notified, and in turn, if the student is a fraternity man, the head of his fraternity house is notified. This plan has been found to work splendidly in keeping up scholarship requirements. The house managers are anxious to keep their members in good standing, and they can accomplish more than the faculty alone could ever do unaided."

ORCHARD SITE SECURED

3000 ACRES TO BE PLANTED IN FRUIT TREES.

Tract in Foothills Between Crabtree and Lacomb Optioned for Apple Farm.

ALBANY, Or., Oct. 30.—(Special.)—The 3000-acre orchard of the Linnhaven Orchard Company, which will be by far the largest orchard in Oregon, will lie between Crabtree and Lacomb, in the northern part of Linn County, and about 14 miles northeast of Albany. The site has been definitely agreed upon and enough land for the proposed orchard secured.

Officers of the company today refused to give definite figures regarding the amount of land secured or the location of each piece, but confirmed the rumor that the site for the immense orchard had been chosen and that it would lie between Lacomb and Crabtree. It is reliably reported that options have been secured on almost 4500 acres and that deals have been completed for 2000 acres.

The 2000 acres on which the deal is completely closed lie in a compact body north, west and south of the village of Lacomb. This tract includes the Stringer farm of 480 acres and the old Layton land claim and the farms of A. C. Gaines, Eli Plummer and George M. Clark. All of these ranches embraced considerable land.

It is said that options have been secured on a number of tracts lying south of Lacomb, between that point and Crabtree, and that the deals will be closed up in the next few days.

The land secured is all foothill land and is rated as first-class apple land. This site for the orchard was secured both because this part of the county is not thickly settled and a big contiguous tract could be secured, and also because Oregon hill land is pronounced by horticulturists as the best apple land in the world.

The Linnhaven Orchard Company was incorporated recently in this city by a number of local men. Several of Albany's most wealthy men are included in its stockholders, and some Eastern capital is also interested. The setting out of the orchard will begin as soon as possible.
