"BIG FOUR" COMING SOON

William Morris, Independent Vandeville Magnate, Secured Sporting Stars When He Signed Jeffries. Berger, Gotch and Roller,

BY W. J. PETRAIN. James J. Jeffries, Sam Berger, Frank Gotch and Dr. B. F. Roller, comprising the big four boxing and wresting troupe which is now touring the West for William Morris, the independent theatrical manager, probably will appear in Portland in the near future. The big fellows are booked for Scattle The big fellows are booked for Seattle on January 15 or theresbouts, and although they are not officially announced to appear here, it is not likely that they will pass through Portland without showing at least one night. Information received here by a friend of Mrs. Roller is that the quartet will show here about the middle of January. Mrs. Roller will be here shortly after Christmas and remain until the arrival of the former Seattle physician.

James J. Jeffries is naturally the stellar attraction. The disputed point as to his condition will serve to increase the attendance of those who wish to see for themselves.

Jeffries announced some time ago that he intended visiting Belking Springs, a favorite hunting-ground, a few miles out of Roseburg in the Cas-cade Mountains. Jeffries formerly viscade Mountains. Jeffries formerly vis-ited the springs every years, and if he comes to the Northwest on this tour he may arrange for the performance of some of his training work here next Spring. Cy Myrick, formerly of Port-land but now a resident of Los An-geles, usually accompanies Jeff on these trips, and was instrumental in intro-ducing the big fellow to that "hunter's-paradise."

In appearing with Berger, Gotch and Roller, Joffries is performing his part of an agreement entered into a year ago with William Morris, Joffries act includes a short sparring exhibition with Sam Berger, while the remainder is devoted to monologue and remainder is devoted to monologue and gymna-sium work. "I got my nickname of 'Rube' in Franklin, Pa., in 1896, the first year I played professional ball," said G. Ed-ward Waddell the other day. "I had pitched a morning game at Oil City and shut the team out, 8 to 6. In the afternoon both teams returned to Franklin for another game. FRENCH RACING PROMISING

Track Sport Bids Fair to Be More Extensive Than Ever.

CHICAGO, Dec. 25.—The season of light harness racing on the French tracks this year promises to be more extensive and of a much higher class than ever before. From new until the middle of February the trotters will hold full sway, for the steeplechase races are ended and under national laws no mere running or steeplechase racing is permissible until the middle of February.

sion has become a popular sport and has been brought to the front as a money-getting source for the republic and a panacea for all the strikes and rumors of strikes among owners of thoroughbreds. The trotting sport was inaugurated years ago on the sands of Cherbourg as a special attraction for visitors, but now has spread throughout France, and is sure to gain greatly in popularity in the next two months, when a number of well-known American trainers are booked to appear in can trainers are booked to appear in the contests.

The Trotting society, founded under The Trotting society, founded under the empire, has removed its headquar-ters from Caen, in the midst of those rich pasture lands in the old province of Normandy, and settled down in Paris, taking under its wing the old racecourse at Vincennes and extending its operations to the organization of the so-called legitimate sport at St. Cloud.

Cloud.

There will be racing at Vincennes every Thursday and Sunday until the new year, when every Tuesday, Thursday, and Sunday there will be racing within the confines of Paris itself. There will be, in addition, 26 trotting meetings at Vincennes from the last of December to mid-February, which shows how really popular the sport must be to support so many meetings.

PATSHEEDY WAS HONEST

OLD-TIME MAN-OF-WORLD PAID HIS DEBTS.

International Renown Gained by Sheedy Who Was Instrumental in Securing Painting's Return.

In last Sunday's issue of the Chicago Tribune John Kelly contributes an article on the late Pat Sheedy, one of the sportsmen of the old school, whos record is more or less familiar to turf and sport followers all over the world. The following excerpts from Kelly's letter will be of interest:

"In the passing of Pat Sheedy in New York a few days ago the sporting world lost a man than whom none was squarer.

"For 30 years he was a gambler—a good part of the time in Chicago—but the last decade of his eventful career was spent in the peaceful pursuit of buying and selling paintings.

"Strange to say, he was as successful in the world of art as he was in running a gambling house. He scoured Europe for old masterpieces, which he sold at a big profit to American millionaires. As an art criffe it was said of him that he knew the value of paintings better than most men engaged in the business.

"But it is as a gambler and sporting man that Sheedy's fame will last. Early in life he became a devotee of the green table, and he followed the "profession" with varying success. He has been worth $50,000 one day and broke the next.

"But to be broke financially did not mean that Pat Sheedy was down and out. He could borrow more money on his word, it is said by no less an authority than Billy' Pinkerton, than mest men could on their bond.

"There is some doubt as to Sheedy's birthplace. Some say he was born in Ireland, and others declare he was a native of Hartford, Conn.

"If he was born in the Emerald Isle he came to America at.an early age, for he was apprenticed to the harness and suddiery trade in Hartford when he was a lad of 14. Patrick Suillivan, of Chicago Heights, was his foreman, and he says he never had a more adept workman at the bench than Sheedy, who was christened Patrick Francis.

"One of the interesting incidents in Sheedy's life in Chicago was his effort to procure the acquittal of Jere Dunn, who in the early '80s killed Jimmy Eliott. Dunn was a gambler, Ellott a prisefighter. There had been had blood between them for some time, and on the day of the murder they met in 'Appetite Bill' Langdon's resort, known as the Tivoll, at 114 Dearborn street, across from Sheedy's gambling house.

"After a challenge and scuffle Elliott attempted to strike Dunn with an upilifted chair. Dunn shot and killed him.

"The best legal talent in the city."

"The best legal talent in the city was engaged by Sheedy for the defense of Dunn. The story goes that he lost $29,000 at fare trying to win the amount of the atorney's fee. Condon & Doll kent a gambiling house at 125 Clark street in those days, and it is said that Sheedy's loss gave them a start in the business. Sheedy stuck by Dunn and the latter was equalited on the ground. the latter was acquitted on the ground

Early in John L. Sullivan's career as a pugilist, he was under the management of Sheedy, who took him to Engment of Sheedy, who took him to England. Sullivan was on one of his "tantrums" in Chicago soon after Sheedy became his manager, and he started to clean out the gambling house of which Pat was keeper. Sheedy snatched a revolver from a buffet drawer and the "big fellow" was made to quit—the first time in his life that he had faild down." "Eddie Guerin, the Chicago thief who escaped from Devil's isle a few years ago, procured his freedom through money that Pat Sheedy carried to France. Acquiding to the records of the penal colony where Guerin was serving a life sentence for robbery he is 'dead.' That was the report made to the prefect of the Paris police after his escape.

"Sheedy one time left Chicago owing close to $17,000, but one year after-ward he sent the amount to William A. Pinkerton, the head of the detective agency, with a list of creditors and instructions to pay them off with com-pound interest. He had made a stake Europe and thus squared his ac-

"The first two years of the Garfield racetrack I drawed' Sheedy and his wife from the Sherman House, where they lived, to the track. He was the best customer I ever had in the 43 years I've been on the street, and, say, I want to tell you that his wife was one of the nicest little women that ever stood in shoe leather. Pat Sheedy paid me hundreds of dollars for drawing him.

"When he left Chicago he owed me $7 and I had forgotten all about it. One day Billy Pinkerton sent for me to cy."

"He counted out the $7 and I took it. Do you know what I'd like to do now that Pat Sheedy has cashed in? I'd like to spend that $7 for a bunch of flowers to put on his grave. He was a square man."

Sheedy gained international fame by helps instrumental in securing the re-stensive and of a much higher class han ever before. From now until the hiddle of February the trotters will lord full away, for the steeplechase aces are ended and under national awa no mere running or steeplechase acing is permissible until the middle of February.

Trotting under government supervices will be for $250,000.

Sheedy gained international fame by the steeplechase painting stoles from the Agnew galleries by Adam Worth and his gang. Sheedy knew Worth, and through his agency and the co-operation of Pinkerton, the painting was returned for $15,000. J. Pierpont Morgan later purchased it for $250,000.

Beside the teams shown in the accompanying cuts, there are in both of the institutions basketball teams composed of older girls. Professor Gens considers basketball one of the best means of all around athletic development for the young women, and he intends instructing them thoroughly in the points of the game.

Professor Gens was desirous of forming a league of girls' teams with the Turner and C. Y. M. C. teams and others from such institutions as the Y. W. C. A. and the Multnomah Club, but has been unable to carry out his idea because the latter organizations have no girls' teams which play outside games. Basketball is used largely as a means of exercise among the women in both the Y. W. C. A. and the Multnomah Club, but there are no organized teams.

At some of the preparatory schools in the city, there are girls' class basketball teams, and some of them even have star first teams, but so far the principals have not given their consent to the organization of a girl's interscholastic basketball league, nor to allowing the girls to play any outside games at all. So far as the girls themselves are concerned, most of them are anxious to play outside of their ewn schools, but they have been unable to persuade the principals and some of the parents to their way of thinking.

ABERDHEN, Wash., Dec. 25.—(Special.)—At a meeting of the Aberdeen Baseball Association directors, at which many enthusiastic fans were present, it was decided to offer to clear up the base-ball situation in this league by taking over the Portland Northwestern fran-chise and presenting it to Hoquiam, thus giving the Harbor two teams in the ieague.

The rivalry between Aberdeen and Hoquiam in sports would result in recording attendence whenever the two teams played on the Harbor. Aberdeen fans want to keep a team in the league and they want the Northwestern to remain intast and not submit to the dictation of the California men. Academy Begins Well.

Present indications are that Portland Academy, which landed in the cellar hast season, will make a strong bid for the league championship this season. In a practice game recently the P. A.s were victorious over the strong Allen Prep. team, the score being 29 to 17. The Hawthorne Presbyterian Church team was also defeated by P. A. last week 24 to 26. In a fast game with the Newberg High School last Wednesday night, Portland Academy was defeated 24 to 33. In this game, however, the Academics put up fully as good a game as the High School and their defeat probably was due to the fact they were not used to the floor and the low ceiling. The stars of the game were Norris, playing right forward, and Runyan, at center. Runyan was the center of the crack Lincoln High team last year. He is more Present indications are that Portland

Columbia Defeats C. Y. M. C.

In a game last week, Columbia defeated the C. Y. M. C. team 40 to 33 with Cochran and Fitzgeraid out of the game. Sometime this week a game will be played between Columbia and the Christian Brothers College team.

The championship of the Interscholastic League was awarded to Columbia University last season by the interscholastic athletic committee, after a tie with Lincoin High for first place. The award was made because after an agreement to play a post season game for the championship, Lincoin High did not fulfill the contract. Last season Lincoin beat Columbia in one game. Columbia beat H. M. A., H. M. A. beat Lincoin and Hill lost to the Allen Preps.

At Washington High School the team has not been organized, although the squad has been out for practice. This is being carried on in Ringler's gymnasium and the first team will be picked immediately after the holidays. There is a lot of strong material in the squad. Feustermacher is coaching the team.

Elieven men have been selected by Conch Lee for the Lincoln High School squad. They are as follows: Benz, Venstrand, Rice, Olcott, Carlander, Vesper (manager), Peterson, Welch (captain), Boyle, Daly and Toomey. All of these men will be trained for the first team, so that there will be two sets of equally strong players.
