House Votes to Appoint Committee on Ballinger and Pinchot Itself.

FORESTER HAS CHAMPIONS

Democrats Propose to Limit Inquiry to Ballinger but Are Badly Beaten.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The House of Representatives yesterday, after a parliamentary battle in which a combination of "insurgent" Republicans and Democrats defeated the Republican organization, adopted a joint resolution providing for an investigation of the Interior Department and of the Forestry Bureau.

The defeat of the Cannon organization came in the adoption by a vote of 149 to 145 of an amendment providing that House members of the joint committee be appointed by the House itself and not by Speaker Cannon.

As soon as the President's special message had been read in the House yesterday Chairman Dillard, of the rules committee, brought in a privileged resolution providing for the immediate consideration of the joint investigation resolution offered several days ago by Humphrey, of Washington.

Dillard explained that after its adoption by the Senate and its signature by the President, the joint resolution will become a law, giving the investigating committee power to summon witnesses and compel them to testify.

An agreement to limit the debate to three hours, with the privilege of offering amendments being reached, Fitzgerald, of New York, opened the struggle.

Fitzgerald declared he was heartily in favor of this investigation. He expressed the opinion that it should be narrowed so as to eliminate from the inquiry Gifford Pinchot, whose only offense, he asserted, "has been that he has been too active against land-thieves and land-grabbers, and so as to deal only with the grave charges made against the official integrity and personal honor of a member of the President's Cabinet, Mr. Ballinger."

Fitzgerald said he thought it beneath the dignity of Congress to ask the President to investigate a member of his Cabinet and therefore he was opposed to a joint resolution, which would require the executive's signature.

Referring to Mr. Ballinger's letter to Senator Jones, asking that the Forest Service be included in the proposed inquiry, Fitzgerald objected to Mr. Ballinger's attempt to dictate the character of the inquiry.

Fitzgerald offered two amendments to the pending resolution, one to eliminate the Forest Bureau from the proposed investigation, and the other to narrow the investigation to such an important matter that he believed the six members of the committee to represent the House should be appointed by the Speaker, and he offered an amendment to that effect.

Hitchcock, of Nebraska, questioned the right of Mr. Ballinger to dictate the form of the investigation that Congress should make.

Martin (Dem.), of Colorado, criticized the Forest Service and the administration of Forester Pinchot. He quoted Mr. Pinchot as saying that he had administered the Forest Service entirely within the limits of the law, but this is the case, he said, the country that are in need of Americanization.

Martin was overwhelmed by a series of pointed questions from both the Republican and Democratic sides. "Such, of Tennessee, wanted to know why Mr. Taft retained in office 'such a man as you describe Mr. Pinchot to be.' "Can you name a single violation of law by Mr. Pinchot?" demanded Cooper. "You say you are wholly familiar with this question from first-hand experience and not from information gleaned through Pullman car windows; then tell us about what I ask."

Martin replied that his office was full of information about such cases which looked like offenses.

The Norris amendment, providing for the appointment of the six House members of the committee by the House, was then voted upon and was adopted by a vote of 149 to 145.

The House was then voting on a vote of 148, five voting present, and the House amendment, eliminating the Forest Service from the inquiry, was lost by the vote of 145 to 149.

The resolution was then adopted by a viva voce vote without a dissenting voice.

CARDINAL SATOLLI DEAD

END, NOT UNEEXPECTED, COMES PEACEFULLY.

Permanent Apostolic Delegate to America Stood High in Ecclesiastical Circles.

ROME, Jan. 8.—Cardinal Satolli, whose life has been slowly ebbing away for the past two weeks, died this morning at 4 o'clock. It had been known for several days that the eminent prelate could not survive his present illness, and the last rites of the church had been administered some days ago. His death was a gradual sinking, and the end came peacefully.

Francesco Satolli was born in Meridiano, Perugia, July 21, 1841. In his earlier manhood he became professor of dogmatic theology in the Urban College of the Propaganda at Rome, and in 1888 he was made archbishop of Lepanto. At the establishment of the see of Baltimore, in 1889, he was sent to America as papal representative. He returned to the United States in 1902 in the position of apostolic delegate with extraordinary distinction.

His attitude with regard to several important questions that arose stirred up somewhat of a storm, and a considerable party arose against him. This disturbance Pope Leo XIII quelled by an order from Rome naming Mgr. Satolli permanent American apostolic delegate. He returned to Rome in 1896 and was raised to the cardinalate.

According to the Hospital, London, some English physicians are ordering patients to eat oysters that have been "infused" in sea water as a cure for dyspepsia and tubercular ailments.

WOULD ROB; DIES

Tunnel Collapses as Man Digs Toward Bank.

IMPLEMENTS ARE CRUDE

Moving Pictures May Have Stirred Imagination of Painter, With Family, Who Saw Treasure Near at Hand.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Isaac Finkelstein, burrower of Ludlow street, was found trapped in his tunnel tonight like a rabbit in its warren.

His wife and their five children saw the first stroke of the pick that uncovered his shoes. They had been watching the sappers in the trench all night and all day.

"My papa was an honest man," said Sarah, the oldest child. "He does not dig for anything. He went down into the cellar and fell into a hole."

Isaac Finkelstein was a good-natured, easy-going house painter. He knew nothing about driving tunnels. He had only the crudest tools, no timber to shore up the roofs and walls of his burrow, no buglar's kit to bore through the concrete and steel walls of the bank vaults; no adequate idea of elaborate precautions constantly on watch inside those walls against him, to revolve for the ever-possible crisis—nothing.

What ingenuity he had was taxed to the utmost to keep his secret from his wife. That is all there is to Finkelstein and his terrifying tunnel.

Finkelstein was a patron of the East Side moving-picture theaters and many a successful robbery had he seen on the white sheet. The things may have worked on the imagination of the easy-going, impecunious painter, with five children to support. If they did, he must have thought of them every time he looked out of his garret window, for behind him, on the dead wall of the bank, flashed the legend: "Deposits, $10,000,000," and by craning his neck a little he could see the diamonds of Zirkovsky, the jeweler, in the window of the brilliantly-lighted shop.

But nobody knows what Finkelstein thought, unless it was Isidor Garbus, his brother-in-law, who reported his disappearance to the police yesterday. Isidor lived in the same tenement, but though he is detained as a witness, there is no proof that he had guilty knowledge of the tunnel.

PEACE ENVOY DROWNS

GENERAL DIAZ, IN CANOE, IS CAUGHT BY WAVE.

Dead Leader Was Man in Whom His Followers Had Boundless Faith.

BLUEFIELDS, Jan. 8.—General Pedro Andres Fornas-Diaz, who started out yesterday for Managua, to treat for peace with President Madriz, met with a tragic end last night on Greytown bar.

The canoe in which he was attempting to make a landing was caught by a gigantic wave and broke in two, and Diaz disappeared in the sea.

The voyage that ended the life of General Diaz was in keeping with his career. He was a personal friend of President Madriz and was of the belief that he could persuade him to give way to General Estrada as head of the army.

At first he was granted permission to proceed to Managua and confer to this end with Madriz, the Provisional Government, however, reserving the right to reject any agreement entered into by Madriz and Diaz. Before Diaz left Bluefields the Provisionals began to suspect the sincerity of his ultimate purpose and he was stripped of official power, though permission was given him to go to Managua in an unofficial capacity.

He set out in the darkness yesterday morning. Last night there came a high wind and the booming of the surf at Bluefields could be heard 15 miles inland.

In this surf Diaz and his canoe came upon the Greytown bar, the worst along the bad coast. Picking up the trail craft, a mountainous wave bore into him, and he was crushed and sent to the bottom. With it Diaz disappeared.

The death of General Diaz removes from Nicaragua a spirit whose integrity was boundless. His career was replete with stirring incidents and his pride that of an old Spanish grandee multiplied. While his departure from Bluefields for Managua severed his relations with the revolution, his loss in the ranks of the Provisionals is deeply felt.

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 8.—(Special.)—The circular saw on the wood-sawing outfit owned and operated by Charles Semler at Colton, Wash., flew to pieces yesterday while revolving at a high rate. One of the pieces of steel struck Mr. Semler on the chin, nearly cutting off his lower lip and loosening all the front teeth on his lower jaw. Fred Stark, who was helping him, was struck in the left hand, tearing the flesh on the third and fourth fingers and breaking the bones in the third finger.

SEATTLE GRAND JURY LEARNS OF GRAFT IN COURT.

Lawyer Boasts That Money Influences Prosecuting Attorney; Dual Investigation Follows.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 8.—(Special.)—Charges that S. G. Murray, a lawyer with offices in the Arcade Annex, had received money from a client for the expressed purpose of purchasing the dismissal of a criminal action from Deputy Prosecuting Attorney John H. Perry were investigated today by the King County grand jury.

It had come to the ears of Perry that Murray had boasted that dismissals were for sale at the Prosecuting Attorney's office and that he had purchased one. As a case in which Murray was counsel for the defense had been dismissed at the motion of Perry and he had been informed that the client had given Murray $100 with which to purchase the motion taken, the Deputy Prosecuting Attorney this morning voluntarily went before the grand jury and laid the matter bare.

Perry told of the circumstances surrounding the case and stated that he was ready to swear to a complaint charging Murray with extortion. Immediately upon leaving the grand jury room Perry went to the office of Attorney John C. Higgins, counsel for the Seattle Bar Association, and began proceedings for an investigation of Murray's conduct, with a view to instituting action for disbarment.

PINCHOT ISSUES REPORT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—In his annual report made public yesterday, Gifford Pinchot shows the total expenditures made on account of the Forestry Service of the fiscal year ended June 30 last to be $2,848,297, while receipts from all sources credited to the Forestry Service aggregated $1,807,570. This latter amount was derived largely from grazing privileges and sales of timber.

The report gives an exhaustive review of work done by the Forestry Service, and is replete with statistics. The report says the total stand of National forest timber reported last year as 350,000,000,000 feet was increased in the year by 10,000,000,000 feet. This does not include the timber in the two National forests in Alaska, the extent of which is unknown.

RIVALRY RACE 60-MILES

SALESMEN BATTLE WITH SNOWS ONLY TO MEET UPON TRIP.

Spurt to Gain Trade of Idaho City Ends in Division of Spoils and Evening by Roaring Fire.

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 8.—(Special.)—Knights of the grip in North Idaho are hearing with interest the experiences of V. Napp, of Lewiston, and J. A. Freeborn, of Grangeville, two of their numbers who returned to Lewiston yesterday after an exciting race over the mountains piled high with snow to get the first orders from the merchants in Elk City. Napp and Freeborn travel for rival firms, and each, learning the other was going to Elk City for orders, decided to make a race for it.

No time was lost in preparing for the 60-mile overland trip, and on Sunday Napp left Sitka, the terminus of the Clearwater branch of the Northern Pacific, and the same day Freeborn left Grangeville, the terminus of the Camas Prairie Railroad. Salesman Napp had obtained a fast pair of horses and was confident of winning.

After traveling 20 miles each found deep snow in the hills and progress was slow. Napp arrived at the Mountain house, half way to his destination, and was seated beside a fire in the hotel when he walked Freeborn. Fraternal fellowship broke their embarrassment with a "Hello, Bill." The two salesmen continued together and returned to Lewiston last night, refusing to say how they worked Elk City.

Chicago is considering plans for an extensive subway system of railways to meet $20,000,000.
