Chief Cox Gets Shillalah.—Chief of Police Cox was the recipient yesterday of a rare present from Major M. E. Free-man, a well-known contractor in this city, a hand-carved blackthorn club comcity, a hand-carved blackthorn club commonly called a "shillalah" in Ireland. A design of shamrocks and the national emblem, the harp was carefully cut out by hand of the stick. This club is said to be very old and a splendid specimen of the blackthorn. It is twice as heavy as any of the clubs carried by the Portland police and as some of the Irish-American officers on the force who saw it remarked "would be a peach of a thing to swing in a scrimmage." Chief Cox is proud of the relic from across the ocean and has given it conspicuous place as an ornament in his private office.

EXALTED RULER MAY COME

Preparations for Making Celebration Unique Begin to Move Rapidly. Aviation Meet to Be Worked Out by Committee.

Portland Lodge of Elks No. 142, the richest of all the lodges in this great order, hopes to accomplish during the next Rose Festival something that, in a way, will compensate for the abolish-ment of the "Elks" Carnival" idea. The mere amusement feature is to be overcooked and what the antiered herd of this city expects to do is to emphasize the educational possibilities of the industries of the Northwest and at the same time

As a part of the plans now being worked out, the local lodge at its meeting Thursday night decided to urge Grand Exalted Ruler Sammis, of Le Mars, In., pay Portland an official visit during the Rose Festival in Tune. The local or-ganization has received several letters rom the National head of the order ex ressing his appreciation and thanks for he splendid entertainment that was given him and his official party here immediate by following the grand lodge convention theid at Los Angeles last July. The grand exaited ruler is likely to come. Several of the boys of No. 142 whom he met at Los Angeles and still later in this city have had letters from him to the effect that he would be here if he possibly could get away.

Should be come, a most comprehensive plan of showing him what the states of the Pacific Northwest can do in the way the Pacific Northwest can do in the way of entertainment is under way. The lodges of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana are being advised of the plan. They are being invited to come here to greet Judge Sammis in case he finds he can be here.

Suggestions that have been made and are now being worked out to take the place of the old Elks' carnival "stunts," are such as it is expected will appeal to are such as it is expected will appeal to every section of the Northwest. There is planed to be an Elks' Day luring the Festival. A monster parade is planned. Each lodge is to appear with its delegation garbed in character o represent the distinctive industry f its own locality. Take Oregon odges, for example. The Astoria lodge, for example. The Aktoria lodge members are to be asked to wear costumes representing a fish, or, better yet, a chinook salmon. Baker City boys are to be arrayed in huge rough-shaped gold nuggets. Ashland rough-shaped gold nuggets. Ashland has many kinds of truit; so has Grants Pass and Medford. Salem has its cherry which will make a most picturesque costume for the members of that lodge in the parade. Pendieton has its wool, so the elks may wear fleeces; La Grande has its sugar beet; Hood River has its apple; so has The Dailes. Vancouver has the revue. Dalies. Vancouver has the prune, and other lodges in different cities of the Northwest will have an opportunity to array their delegations in some form of attire that will be striking and

The Rose Festival management is trying to get into communication with Kenneth L Bernard, who has made arrangements with President Bishop of the Aero Club of America for a series of aviation meets at various Pacific Coast cities during the coming Spring and Summer.

Bernard is making arrangements for holding meets on the "Sunset Slope" beginning in April and lasting for several months, and it is hoped that the men behind the proposed Portland Aero Club will have perfected their organization in time to secure a series of flights in Portland during the next annual Rose Festival. Bernard's plan was casually hinted at in a dispatch published in yesterday's Oregorian but he has not made any overtures to Portland for such an exhibition so far as can be learned.

Rose Festival officials are deeply improved with pressed with the possibilities of the advertising value of having air-ship contests and are anxious to secure a high-class programme for the coming floral celebration.

FINE BOOK OF VIEWS MADE FOR PRESIDENT.

Work Is Elaborate and Carries Presentation Address Written by Judge George H. Williams.

President Taft will have an interesting souvenir of his visit to Portland last year. The Commercial Club yesterday eceived a handsome book of 200 pages of views of Oregon scenery for the President. The volume was specially prepared and will be more highly appreciated by President Taft from the fact that the preseniation was writted by Judge George H. Williams on a leaf left blank for that purpose, over his own signature.

The book is of large size, bound in handsome blue morecce, silk lined, gilt edges, with hand tooling and illumined initial letters. In addition to the excellent cuts of Oregon seepers, the book lent cuts of Oregon scenery, the book contains a short history of the state by Judge Williams. The volume is believed Judge Williams. The volume is believed to be the most sumptuous ever issued from a Portland plant.

The book was published by W. D. Harney for the Commercial Club. Photographs are by B. A. Glifford and the binding was done by the firm of Lovejoy & Lincoln. The binders made the work a labor of love, going beyond their instructions in making the book a really beautiful volume and a distinct credit to any binders in the country. The book any binders in the country. The book, inclosed in a special box, will be shipped to Washington this week. It will be on view at the Portland Public Library for two or three days, commencing tomorrow.

A big feature of the volume is a colored shotograph of the living for actions to the statement of the living for actions. ored photograph of the living flag of school children that greeted President Taft at Multnomah Field upon fils recent visit here. The autographs of sev-eral thousand school children who par-ticipated in the flag drill and other exercises attendant upon the President's visit are included in the book.
