

POLICE WHO PATROL COAL REGIONS USED TO KEEP STRIKERS IN ORDER

Pennsylvania State Constabulary Is Only Force of Its Kind in World—Streetcar Men, Wearing Uniforms, Sell Newspapers on Streets to Earn Money for Food.

TROOP "B" PENNSYLVANIA STATE CONSTABULARY.

ORGANIZER PRATT—PRES. T. DRISCOLL—S. LAWARD—C. BRAUNGART—SECY. BARRON.

AN ARREST.

PHILADELPHIA, March 3.—(Special.)—The State Constabulary of Pennsylvania is the only force of its kind in the world. The constables are mounted under state control and they are used to keep order chiefly in the anthracite coal region. They are being used in Philadelphia to control the strike.

Those shown in the accompanying picture are the men who have declared the riotous car strike in Philadelphia. They are Pratt, organizer; Driscoll, president of the Union E. L. A. Ward and C. Braungart, members of the executive committee, and Barron, secretary. The point at issue is the recognition of the right of the men to belong to the union.

The Philadelphia streetcar strikers sold newspapers on the street corners to earn a little money for food. They wear their uniforms while acting as newsboys.

ERROR CONVULSES ROOT

Woman's Bust-for-Age Answer in Court Gets Laugh.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—While the evidence in the Ballinger-Pinchot inquiry was dragging worse than usual Senator Sutherland, of Utah, engaged the attention of Senator Root, who sits next to him.

"This correcting of testimony reminds me," said Senator Sutherland, and Senator Root leaned closer.

"Lady witness," whispered Senator Sutherland, "testifying in court, wanted to correct testimony given in the morning. Said on taking the stand after lunch hour that she must make an important correction. Court drew its chairs forward, jury expectant and attorneys alert.

YOUTH ADOPTS HIS FATHER

Captures Wealthy Pittsburger and Secures Good Home.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Judge Wilkin, certain prominent Pittsburger and his wife decided upon the adoption of a child, having none of their own. It was arranged by the Children's Aid Society to have ready for their inspection several homeless little boys from which they might make a choice. Among them was one aged about 6 years, a wee bit of a waif who had just come to the society.

"Witness hid, blushing slightly and said gravely: 'This morning on taking the stand I was asked my age, and said that it was 38. Upon reflection I find that I inadvertently confused my age and my bust measure, and I now correct it. I am 28.'" consider the other lads. As they talked with Miss Chalfant, in charge of the society's work, the rejected one eyed the Pittsburger, who is a large, fine-looking man, and timidly edged alongside his chair.

C.O. PRATT, STRIKE LEADER.

"I wish you was gonna be my papa. I like you."

Young Bride Dies at Vale.

VALE, Or., March 5.—Mrs. John Kennedy, aged about 30 years and having been married less than a year, died of acute stomach trouble and was buried yesterday. Before her marriage Mrs. Kennedy was Miss Moudy, her parents residing here.

PAKCAKE CITY, Va., March 4.—

Remarkable intelligence on the part of a rattlesnake and 13 little ones saved Jim Pleasant's hoarded fortune from a burglar. About a year ago Jim was walking along, when he noticed a rattlesnake pinned under a heavy rock.

He started to kill the reptile with a stone, but something about its eyes caused him to hesitate.

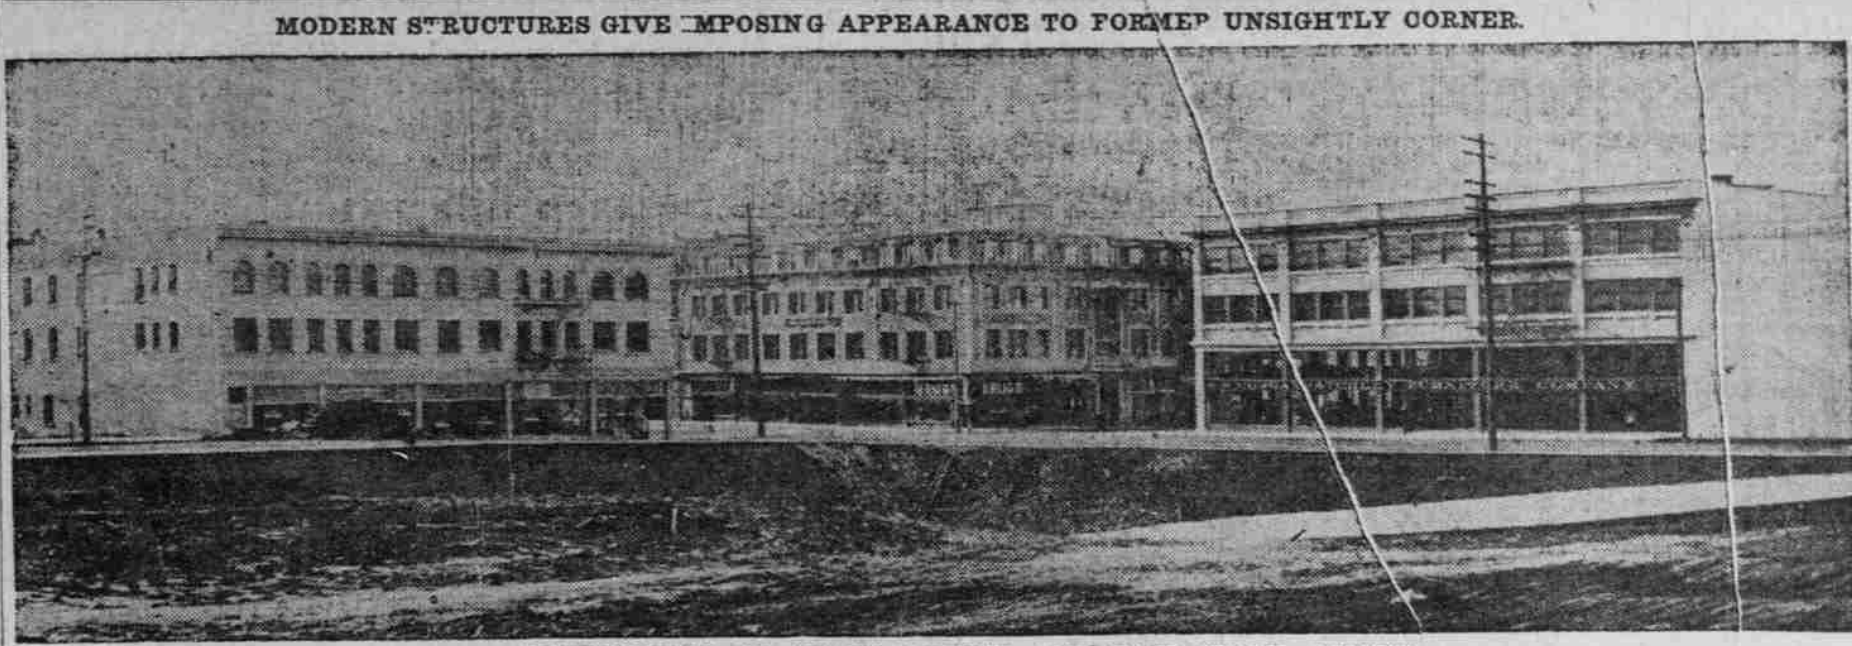

Not knowing what induced him to do so, he stooped and removed the rock from the snake. After lifting its head toward him, the snake scurried away in the bushes. Jim had almost forgotten the incident.

Pleasant was awakened by a peculiar sound in his room. The next instant he recognized the noise as that of a rattlesnake, or rather of many rattlesnakes.

Sitting up in bed he saw a man, a burglar, standing motionless in his room. Springing out, he was further astonished to see a rattlesnake coiled so tightly about the man's legs that he could not move.

Fifteen little snakes, offspring of the older ones, had their tails out the window rattling for a policeman.

CONDUCTOR SELLING PAPERS.

MODERN STRUCTURES GIVE IMPOSING APPEARANCE TO FORMER UNSIGHTLY CORNER.

INTERSECTION OF GRAND AVENUE AND EAST STARK STREET. At the intersection of Grand Avenue and East Stark Street three modern brick and concrete buildings, 100x90, have been erected, transforming that former unsightly place into an important business center.

OUR ANNUAL SAVINGS IN INTEREST AND TAXES BECAUSE WE BUILT ON THE EAST SIDE

The above picture and descriptive article, together with still more said on the subject, all of which appeared as a regular news item in The Oregonian last Sunday, illustrates both pictorially and in cold figures our economic position and shows what the business advantages which we possess by reason of being on the East Side have done in building up this section of the city.

The central building shown in the picture is the first building erected, the one in which we opened our furniture store, the one which made us famous as the firm who collected rent while others paid rent. We were able to sell so low that in two years the building shown on the right was needed to house and take care of our business.

Note the price of quarter blocks mentioned; then recall that when quarter block sales on the West Side are mentioned the figures are $350,000 and more. Then take your pencil and figure interest on the money and taxes on the difference in values of the real estate and say whether we state the truth when we claim to save $25,000 annually, whereby we are enabled to sell the same quantity of furniture during the year at that much less than we could had we built on the West Side. And if we paid rent for as big a store on the West Side as we now own, how much would it be? Well, did you notice in the papers that a new drug store was paying $2000 a month for a small store? Think of this before you answer our question. Then tell us WHO CAN SELL THE CHEAPEST?

M-A Special Range—No. 14, $29.25; No. 16, $33.75; No. 18, $36; No. 20, $38.25

Range built to order for our trade after experimenting with a large number of the best-known ranges in the United States and embodying the best features of them all. Firebox fitted with duplex grate, so that either wood or coal may be used. The wood grate is close-fitting, so the fire wood is held in the proper place and not allowed to drop into the ash pan, where it does no good.
