VANCOUVER, B. C., March 5.—Of the 62 Canadian Pacific trainmen, trackmen and laborers buried by an avalanche in Rogers Pass, on the summit of the Selkirk range of the Rocky Mountains, all are probably dead.

Rescue party sent to the summit with supplies Monday carried today and reports terrible conditions. Several bridges are gone and in one place three-quarters of a mile of track is wiped out.

At Rockdale, the operator and his wife, under in the station with one living within several miles had been on a diet of coffee for a week.

WELLINGTON, Wash., March 5.—Slow progress was made today by the men who are excavating in the debris, and only a few bodies were brought out.

Among the few bodies found today were those of Engineer B. F. Jarman and Fireman Harry O'Connell, both of Blount, and only a few bodies were brought out.

Looking down from Wellington into the gorge where the train ruins and 60 dead are buried nothing is to be seen on the mountain side of the snow-covered trees.

At first it was believed that all of the 100 men engaged were killed, but during the early morning it was found that only 60 were dead.

When the slide came this morning the men were engaged in clearing away a small slide which had come down early in the evening.

As the hours advanced rain and sleet continued in increasing volume. Precisely at 12:30 this morning, when half the first slide had escaped, a second avalanche descended.

In a few seconds, with a noise like a thousand thunderbolts crashing in unison, the avalanche leaped from shelf to shelf, uprooting and carrying with it a tangled mass of ice, trees and boulders.
