BOURNE SEEKS TO OUST HITCHCOCK

Cabinet Officer Aggrieves Senator by Opposition to Appointments.

VEWSPAPER TAKES CUDGEL

Friendship, Strained Over Naming of Postmaster Young, Breaks When Conflict Comes Upon Selection of Colonel Hofer.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Wash ington, Apr., 9. Senator Bourne of Oregon is working industriously to get the sculp of Frank H. Hitchcock, Postnuster-General in President Taft's Cabinet. It is big game be seeks, and t is no ordinary task to unseat a Cabinet officer, particularly when that officer contributed as much as Hitchcock to the election of the President. Hifchcock is chairman of the Republican National committee, and in that capacity directed the last National ampaign. Naturally, the Greatdent wes him much. Notwithstanding this that Hitchcock, as political advisor of the President, has attempted to pre-vent the appointment of Populists and Bryanites to Federal office in Oregon. Bryanites to Federal office in Oregon. This is another way of saying that Hitchcock has apposed the appointment of most of the men recommended by Bourne. Only recently, it is understood, Hitchcock entered objection to the appointment of E. Hofer, of Salem, Or., as Collector of internal revenue for the Oregon district, basing his objection upon Hofer's political record and his personal unpopularity. and his personal unpopularity.

Party's Good Consulted.

Elithcock maintains that Federal of-fleers should be selected not alone with a view to the good of the service, but the good of the party in power, and he has objected streamonsly to re-warding men who were out of har-mony with the Administration, and particularly those who worked to prevent the nomination of Taff.

Senator Bourne and Frank Hitchcock were chica very close friends. That was in the old days when Bourne was whooping it up for a "second elective term, and Hitchcock, yielding to persuasion, had about concluded that the country waster of country wanted four years more of Romewell. But one day President Romewell sent for Hitchcock, read the viot and to him and threatened to drop him from the Pestoffice Department the then being First Assistant Post-master-General) if he did not break away from Bourne and stop talking "second elective ferm" foolishness Naturally, Hitchcock became convinces of the sectiousness of President Roose-velt and atraightway deserted Bourne Newspaper Opens Fight.

When Taft was elected and came into When Taft was elected and came into office Bourne had declared allegiance to the new Administration and asked for the appointment of his secretary, John C. Young, as postmaster at Portland. Hitchook knew of Young's anti-Taft record and objected to his appointment. He did everything in his power to keep Young out of the postoffice, but the President overruled him and Young landed. From that day to this Bourne has been Hitchcook's bitter enemy, and his enmity grows more intense as time goes on.

Recently Bourne, through a Washing-ton newspaper in which he is a heavy stockholder, has demanded Hitch-cock's acaip. He has declared that Hitchcock's political activities are not doling the Administration doing the Administration any good, but are actually doing positive harm. Then, in characteristic way, he says:

"It is not a pleasing spectacle to see the head of a great department endeavoring to build up a political machine," just as he talks at home, or, rather, in Oregon, And much more to the same effect.

IDAHO SENATOR'S "TALKING" GETTING HIM IN TROUBLE.

Utterances Tend to Increase Unpopularity and Fear Expressed of Possible Censure.

OREGONIAN NEWS BEREAU, Wash-lington, April 2.—Senator W. B. Heyburn, of Idaho, has done more talking on the floor of the Senate during the past four months than was ever before charged up against any single member of either branch of Congress in a like period of time. As an endurance talker he has time. As an endurance talker he has broken all records, and his atterances thus far this session, if printed in a single volume, would, it is estimated, fill fully 1000 printed pages. And he is still talking.

Senator Heyburn addresses the Senate every day; frequently many times a day. His remarks have ranged all the way from a dull dissertation upon the mean-ing of an ordinary English word to a ing of an ordinary English word to a sensational bloody-shirt speech that gave him prominence on the front page of every newspaper in the country. He has discussed his own bills and the bills of others; he has debated questions of interest to his state, and questions in which the Northwest had not the slightest concorn. But seldom has he found anything to commend on the legislative programme save that which he himself has drafted. If there has been a single issue of the Congressional Record during the present session in which the name of Senator Heyburn has not appeared, that Senator Heyburn has not appeared, that fact has escaped the attention of the official reporters of debates and the Wash.

burn has made many enemies in the Sen-ate and done himself material injury. speech on the Lee status His one speech on the Lee status estranged every Democrat and a number of Republicans in the Senate. But other utterances have tended to increase his unpopularity, particularly his fillbusters on bills which he personally does not apon only which he personally does not approve, though a majority of the Senate favors them, and wants an opportunity to pass them.

Senators generally have become very tired of listening to Mr. Heyburn. Usually, when he rises to speak, most of them leave the chamber, and he ad-dresses 80 or more empty chairs. His manner of speech is not pleasing, for he is ever critical, frequently bitter, usually ill-tempered, and almost invariably petulant. He has been dubbed by his col-leagues "The Senate Scold," which per-haps conveys as accurate an idea of his manner of speech as could be told in a column. Senators who are older in years and older in service than Heyburn do not appreciate being lectured, and they will not stay to listen; Senators who are younger have observed the custom of their older brethren and follow their example. The consequence is that Senator Heyburn has as his audience only a few Senators interested in whatever measure may be pending, and who feel called upon to defend it against his assaults when they become too rabid.

Unless the senior Senator from Idaho mends his ways, he will come in for a rebuke at the hands of the Senate-probable several of them.

rebuke at the hands of the Senate-prob-ably several of them, on a par with the answer that was made to his protest against losaling army tents to the confed-erate veterans. Senators are loath to condemn a fellow-Senator, even though they disapprove of his methods, tire of listening to the sound of his voice, and resent his interference in legislation that does not properly or directly concern him loss not properly or directly concern him r his people. But there is always re-course to the expedient once before apwhen the Senate solidly voted against Heyburn, it may do se again. For this is, after all, the most effective rebuke and the mest severe censure. And it raises the question, is one Senator right and 21 wrong, or are the 21 right

New York Puts "Fake" Band Instruments Under Ban.

NEW YORK, April 9 .- Mayor Gaynor's recent order against "dummy" musicians in the various music stands, where the city has paid for music while the bogus musicians went through the motion of playing, has resulted in the revelation of some secrets of the trade ation of some secrets of the trade.

According to the "confession" of an employe of a firm that made a specialty of manufacturing instruments for the purpose of deceiving the public, a favorite scheme among the bands in the city park was the introduction of a "second bass drum." At first the drum had marely a hole in the framework, and was used to carry the junches of the bands. ised to carry the lunches of the bandsmen. Then a bright idea struck the maker and the drum was built so as to hold in separate compartments frankfur-ters, sandwiches and beer,

Then the bass horn in similar style was perfected, with automatic stopper, guar-anteed to hold four gallons of liquid re-freshments. The ordinary allotment, it is said, was two horns and a bass drum to a band.

face chilling of the skin." This makes the bloodyessels of the skin contract. When the skin bloodvessels contract, the bloodyessels in other parts of the body become congested. This state of congestion permits the microbes, which, in every person, gradually collect, on the outside of the mucous membrane, to get in deeper and begin their mischievous work. When the membrane is normal there are a lot of microscopic cells which keep the germs from enter ing the circulation. But as soon as the membrane become irritated these micro scopic cells are swept away and the

Two Cars Handcraft Furniture for restful portland homes—direct from the shops of L. & J. G. STICKLEY—FAYETTEVILLE, N. Y.

Library Table at $22.00-This table is of solid oak, and has that finish in the fumed found only in the L. & J. G. Stickley productions. Top measures 241/2 inches by 37 inches. Has full-length shelf, 10 ins. wide, and also full-length drawer.

There's a steadily increasing demand for this practical and popular type of furniture. The need today is simplicity of environment. The rush and worry of modern life demand as a counteracting influence a home atmosphere that is restful, harmonious and simple. Much of the furniture seen in modern homes is merely a reflection of modern life, bewildering in its complexity of form, crowded with ornament, and taw-dry in color. Homebuilders turn with relief to the type of furniture produced in the Handcraft shops, a type that possesses simplicity of design and of coloring, and is restful to eye and brain. The solid oak used is given tones of brown and green by a process that preserves the natural beauty of the grain, anticipating effects that it takes Nature years to achieve, and making chairs and tables that are at once old friends. The leathers employed for coverings are selected for their durability and their beauty of grain, and are obtained in the varying colors found in forest and field. The metal work used is dulled and modulated in color until copper and brass assume the soft tones

The L. & J. G. Stickley productions are conceded to be the best examples of Handcraft Furniture. Shown exclusively in Portland on our floors.
