SEASIDE, Or., April 22.—(Special.)—The surprise fever has broken out in Seaside. Following the surprise parties given the teachers of the public school by their pupils, the Sunday school children have become inoculated to the popular malady.

Last night Mrs. E. Robinson, organist at the Methodist Episcopal Church, became the latest victim of the juvenile surprisers. A daughter, Miss Beatrice Robinson, who presides over one of the grades at the public school, was included in the joyful demonstrations of the young people, the majority of whom were members of her class.

Now that each of the school teachers and the pastor of the Methodist Church have had their surprises the children are racking their brains for a new victim. It is reported that city officials are next in line.
