

Ayer, Mrs. George Boyd, of California; Mrs. Solomon Hirsch, Mrs. Richard Koehler, Mrs. Walter V. Smith, Mrs. John Edwards, of Hay Creek, and Mrs. Walter Burns.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Gauld were dinner hosts on Tuesday in compliment to Fred Donald, the Scotch comedian, and Mrs. Donald, or Miss Meta Carson, as she is often known. Additional guests were Miss Genevieve Thompson, Miss Leaburn Gauld, Leland Smith and W. A. Johnson.

In compliment to the popular Miss Evelyn Riegle, who is to be married to Oliver Walker, Mrs. George Beach, a recent bride, gave an afternoon at bridge Wednesday, asking Mrs. Frank Rigler, Mrs. Clifford Marsden, Mrs. Ray Matson, Mrs. James Alexander Ellis, Mrs. R. A. Letter, Mrs. Irving Stearns, Miss Irene Higgins, Miss Bess Allen, Miss Helen Moore, Miss Carolyn Benson, Miss Jane Sterling, Miss Nina Guthrie, Miss Lella Guthrie, Miss Edna Keylor, of Walla Walla; Miss Sabey, of Sturgeon; Miss Imogen Rafferty and Miss Anne Ditchburn. Miss Rigler and Miss Stearns were prizewinners.

Mrs. Wells Gilbert asked a few women in to have a cup of tea with her and Mrs. Thomas Ring, of Seattle, on Friday.

Mrs. G. M. Gilnes, Mrs. Frederick Egeert, Mrs. Robert Lutke, Mrs. George Wait Ross, Mrs. Sarah A. Evans, Mrs. W. Wyn Johnson, Mrs. A. H. Bryman, Mrs. Julia Marsden, Mrs. Levi Young, Mrs. A. S. Dunway and Mrs. Julia Comstock were the guests at a luncheon given at the home of Mrs. A. H. Bryman, on Friday. The guests, with the exception of Mrs. Cleveland Rockwell, who is in the East, are the Portland Woman's Club ex-presidents. Mrs. Newell is the president-elect, taking the place of Mrs. Gilnes.

After the luncheon they went to attend the installation of officers at the club. A flutter of excitement was occasioned by the announcement of the engagement of Miss Grace Warren, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Warren, Sr., to Donald Munroe. The news was made public on Saturday of last week by Mrs. Warren. Miss Warren is a sister of Miss Frances Warren, Frank M. Warren, Jr., and George Warren. Mr. Munroe is a Southerner who recently came here. He is the son of Daniel Munroe, of Washington, D. C. His sister, Miss Grace Munroe, will be remembered as a popular visitor some time ago. She is now Mrs. Alvord. The arrangements for the wedding are very indefinite.

For Miss Nina Jones, of San Francisco and Santa Barbara, Philip Fry asked Miss Jones, Miss Alta Ruhl, Miss Maida Hart, Miss Angela Kinney, Hazelton Dent, Whitney Stinchfield, and Frank Stewart, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Rush, to see Maude Adams at the opening performance of her play.

Many other theater parties were given Monday night to see "What Every Woman Knows." Miss Maud Mastick asked Miss Felling, Miss May Felling, Mr. Story and Mr. Loring, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Corbett, Mrs. C. E. Winlaw, Miss Kathleen Burns, Miss Anita Burns, Jordan Zan and Tom Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Lewis had their guest, Mrs. George Boyd and Miss Sallie Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Shevlin, Mrs. James Armsby and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ladd. With Mrs. Solomon Hirsch went the three Misses Hirsch, Sanford and Francis Hirsch. For Mrs. George Barton, of Chicago, and Mrs. Slate, of Wisconsin, Mrs. Frederick Sanborn was hostess to her honored guests and Mrs. A. A. Morrison and the Misses Morrison. Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Adams asked a few guests, as did Mr. and Mrs. Julius L. Meier.

The luncheon party that was to have been given last Friday at the home of the Bishop, sister of Lieutenant Bishop, at Vancouver Barracks, has been postponed. Miss Bishop was forced to recall the invitations because of a severe illness.

James McEl Wood was a dinner host at the Hotel Portland the middle of the week, and asked Mrs. A. H. Spaul to meet Rear-Admiral Phelps, U. S. N. Admiral Phelps passed through the city on his way to his home in Oakland. He was formerly at the Bremerton Navy-Yard.

Mrs. James McEl Wood gave a luncheon at the Portland Friday in compliment to the Ellicotts' guest, Miss Amelia Putnam, of Philadelphia. Others there were Miss Elliott, Miss Susan Clark, Miss Mabel Shea, Mrs. George Barrows, Miss Lella Shealy, Miss Anita Burns, Miss Sally Hart and Miss Lise Koehler. In the center of the table was a combination of lilacs of the valley and pink and white sweet peas and the place cards were very pink baskets.

Twelve ladies lunched informally with the Misses Henrietta and Mae Felling Monday. Mrs. George A. Boyd, of San Francisco, was the guest of honor.

Mrs. Maus and Mrs. Dalton have just returned to Vancouver Barracks from Skagway, Alaska, where they accompanied General Marion P. Maus and his aide, Lieutenant Arthur T. Dalton. The two ladies and Lieutenant Dalton went on to Nome, where they are to visit the various posts on the Yukon, returning about the middle of July. Part of the trip will be over almost inaccessible trails.

Mrs. F. M. Lacy was hostess at Vancouver Barracks Friday afternoon at a tea given in honor of her mother, Mrs. Cranston, of Detroit. Mich. Thirty women were present.

Judge and Mrs. George J. Cameron entertained Monday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Donald. About 30 guests were invited to meet and converse with those who have made so many friends in Portland. Mrs. Donald is an accomplished pianist and plays the bagpipes with the skill of a professional. Mrs. Cameron served a midnight lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. William Knight are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a baby girl born June 4.

Of interest to the news that Mr. and Mrs. William Castleman are now in New York. Mrs. Castleman was Miss Ethel Shea, a popular Portland girl and sister of Mrs. Irving Stearns and Miss Mabel Shea. Mr. and Mrs. Castleman have been living abroad in Paris and Italy since their marriage and plan to be on the Continent in the winter and in America during the summer in the future. Their trip this year was made for the purpose of attending the wedding of Mr. Castleman's brother to a Lexington, Ky., belle soon.

Miss Ethelwynne M. Glass sails from New York on the Continent on the next Sunday. While in Paris she will be the guest of Mme. Leon J. Bertelot de la Boleverie, 34 rue Rillier, Passy. Mme. Bertelot is a daughter of the late William Beers, president of the New York Life Insurance Company. From Paris Miss Glass and her friends will go by automobile through the chateau district and thence tour Switzerland, Italy, Austria and Germany in easy stages. Some time will be spent in Oberammergau, seeing the Passion Play, and one week will be spent at beautiful Villa Lilly, Berlin, one of the homes of Adolphus Busch, recently appointed member of the Ducal Advisory Council by the Kaiser. The latter part of September Miss Glass will meet the senior class of the Bennett School at Genoa and study with the class under Italian instructors until the middle of December, when the senior class returns to Millbrook, N. Y., finishing the school year there and graduating in June, 1911. Graham Glass, Jr., of Harvard, will also graduate next June. He will not return to Portland this summer, having registered as a student at the Harvard engineering camp in New Hampshire for the summer course.

One of the important weddings of the week was that of Miss Mabel Howe, daughter of Edgar W. Howe, editor of the Atchison Globe and a well-known writer, to Dwight Thompson Farnham. The service was performed at the home of Mrs. C. L. Howe this morning for the summer at 8:30 o'clock Thursday evening. Rev. Roy Edgar Remington read the service. The bride was beautiful for the occasion, being filled with masses of pink roses and the only light diffused by myriads of candles. The bride, gowned in the latest fashions of satin ornamented with Duchesse lace and pearl passementerie, wore a veil of filmy net and a cluster of lilacs-of-the-valley. The same flower in cascades formed a bouquet. About her wrist was the gift of the groom, a gold bracelet studded with topaz, and she was adorned with a pearl necklace, another wedding present. Her mother, gowned in white satin and pearls, gave her away and she was attended by Miss Gail Hetherington in gray. Atchison, Kan., who was in a frock of white chiffon covered with tiny pink roses. She carried Cecil Brunner buds mingled with maidenhair ferns. The best man was Pierce Butler Reynolds, of Pennsylvania.

In the reception that followed, Miss Genevieve Thompson, in white messaline and lace, served in the dining-room, assisted by Misses Helen Hackney and Jeanette Stiles, of Atchison. In the receiving line were Mrs. Howe, Miss Margaretta Frank, of Washington, D. C., who wore black satin with Parisian trimming; Mrs. W. W. Hetherington, of Kansas, who was gowned in green satin veiled with black net and wore emeralds; Mrs. E. K. Blair, who appeared in gray crepe meteor; Mrs. Louis Statter, who was in white crepe and lace, and Mrs. D. Farnham, mother of the groom, who wore gray silk and pearls.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Farnham left amid a shower of roses for their honeymoon trip. Up to this time their destination has been kept a secret. They will travel, probably in the North, for about a month, and then will go to the coast at Van Asselt, just out of Seattle. Miss Howe had been living here for a month since coming from her home town. The Howes were formerly Portland residents and are all literary folk, Miss Howe having

The wedding of Miss Gaeta Ivorda Wold to R. R. Boyer will be an event of Thursday. It will take place at St. David's Church at 8:30 o'clock that evening. Miss Wold is being much complimented before her wedding. Another wedding of the week will be that of Miss Evelyn Rigler to Oliver Walker tomorrow.

Mrs. Orange M. Clark telephoned eight young matrons and maids to take luncheon with her and with Miss Clark on Thursday. The table was unusually attractive. It was covered with an exquisitely embroidered cloth overlaid with pink and graced by an immense bowl of full-blown La France roses. The place cards were Japanese scenes and the favors small silver candlesticks which were lighted through the meal. Later in the afternoon two tables of bridge were played. Mrs. Clark will do some entertaining later this summer before she and Mr. Clark leave for another trip to the Orient. The Clarks have just returned from California.

Another notice concerning the Montgomery family was printed in one of the San Francisco newspapers last Sunday. It spoke of Miss Margaret Montgomery being "a great favorite in San Francisco society," having made frequent visits there. It also mentioned that with her cousin, Lady Johnstone, she was one of the guests at the Maldstone-Drexel wedding.

Although Portland brides and brides-elect are receiving some gorgeous gifts (one having been presented with a handsome automobile the other day), they have good reason to envy the bride of Viscount Maldstone, who was Miss Drexel. Among the lovely things sent to this heroine of an international romance was a chain of matchless diamonds several feet long. This wedding, like many of late, was not so elaborate as originally planned. It is great disappointment to many that because of the death of Edward VII no brilliant affairs will be given for some time to come. This court etiquette affects New York almost as much as London, and has even, to a slight extent, affected the Coast. It is interesting to know that the period of deep mourning is not over until November. Until that time the court mourning for women requires that they be gowned in black even to their fans and ornaments; that orchids, even though lavender, are not permissible, their flowers being limited to Parma violets or Complimentary to Miss Cara Mastick, Mrs. E. O. Dunlap asked a number of matrons and maids to play five hundred Saturday. It was also a novel shower for Miss Mastick, who will become the bride of Harold Howes the last day of the month. The prizes at cards were awarded to Mrs. H. C. Eadert and Miss Alice Dougherty.

Mrs. James Alexander Ellis will give a diaphanous shower for Miss Cara Mastick on Wednesday of this week.

Mrs. James Millard McKinlay, of Oakland, has been very receptive to the entertainment this week, past. On Tuesday noon Mrs. B. F. Weaver asked several women to have lunch at the wistaria tearoom in Mrs. McKinlay's honor. On Thursday Mrs. J. H. Cook had a large bridge luncheon for her, and on Friday Mrs. John Manning had

The eyes of all the social elect and even of those who take little or no interest in the doings of the social set, are focused upon Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., and the New York girl, Miss Eleanor Alexander, who becomes his bride tomorrow. The wedding gown and those of Miss Alexander's maids are said to be marvels of beauty and columns might be written describing her trousseau.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Boschke were hosts Monday night at an Orpheum Theater party and Hotel Portland supper party for Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Metcalf, of Fort Worth, Tex. They asked in addition Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Twoby, Mrs. I. M. Standifer and Miss Ruth Standifer, of Houston, Tex.; Miss Dorothy Newland, Miss Hall on an Eastern journey, they both leaving at the same time as Mrs. Morris Whitehouse. Mrs. Whitehouse has been home for two weeks. Mrs. Houser and Miss Hall came direct from Washington, D. C., after being entertained in both Boston and Philadelphia. One of their brides, Eugenia Townsend was Miss Edith Townsend. Miss Townsend and her brothers lived here a few years ago, but now reside at Bryn Mawr.

Miss Helene Robinson, a bride-elect, will have the members of the Oregon Association of Collegiate Alumnae at her home next Saturday afternoon. This meeting was to have been held yesterday but was postponed a week.

At a pretty tea given by Mrs. J. H. Robinson on Tuesday afternoon, from 3 to 5, the engagement of her daughter, Miss Helene, to Dr. Harry Henderdeshott, was announced. The new bride-elect was announced as each of the guests entered the Robinson home. They were greeted by Mrs. Robinson, in gray crepe de chine, festooned with lace and carrying deep red roses; Mrs. C. V. Little (nee Robinson), of Albany, in multi-colored silk, with touches of burnt orange, and Miss Robinson in yellow crepe over yellow roses and carrying yellow roses. Miss Sadie Noyes met them at the dining-room door, and Miss Helene Henderdeshott invited them in where Mrs. Ralph Lenton poured and Mrs. C. W. Lowe served ices. They were assisted by the Misses Ella Dobbie and Hazel Brown.

The home was prettily decked for the occasion. In the hall and living-room great baskets hung filled with yellow and white marguerites. The same flowers adorned the mantel and tables. In the dining-room the color scheme was pink, bowing to Caroline Testouts being on the table and scattered about the following called: Mrs. George Beach, Mrs. Horace Fenton, Mrs. E. L. Holt (nee Goodrich), Mrs. Roy Henderdeshott, Mrs. Colan Perkins, Mrs. J. F. Sedgwick, Mrs. William Henderdeshott, Mrs. Welch, of Astoria; Mrs. J. B. Clark, of Eugene; Mrs. Frank Wire, and Misses Benson, Gladys Mackenzie, Clara Fishman, Fay and Anna Henderdeshott, Ella Camp, Evelyn Beal, Clara Wour, Evelyn Bigler, Ernestine Heslop, Philomene Barnes, Karle Read, Jean and Mary Gray, Kate Lee, of Seattle; Eva Jenkins, Lois and Vera Parker and Alice McElroy.

Miss Robinson is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Robinson, her father being a prominent man in Masonic circles, she is a sister of Mrs. Littler and Ralph Robinson. Dr. Henderdeshott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Henderdeshott. He is a graduate of the University of Oregon medical department and has lately returned from New York. While in that city he attended medical college and was connected with the Bellevue and Manhattan hospitals. Their wedding will take place in the Fall.

Complimentary to Miss Cara Mastick, Mrs. E. O. Dunlap asked a number of matrons and maids to play five hundred Saturday. It was also a novel shower for Miss Mastick, who will become the bride of Harold Howes the last day of the month. The prizes at cards were awarded to Mrs. H. C. Eadert and Miss Alice Dougherty.

eight tables of bridge in compliment to her. Yesterday a number of women motored out to the Frederick Harlow home in Troutdale to lunch with Mrs. Harlow and play bridge in the afternoon. Incidentally, they were to meet Mrs. McKinlay, who has been a fortnight's guest of the C. E. Runyons. Before Mrs. McKinlay, accompanied by her small son, Millard, returns South the latter part of the week she will be honored several times more. Mrs. W. H. Groh giving a five hundred party for her tomorrow afternoon.

Now that the social news is chiefly concerning weddings, it will be of interest to notice that an English custom is steadily increasing in favor—that of substituting a prayerbook for the bridal bouquet. Most girls dream of carrying bride's roses or the popular combination of mauve orchids and lilies of the valley, but very dainty and far less cumbersome are the velvet or kid-bound prayerbooks, between the leaves of which are sometimes thrust a single white orchid or a rose or a half dozen long-stemmed white violets.

Miss Helen Barber is another college girl who has come home from her alma mater for the summer vacation. Miss Barber is now with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Barber, but will return to Bryn Mawr in September. She is in her junior year there.

Miss Adele Dyott, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Dyott, has come home from Walesley for the summer. During the last year at that institution Miss Dyott was very ill for some time.

Mrs. J. E. Werlein was hostess Friday with 18 tables at bridge.

An enjoyable dancing party of the week was the St. Helen's Hall promenade on Wednesday. This was given in the gymnasium, as were the commencement concert and exercises of the two nights before. The hall was garlanded with roses and marguerites and before midnight supper was served.
