Portland's $10,000 stake offered for a trotting race at the track of the Portland Fair and Livestock Association during the coming race meet is already attracting Eastern horses and drivers. Dick Wilson, one of the most famous trainers in the business, is now at the track with 35 horses.

Wilson is a picturesque figure in American harness-horse circles. He has raced his stables on the Grand Circuit for the past 15 years, but this is the first time that he has brought his horses to the Coast for a Fall meet when the big Eastern tracks are busy. It was Dick Wilson who made a world's record with a team on the Readville track last year, when he drove Hedgewood Boy and Lady Maud C. to pole in 2:02%. Wilson has always enjoyed a reputation as a keen and clever driver, and his many successes on different tracks have caused him to be rated on a par with Ed Geers and the other noted drivers.

Some of the horses Wilson has trained and driven, and the marks they made with him up, are as follows: Alisen Wilson, 2:05%; Courier-Journal, 2:06; Silver Chimes, 2:07%; The Bishop, 2:06; Dick Wilson, 2:08; Byron Kay, 2:03%; William Teil, 2:11%, and many others. Wilson is especially proud of his registered trotting stallion. This horse has sired some of the greatest racing horses in the country. Patchen Boy is a beautiful blue black stallion by Wilkes Boy out of Lady Clay by Metropolitan.

Alex Williams, a promising young

Alex Williams, a promising young trotter and one of Patchen Boy's get, is being carefully handled by Wilson, for he thinks this horse can win the big stake, though this will by no means be the only Wilson entry. Alex Williams has a mark of 2:1234 as a 3-year-old, and has been making 2:16 and better in the morning workouts at the ter in the morning workouts at the track. Ken West, 2:14%, is another promising Wilson entry. The horse is a spirited black beauty of the Patchen strain, and is one of the best-gaited trotters seen on a Portland track in some time.

While Wilson likes the performance of Ken West and Alex Williams, he has another black beauty that promises to be heard from, Lucille Patchen, 2:16, a 4-year-old by Patchen Boy out of Fanny by Beaumont.

Besides handling his own horses and working them on the track each day. Dick Wilson is grooming the entries of a number of Oregon horsemen who have secured his services as trainer to prepare their horses for the Northwestern circuit this Fall. Among the horses Wilson is looking after is Frank E. Alley's Sonoma Boy, a full brother of the famous Sonoma Girl. Sonoma Boy has a mark of 2:05½, and Wilson says he can do better than that. On the strength of his knowledge of pacers, and especially of the Sonoma Girl strain, he expects to pull Sonoma Boy through this Fall with a new mark. Another horse being handled for Frank Alley is Staline, one of the most prom-Alley is Staline, one of the most promising trotters now at the track. Wilson says that Staline's record of 2:22% will be lowered considerably this sea:

Paul Wessinger's Oregon Patch and Dick Hal are also being handled by Wilson, who pronounces both as horses of great promise. Wilson likes to handle horses that have had little or handle horses that have had little or no previous training, and his success with them is remarkable. His work with the Oregon horses thus far is most pleasing to the owners who have placed their entries in his care.

A. C. Lohmire's Arclight, and A. C. Shreve's Rubylight, comprise another pair of likely performers. Both are the get of the famous Searchlight, and Wilson predicts a successful career for have been most agreeably surprised at the number and quality of good horses owned in the Northwest, remarked Wilson the other day. "Be remarked Wilson the other day. 'Before shipping my own horses to Portland I had been led to believe there were few really good horses in this section. I must admit that my informants were either ignorant or misinformed as to the true state of affairs. Oregon and Washington have several high-class performers, horses that would do well in the company of the Grand Circuit, and I am greatly pleased to find such enthusiasm among the to find such enthusiasm among the horsemen as now exists here."

Dick Wilson will race his horses and handle a number of others through the Pacific Northwest Fair Association sea-

H. L. Doherty, the younger of the brothers, is too busy with golf, at which he is a dangerous opponent even for the best of players, to go through the hard course of training which would be necessary before he could be in any kind of shape, while R. held, and it can hardly be said that the promise of material is very great.

It is pretty certain that the men who journeyed to the United States last year as England's representatives will not find a place in the team this year. Last Summer the English selection committee was stumped by the same difficulty which had so often presented itself to the American committee—the impossibility of getting any of the really first-class players to sacrifice the time and money associated with a trip abroad, and, in the event of a win, to Australia.

Thus they were compelled to fall back upon the men who have for some years been near the top, but never quite reached it. C. P. Dixon, Kenneth Powell and J. G. Parke are hardly players representative of the best in English lawn tennis and in contests in England, where it is proposed to hold the preliminary matches this year, they would hardly be considered by the selection committee.

DEVLIN PUNCHES WRONG MAN?

Ball Player Sued by Man He Hit and

Is Suspended.

NEW YORK, June 25.—Arthur Devlin has been indefinitely suspended from the New York Nationals by President Lynch for his attack on a speciator in Brooklyn Thursday. In a statement issued last night President Lynch says:

"While I recognize the fact that provocation for this player's attack on a spectator was great, stille a cannot be allowed to take the law into his own hands. The rules of order and discipline on the ball field allow of no such conduct, and the good repute of the game itself cannot be leopardized by players resenting their grievances in this manner.

"Devlin had redress by appealing to the umpire for protection, who, after

"Devlin had redress by appealing to the umpire for protection, who, after satisfying himself of the identity of the offender, could have insisted on the latter's removal from the grounds, and the game would not have continued until the umpire's orders were obeyed. The payment of an admission fee to a ball game does not permit spectators to abuse the players. In the case of players Doyle and Devore, they are fined $50, because they acted as accessories where they might have been better employed as peacemakers."

Devlin was made defendant today in a civil suit for $5000 damages, brought by Bernard J. Roessler, a Brooklyn garage keeper, who charges that Devlin knocked him out for seven minutes with a right swing to the jaw, while he was watching the New York-Brooklyn game yesterday.

Roessler insists that the man for whom the swing was meant sat directly behind him. This man, he says, had been calling Devlin names, but when the ballplayer reached the box seat subsided, and Devlin punched Roessler by mistake. Roessler today swore out a warrant for Devlin's arrest.

"Dode" Paskert, one of Cincinnati's outfielders has usurped the lead among the batsmen of the National League, for the Red Stocking hit the ball often enough recently to pass Sherwood Magee, the Philadephia slugger who has enjoyed the premiership for several weeks. Hoffman of the Cubs, and Wheat of Brooklyn are also well up among the hit-ters of the old league. Larry McLean, the former Portland catcher, continues to hit at a goodly mark, and is also among the leading batsmen of the old circuit. The averages of the National League players up to a recent date are as fol-

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Or., June 25.—(Special.)—George Schildmiller, of Dartmouth, and last year head coach of the University of Maine, has been selected as coach of the Oregon Agricultural College football team for the coming season. Mr. Schildmiller played four years on the Andover team before entering Dartmouth, where he was a member of the football team at that school for three, years, and was the choice of all critics for a place on the All-American team.
