Outlaws Shoot Down Manufacturer and Policeman on Street and Are Surrounded in Park-Citizen

Is Also Badly Wounded.

LYNN, Mass., June 25 .- After killing Thomas A, Landregan, a shoe manufac-turer, and James Carroll, a policeman, on the streets of Lynn today, three young Russian Poles were all caught or killed. The double murder was committed for robbery, the trio carrying off a sack containing $6000.

containing $5000.

Within two hours, one of the Poles was killed, a second was captured, probably fatally wounded, and the third surrendered. In trying to escape the outlaws wounded Abraham Lyons, a citizen walking in the park where they were hidden.

The name of the wounded robber is Andy Abson, of New York, according to his statement to the police. The name of the highwayman who was killed is not known, but the third man said he was "Bill" Kovansky, of Boston. Inspector Morrissey, of the Boston Police Department, later said Kovansky was one of the Jamaica Plains outlaws, who held that suburb of Boston in terror held that suburb of Boston in terror two years ago. Two persons were killed in the fight at Jamaica Plains.

Robbers Run Up Behind.

Mr. Landregan, accompanied by the policeman, was returning from the Lynn National Bank to the factory of Welch & Landregan, of which he was one of the proprietors, and was carrying in a bag $6000, the weekly payroll of the factory.

As the pair neared the factory on Willow street three robbers ran up behind them and opened fire at close range. One of the trio seized the bag of money, and at almost the same instant Mr. Landregan fell dead with a bullet through his neck. Carroll dropped mortally wounded, and the robbers ran up the street, heading for High Rock, a city park. After reaching the hill the men separated.

In the meantime a crowd estimated at 1000 persons started in pursuit. Many were in automobiles, and practically all came to grief.

One of the three highwaymen died in an ambulance, as the result of a bullet wound in the head. He had been repeatedly shot at by the police, but the indications when his body was dragged from a clump of bushes on Granite street, were that he had sent a bullet from his own revolver through his brain.

Man Caught Is Slayer. Kovansky surrendered to the police a short distance from where the second man was shot. Kovansky has been iden-tified as the man who killed Landregan.

When Kovansky was brought to the police station several hundred shoe factory employes attacked him, knocked him down and beat and kicked him. Several of the policemen were roughly handled in endeavoring to protect Kovansky, who was finally dragged into the station.

The wounded robber at the Lynn hospital, during an interval of consciousness, gave his name and address as follows:

Andy Abson, 23 East Thirty-second street, New York City.

Previously the police understood the man who died in the ambulance was named "Abba Anson," but through an interpreter the robber at the hospital said that the name given was meant for his own. The identity of the dead wan is his own. The identity of the dead man is

ROSTAND TALKS TO GIRLS

Author of "Chantleleer" Speaks to Paris Young Women.

PARIS, June 18.-(Special.)-Whether "Chanticleer" required it or not, Edmond Rostand has delivered a sort of apologia of his play before an audience of school-lighting them by reading some passages himself. He is a clever elocutionist, with a flexible and rich-toned voice, and some who heard him said that it was the poet who should have played his own "Chanti-cleer." He talked to the women about his fourth act, and explained that the only crities who could object to the blackbird's puns and the toads' chorus were writers whom, so to speak, the cap

"Chanticleer" himself derided and at-tacked the blackbird. As for the toads, M. Rostand read the scene himself with great gusto and effect. "I do not know whether the scene seems obscure to you, ladies," he said, "I believe some critics understand it only too clearly."

On getting up to speak, he remarked that he came not among guinea-fowls, but, at any rate, among birds who knew how to receive poets. The birds twitters. tered applause for several minutes. Be-fore leaving, he gave the young women some symbolic advice: "You will be golden pheasants yourselves tomorrow, whom chanticleers will obey. Take a lesson from my lines and do not make a scene when chanticleer feels poetic and idealistic, as my heroine did."
