Grillage of Old Madison Bridge Pier Floats to Surface After Big Tramp Is Moved From

Unconvinced that the big tramp River-dale suffered no material damage in crashing against the submerged residue crashing against the submerged residue, of the Madison-street draw pler, orders were issued last evening by the underwriters for diving operations to be continued today. As with the work Friday, nothing was discovered yesterday to indicate the tramp had been damaged sufficiently to class her as unseaworthy. A steel frame about four feet wide, and as long as the Riverdale's beam, was risged yesterday as staging, planking being placed crossules and lashed. After being heavily weighted it was lowered over the side and hauled beneath the vessel so that the ends projected beyond the bilge on port and starboard. On that the diver worked, and he examined the hall from where she struck to the stern. Water was also discharged from the ballast tanks so that the examination could be conducted as thoroughly as possible, and by means of a heavy timber the tramp was held away from the North Bank dock to take advantage of deeper water.

A surprise was reported in the case of the Riverdale in the morning when the grillage, on which the bridge pier was built, floated to the surface and was found near the foot of Main street, where it was later moored. It is said that when the pier was blasted away, shots were placed in the riverhed that loosened the foundation, but for some reason all of it was not removed. The theory is that it was loosened and had worked from its position when struck by the Riverdale, which forced the grillage on its side, as it was heavily bolted, and was held there until the tramp's cargo was sufficiently removed to give her buoyancy. It chanced that George Tilden, a diver employed by the bridge contractors diver employed by the bridge contractors to examine the obstruction, was in charge of the work when the old pier was con-

CALIFORNIA TRADE INCREASES

Portland Sends 3,777,000 Feet More Lumber Than in July, 1909.

Shipments of Oregon forest products from Portland in July reached 23,271.032 feet, of which 10,751,000 feet represented the total sent to California, 4,474,000 feet being destined for San Pedro. The coastwise movement was 2,772,000 feet in excess of the shipments for July, 1203.

The total foreign shipments amounted to 12.520.032 feet, valued at $152.702. In June the exports aggregated 14.537.178 feet, valued at $177.641, but in July of last year 13.545.367 feet, valued at $126.818 was shipped, a larger measurement than this month with a smaller valuation.

Two lots of wheat were dispatched, the Brilish bark Iverns taking to the United Kingdom 126,433 bushels, worth $103,100, while the Oriental liner Hercules has $140 bushels. In July 1996, there were no grain cargoes cleared and but one lot of flour, containing 375 barrels, though this month the Hercules carried 25,155 barrels, worth $117,702. He says it was clear when she struck. When the vessel reaches here she will be equipped with a new propeller and is to sail Wednesday night.

Yucatan Bids Reach Lloyd's.

Bids for repairs to the steamer Yucatar now at Victoria, where she was towed after being raised in Alaskan waters, were yesterday reported to have been received by Lloyd's at London, where they will be considered. It is not im-probable that the ambiguous specifica-tions will be adjusted so that the owners and insurance interests will reach ar understanding, in which event the con-tract for repairs will no doubt be awarded the Willamette Iron & Stee Works, which filed the lowest bid.

Oregon Hops Are in Need of an Early Rain.

ESTIMATE, 100,000 BALES

Yield Will Be Cut Down Unless Yards Receive Moisture in Next Week or

The Oregon hop crop needs rain. It is not actually suffering, but unless there is moisture soon, the yield will probably be cut down. Reports from several sec-tions on both the East and West Side yesterday were that the vines in spots were eginning to turn yellow and otherwis showing the effect of the long dry spell The general estimate of the crop now stands at 100,000 bales. Unless there is a good rain in the next week or two, some hop authorities believe the crop will be no larger than last year's. The latest estimates of the California crop range from 77,000 to 80,000 bales. Washington is expected to produce about 20,000 bales. The New York crop is placed at 35,000 to 40,000 bales.

No business was reported in the local or Salem markets yesterday, but the rumors of exporters trying to buy were reiterated. As yesterday was a holiday in England, no cables came through. New York crop conditions are reported by papers of that state as follows: Hops are now coming from the blow into the burr and the principal complaint is as to lack of arms. The drouth exinto the burr and the principal complaint is as to lack of arms. The drouth extending over the past four weeks is responsible for this. There is general freedom from vermin and yards have, on the whole been well worked. Hops withstand protracted dry weather better than almost any othe crop; yet rain is badly needed.—Cobbleskill Index.

Frequent rains have benefitted the growing crop during the past few days and to all appearances the crop is coming on nicely. All concede, however, that this year will see a light crop throughout the entire state. There has been quite an active demand for hops during the past week and numerous buyers have been in town looking up the few remaining lots. About 150 bales were bought here during the past week, for which 20 cents was paid except in one instance. These were not choice hops in any particular. The better grades are still held above the market. According to an estimate recently made by several of our dealers there are now believed to be not to exceed 1500 bales still unsold in this state. This is an almost unheard of condition, as usually at this time there are twice that amount.

NEW YORK. July 30.—The reactionary tendency from the rebound which developed in yesterday's stock market became more pronounced today under the play of the same forces of profit-taking on the rise and the sat-isfied demand of the reduced short inisfled demand of the reduced short interest. The Pearson syndicate settlement also lost some of its influence on speculative sentiment. A fresh the feeling of apprehension over the tive liquidation in stocks.

The closing of the London Stock Exchange for today and Monday deprived the New York market of one source of its recent strength. Large shipments of securities bought for London ments of securities bought for London account during the week are going forward by steamers. It is believed that the week's syndicate settlements with the foreign participants are an added influence on this movement. The effect is shown in the downward course of the foreign exchange rate, which points to a continuance of the import movement of gold.

A reduction of $230 cars in the idle surplus for two weeks ending July 20, reported by the American Railway Association, was a favorable development of the day.

The agreement by the cotton shipping railroads upon a plan for validation of bills of lading for cotton shipments is believed to meet the requirements of foreign bankers for the advancement of funds on such bills to finance the cotton movement.

NEW YORK BANKS ADD TO THEIR RESERVES.

Heavy Expansion in Deposits and Also in Loans-Showing of the Trust Companies.

NEW YORK, July 30 .- The Financier will

While the associated banks of New York City made a further large gain in cash, the statement on Saturday reporting the amount reserve increased only $1,207,300 owing to the heavy expansion of $29,002,400 in deposits. This counteracted the effect of the cash gain. The increase in deposits was due for the most part to a rise of $20,383.-900 in loans.

An explanation of the unexpected loan expansion is probably to be found in the stock exchange incident which involved the taking over by a new syndicate of the ex tensive holdings of the crowd of speculators who had been trying unsuccessfully to buy tensive holdings of the crowd of speculators who had been trying unsuccessfully to buy control of a number of well known lines. In this connection, however, it is interesting to note the loans of the trust companies and state banks fell during the week $21.104.100 which corresponds almost exactly with the increase reported in the loans of the clearing house banks. The trust company contraction was no doubt responsible in part for the rise in loans of the clearing house banks.

The outside institutions also reported a decrease of about $1,500,000 in cash and a decrease of about $1,500,000 in net deposits. Still, even with the demands made upon them, the banks closed the week stronger than before, the present surplus above the 25 per cent logal reserve standing at $47,226,000. In view of this showing, it need hardly be added. Friday's organization of a National currency association by the New York National banks was purely a formal and perfunctory proceeding.

The statement of averages of the clearing-house banks for the week shows that the banks hold $48,511,925 more than the requirements of the 25 per cent reserve rule. This is an increase of $8,198,500 in the proportionate cash reserve as compared with last week. The statement follows:

Loans $1,181,400,200 $8,504,700

Loans $1,191,400,200 $8,940,700
Deposits 1,207,882,700 22,877,900
Circulation 48,448,500 120,300

Reserve required 301,970,675 5,719,400
Sav.U. 8. deposits 48,621,625 8,198,500

*Decrease.
The percentage of actual reserve of the clearing-bouse banks today was 28.92.
The statement of banks and trust companies of Greater New York not reporting to the clearing-bouse shows:

FRUIT TRADE IS HEAVY

ACTIVE DEMAND FOR ALL LINES | HIGH GRADE

Butter Firmer Because of the Coming Advance at Portland-Lower Wheat Prices Expected.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 30.—(Special.)— Trade in fruit today was enormous. More peaches, plums, watermelons and cantaloupes were moved than during any two other days this week. Prices were not materially different than yesterday, although soft fruits were closed out at low prices.
The demand for cots appears to be about over and shipments are failing off.
More than half of the three cars of Iowa cabbage that reached the street yesterday had been disposed of this afternoon. Several large lots were shipped out of town.
The price ranged from 3 to 3½ cents.
Yakima freesione peaches are expected in the market next week. It is not known yet what price they will command. SEATTLE, Wash., July 30.-(Special)- yet what price they will command.

The butter market was strong today. The announcement of an advance at Portland added much to the strength of the local market. Dealers here are opposed to putting the price up again next week, but may be forced to do so on account of the activity of the Portland cream buyers. The cream supply has held its own here this week.

week.

Eggs were steady and unchanged. Poultry receipts were in excess of the demand.

The grain buyers held strongly to the view that farmers will offer wheat at lower prices next week, and for that reason the local market was quiet. Prices, however, were nominally unchanged.
